2D PEACE PLEA SENT TO HITLER BY ROOSEVELT

Proposes Parley to Save Humanity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight sent a second appeal to Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany to avoid a new world war as a result of his Czechoslovakian demands. He suggested an immediate conference at a neutral spot in Europe of all the nations directly interested.

The President said he spoke on behalf of the people of the United States in an effort to avoid war.

Mr. Roosevelt's first appeal, last Sunday night, was addressed to Hitler and to President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, with copies to the British and French governments. Tonight's dramatic plea was addressed to Hitler alone.

Answer to Hitler's Reply.

The latest message, which was sent to Berlin at 9 o'clock, Chicago time, was in answer to Hitler's reply to the President's first peace appeal. In that reply the chancellor pointed to what he called the historical mistakes of the Versailles treaty.

As in the case of the Sunday night message, tonight's plea was drafted after a night conference with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier and head of the war industries board during the world war, and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles were present at tonight's conference.

Reporters were called to the state department and copies of the message were handed out without comment behind locked doors.

Shortly afterward the appeal was read over the major radio networks in the United States and translations were broadcast by short wave to European countries.

Text of Appeal Given.

The text of the message follows:

"I desire to acknowledge your excellency's reply to my telegram of Sept. 26. I was confident that you would coincide in the opinion I expressed regarding the unforeseeable consequences and the incalculable disaster which would result to the entire world from the outbreak of a European war.

"The question before the world today, Mr. Chancellor, is not the question of errors of judgment or of injustices committed in the past. It is the question of the fate of the world today and tomorrow. The world asks of us who at this moment are leads of nations the supreme capacity to achieve the destinies of nations without forcing upon them as a price the mutilation and death of millions of citizens.

Pleads for Negotiation.

"Resort to force in the great war failed to bring tranquility. Victory and defeat were alike sterile. That lesson the world should have learned. For that reason above all others I addressed on Sept. 26 my appeal to your excellency and to the president of Czechoslovakia and to the prime ministers of Great Britain and France.

"The two points I sought to emphasize were, first, that all matters of difference between the German government and the Czechoslovak government could and should be settled by pacific methods; and, second, that the threatened alternative of the use of force on a scale likely to result in a general war is as unnecessary as it is unjustifiable. It is, therefore, supremely important that negotiations should continue without interruption until a fair and constructive solution is reached.

Now Near Agreement.

"My conviction on these two points is deepened because responsible statesmen have officially stated that an agreement in principle has already been reached between the government of the German reich and the government of Czechoslovakia, although the precise time, method, and detail of

Moscow Masses Two Armies for Invasion of Poland; Warsaw Wavers Under Threat

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 27.—While the Russian general staf has completed plans to attack Germany through an invasion of Poland in event of a German attack on Czechoslovakia, serious dissension has arisen in Polish ruling circles. The threatened Russian move has weakened the position of the Polish government and opposition to its pro-German policy has increased.

In White Russia and Ukrania two armies have been formed by the Red forces. They would attack through the Vilna corridor toward East Prussia and across Polish Galicia toward Czechoslovakia. These soviet armies are depending upon receiving assistance from White Russian and Ukrainian populations in the Polish provinces. There are also plans to form a Polish Red army to assist the soviet attack on Germany. [See map on back page.]

Soviet Council Hears Plans.

An authoritative source provided information that the council of people's commissars met Sunday in Moscow with leaders of the general staf to hear the report of Marshal Kliementi E. Voroshilov, soviet commissar of war. This dealt with Russian war preparations on the western front.

All railroads in Ukrainia and White Russia have been militarized and are operated by Red army detachments.

Three hundred thousand workers and peasants have been conscripted to speed work on White Russia fortifications and 200,000 are similarly employed in Ukrainia. Special efforts are under way to complete a great concrete highway, in places 160 feet wide, from Moscow to Minsk. It is planned to use the wide sections as soviet air fleet landing fields.

3,000 Planes Ready.

The special armies for the attack on Poland consist of ten divisions each. There are 12,000 men in each division. Each army has a tank division with 1,300 tanks. There are two cavalry corps, each numbering 25,000 men.

Three thousand planes, available for immediate action, include one, two and three motored bombers, the average top speed of which is reported to be 220 miles an hour.

Headquarters is Smolensk, which has the largest air field in Russia. Gen. Loktinov is chief of the air force. The underground arsenal at this airport will house a huge store of bombs, including poison gas bombs. These are of four types—phosgene, mustard, cyanide, and a new secret gas which the army calls "death."

Youths Called to Army.

Marshal Voroshilov is reported to have asked immediate partial mobilization of the Red army reserves. The council rejected this request. Instead, classes of youths due for military service in the next two years are being called for training.

Meanwhile in Poland President Ignacy Moscicki and Foreign Minister Joseph Beck are believed determined to continue their policy of coöperation with Germany and demand their bit of Czech territory even if it means war with Russia.

"Strong Man" Wavers.

But Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, Poland's "strong man," is said to be wavering between the president's group and the powerful opposition existing among higher officers of the army.

Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski is the most outspoken opponent of the pro-German policy. About him has gathered a number of other important generals.

The feeling of panic in Warsaw is growing. The city is the most poorly protected capital against air raids in Europe. Gas masks, which are rare, have been made the object of secret trading among speculators. They are asking fantastic prices, ranging from $20 to $30 each.

BRITAIN ORDERS NAVY TO MOBILIZE; PREPARE! CHAMBERLAIN TO EMPIRE

Urges Nation to Get Ready to Fight as He Seeks Peace.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The British admiralty tonight announced the immediate mobilization of the entire navy. The admiralty announcement said the decision was made "as a purely precautionary measure."

Men serving in the royal fleet reserves and royal naval reserves were ordered to report at their depots tomorrow morning without waiting for individual summonses.

Little Hope for Peace.

This sensational announcement closely followed a speech broadcast to all corners of the world by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in which he called upon the British empire to prepare for war if fight it must.

Chamberlain said he would try for peace "until the last moment," but he held out little hope of further mediation with Reichsfuehrer Hitler, who demands a slice of Czechoslovakia by Saturday.

King Declares Emergency.

As Chamberlain's six minute speech went out on the air King George VI. of Great Britain and the privy council decreed the nation in a "state of emergency." The nation immediately started rushing preparations for war with dramatic thoroughness.

The admiralty decision was announced just before midnight after a late night meeting of the cabinet.

The royal fleet reservists allocated to the submarine service were ordered to go direct to Fort Blockhouse at Gosport, submarine headquarters adjoining Portsmouth, Britain's largest and most powerful naval base.

Others to Get Orders.

"All other naval reservists and pensioners will receive individual summonses in event of their services being required," the admiralty said.

The order affected royal fleet reserves, Class B, composed of men trained in the battleship and royal fleet reserve submarine service. The royal naval reserve is composed mostly of men trained in small ships other than submarines.

May Take Over Liners.

The admiralty refused to confirm or deny reports that the navy was commandeering the Canadian Pacific Steamship company liner Empress of Australia, the Cunard White Star liner Queen Mary, and other merchant ships.

(In Montreal Canadian Pacific Steamship company officials said advices had been received from London stating the admiralty had taken over the Empress of Australia "temporarily" The 21,000 ton liner arrived at Southampton

PARIS, Sept. 28 (Wednesday, 9:15 a. m.).—Perhaps only 24 hours from war, France awoke this morning hailing the new Roosevelt appeal to Adolf Hitler to preserve the peace of Europe. It followed only a few hours after Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement to the British empire.

The French press hailed the note as a "moving poignant appeal," but it is not confident of its effect on Hitler. The French officials were more hopeful, however, of the effect of the President's note, believed inspired in Washington after Ambassador Bullitt had conferred with Premier Daladier shortly before midnight.

Berlin Waits Edict for Marshaling of All Forces.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 28 (Wednesday).—Germany last night issued a new ultimatum. Adolf Hitler's government warned that unless it received a reply stating that Czechoslovakia would start evacuating the Sudetenland at 2 o'clock this afternoon (7 a. m. central standard time), "appropriate measures would be taken."

From statements made by prominent Nazis, foreigners in Berlin gathered that Germany will—should she not receive the concessions she demands—order the mobilization of all German forces.

May Mobilize Today.

There was talk in well informed Berlin circles of an impending general mobilization at noon today. Official confirmation was not available, as was to be expected.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, issued a call for a huge massmeeting in the Lustgarten today. He himself will speak. At this meeting Goebbels will announce mobilization, said Germans who yesterday saw thousands of troops move out of Berlin and who know that many friends have been called to the colors within the last few weeks and days.

Premier Mussolini's words that "war is inevitable" and that he will "fight on the side of Germany," which the Germans said he delivered last night, added to the general fear that war is imminent.

Vision Czechs' Doom.

Nazi circles boasted openly: "If Benes (President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia) fails to do the Fuehrer's wish Czechoslovakia will be wiped out in three days.

"That will end all the talk about guarantees and obligations resulting from her alliances. France, the little entente (Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia), and Russia would not have to worry about their treaty obligations because there simply would not be any Czechoslovakia left to which one could have obligations."

It was assumed in diplomatic circles that this threatening talk was adopted in an effort to further intimidate Czechoslovakia and induce her to accept the terms dictated by Hitler. Nevertheless, prominent Nazis spoke glowingly of "a war plan worthy of a genius of Napoleon's size that would end the misfit born of the Versailles treaty—Czechoslovakia."

Fix Points of Attack.

"It is self-evident that should Germany be compelled to fight Czechoslovakia the attack would not be centered against Sudetenland because that would mean destruction of what we consider German territory," they added.

"The attack would start simultaneously on all sides, but the emphasis would be placed on the Silesian-Czechoslovak and the former Austrian-Czechoslovak border as well as on the Hungarian - Czechoslovak - Austrian corner on the Danube."

Cry "We Will Follow."

Thousands of Germans in mass-meetings throughout the nation last night proclaimed anew the slogan of the hour: "Fuehrer, command us! We will follow you!"

In Hamburg a hundred thousand Germans heard Nazi leaders say: "Germany is resolved to end the suffering of our comrades in Sudeten Germany."

Hundreds of thousands more in Vienna, Breslau, Bremen, Duesseldorf, Karlsruhe and many other towns and villages were exhorted to: "Follow faithfully the Fuehrer's guidance."

Troops moved out of Berlin toward the southeast. For hours the capital's trafic was congested. Thousands waited for a chance to cross Unter den Linden, the Wilhelmstrasse and other main streets, while motorized infantry, tanks, field artillery, anti-aircraft guns, field kitchens, armored cars and motorcycles with side cars and machine guns and military units of all descriptions were lumbering by.

A Show of Force.

A vast number of troops and military vehicles filed by the British embassy. They could have driven by two abreast and at a smart clip—the way they did in the Nuremberg military parade where they proudly displayed the speed of their military units. Instead they went by in single file at very low speed as if they intended to show themselves to the British.

It always has been the custom of the German army to keep troops out of big cities as much as possible and to move then through the suburbs.

Yesterday they held the center of attention in the heart of Berlin. Airplanes kept roaring overhead as if they were on duty scanning the horizon for a possible enemy. The license plates on military vehicles were covered up to make it impossible to establish from where they came.

Trucks Move Out At Dawn.

On Monday night the fashionable Grunewald district was the rallying point for thousands of trucks and motorcycles on which military numbers were placed. The vehicles moved out of the capital in the direction of Dresden before dawn.

Yesterday all eyes in Germany were centered on the chancellery in Berlin, where Hitler was charting his future course. Feverish activity reigned in the war office, in the air ministry, and the headquarters of the chief of the Hitler Guards.

In the foreign office, which had boasted of its optimism until last night, anxiety was evident as one ambassador, one minister after the other came scurrying for last minute conferences with officials who are responsible for Germany's relations with other countries.

They confessed to foreign friends that their knowledge was restricted—that all important news centers in the German chancellery.

British Courier Sees Hitler.

England's courier extraordinary, Sir Horace Wilson, who flew to Berlin Monday to convey a message from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to Hitler before the latter's speech, had a second meeting with Hitler yesterday noon.

Wilson was reported to have been given a stormy reception by Hitler. The courier was said to have had a hard time getting a word in edgewise.

The British said that Wilson conveyed a message to the Fuehrer reiterating England's assurance that she pledged herself to enforce the cession of Sudetenland to Germany. Prague agreed to surrender the territory under the French-British plan after the Berchtesgaden conference between Hitler and Chamberlain.

Charge Czechs Rob Area.

German papers charged that the Sudeten areas are being "systematically plundered" by the Czechs.

The papers said all textile factories and spinning mills in Braunau were closed because the Czechs had removed "thousands of cotton bales" to the districts inhabited by Czechs. Similar charges were reported from Gablonz, Reichenberg, Trautenau, and Nachod.

German reports said that small handicraftsmen were deprived of their shops and tools. It was charged that all cattle and horses belonging to villagers near the border were seized.

"Even the last cows and goats of the peasants were not spared," dispatches said.

Plan Air Defense Corps.

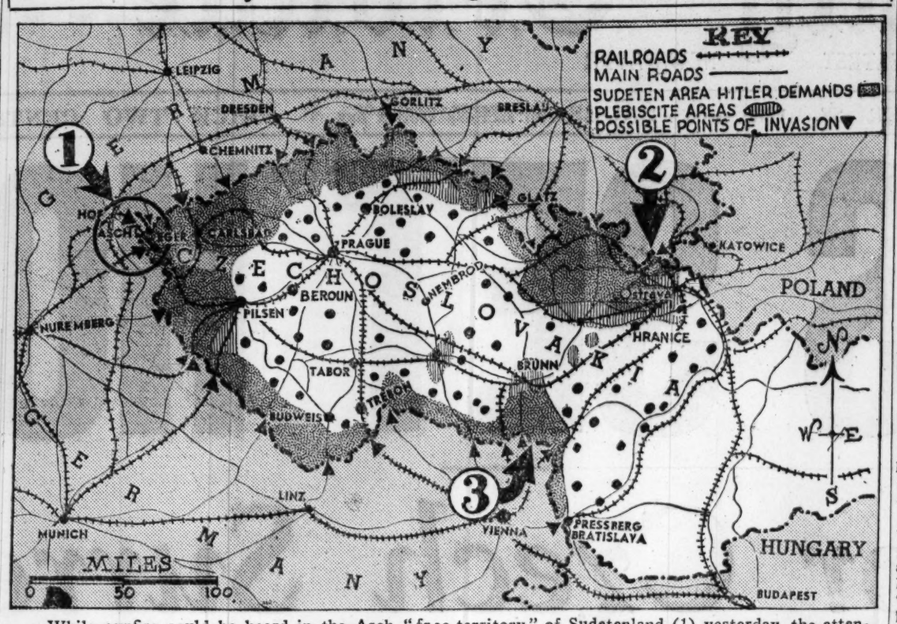
The Berlin police president meanwhile announced that a great number of citizens will be called up by the police for air defense duty in the near future.

They will be called upon to act as "air defense wardens." Every house in Berlin is to have such a warden. He will instruct the tenants in their duties in case of an air raid.

Most Englishmen of military age were pulling out of the German capital yesterday. Correspondents of most English papers were ordered by their home offices to quit Berlin. The British embassy was issuing gas masks to its members and friends who remained in Berlin.

Trains leaving for The Netherlands, Belgium and Denmark were two and a half hours late.

How Germany Would Strangle Czech Communications



While gunfire could be heard in the Asch "free territory" of Sudetenland (1) yesterday, the attention of Czechoslovakia was directed toward a possible speedy pincer movement by Germany (arrows 2 and 3) which would isolate western Czechoslovakia. How this move would strangle that huge and wealthy area's communications is indicated by the routes of the main railways and highways. Important cities are indicated by the dots inside the area. More than half of Czechoslovakia, including the capital, Prague, would thus be bottled up and rendered ineffective.

CANADA IN COMPLETE ACCORD WITH BRITISH STAND, SAYS PREMIER

OTTAWA, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said tonight the Canadian government was "making preparations for any contingency and for the immediate summoning of parliament if the efforts still being made to preserve the peace of Europe fail."

After a cabinet council lasting nearly seven hours the prime minister said "the government is in complete accord with the statement of Mr. Chamberlain made to the world today."

"For our country to keep united is all-important," Mackenzie King said. "To this end, in whatever we say or do, we must seek to avoid creating controversies or divisions which might seriously impair effective and concerted action when parliament meets."

LEAGUE AGREES UPON SANCTIONS AGAINST JAPAN

GENEVA, Sept. 27. — (AP) — The Czechoslovak-German crisis helped Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's league of nations' delegate, win an agreement today from British and French representatives that league punitive powers were applicable against Japan.

The Chinese delegate won a favorable vote of the league council by making China's appeal the precedent for a possible appeal by Czechoslovakia against threatened German aggression.

Moreover, China appeared to have a good chance of persuading the British and French—by pointing to the present crisis—that they should carry out some form of punishment against Japan under article 17 of the league covenant.

Even the British and French said Koo played one of the "cleverest diplomatic games" ever seen at Geneva. Article 17 under which he asked for action provides for punishment of an aggressor which is not a member of the league—the same article under which Czechoslovakia would have to appeal against any German aggression.

PRAGUE RUSHES PREPARATIONS TO RESIST GERMANY

Border Forts Fully Manned by Army.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 27. —(AP)—Behind darkened windows, the Czechoslovak cabinet met tonight with clocks ticking off the minutes leading up to "Der Tag" [the day]—Saturday—and expiration of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's ultimatum. All indications were that the Czechs will resist a German invasion.

It was decided that Gen. Jan Syrovy, who became premier last week, would make a radio address tomorrow, name day of St. Wenceslaus, patron saint of Bohemia.

Premier Syrovy has a strong hold on the popular imagination. He was the general who led 70,000 Czech soldiers in an epic march across Russia to the Pacific and thence around the world to fight against Germany on the western front in the world war.

Cardinal Asks for Prayers.

After tonight's cabinet meeting a foreign office spokesman said of today's radio address by Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain:

"Chamberlain's speech is considered as the very last effort to maintain peace. Chamberlain went to the extreme limit to which man can go."

Cardinal Kaspar issued an appeal to all Roman Catholics to pray for peace, and tonight women laid flowers at the foot of St. Wenceslaus' monument in Prague's main thoroughfare.

On guard against a possible air raid, Czechoslovakia was blacked out, with only powerful searchlights brushing the skies after dusk.

President Eduard Benes and the cabinet ministers studied Chamberlain's address, and also scanned reports on large scale war preparations as troop trains continued to rattle toward Czechoslovakia's twisting borders.

All Physicians Mobilized.

Anti-aircraft batteries studded the hills surrounding the capital. Swift pursuit planes, tuned for takeoffs at a moment's notice, waited at nearby air fields.

All physicians and medical students were mobilized.

And yet through the whole nightmarish structure people were keeping perfect discipline. A sense of impending disaster forged political dissenters into a firm defense front.

Deputy Sidor, a Slovak autonomist who until recently was an extreme dissenter, made a declaration of loyalty to the coalition government. Sidor wrote in the party paper:

Further support came from the Association of German Democratic Youth in Czechoslovakia. This organization sent President Benes a letter saying it was ready to fight for the integrity of Czechoslovakia, and it congratulated the country's leaders on the measures already taken.

Their offers of military service, however, were not needed, now, for it was stated officially the army cannot accept any more volunteers at the moment.

The ranks are filled to their present capacity, and trains carrying recruits in their new uniforms to the frontiers were jammed. Frontier fortifications are fully manned.

Weeping wives, mothers, and sweethearts accompanied their menfolk as far as possible. Above the clattering of wheels soldiers' songs could be heard as unlighted trains sped through the night.

Soldiers were served coffee and bread at stations en route by Red Cross nurses. Railway cars were chalked with signs reading:

"Long live Benes, Syrovy, and the army! We won't cede an inch of our territory! Soviet Russia will help us!"

Prague was dark tonight. Air raiders would have trouble finding this capital.

Merchants pasted long strips of paper across their store windows. If the windows were broken by air raiders' explosives, the paper would keep splinters of glass from flying.

In many parts of the city workmen dug long, zig-zag trenches as havens for citizens who might not have time to reach gasproof and bombproof shelters.

Gasoline Is Rationed.

A card system for rationing gasoline was introduced. Owners of private automobiles were allowed enough for about 40 miles of travel a day. They could buy four days' allowances at a time.

Czechoslovakia was storing up a gasoline reserve. Importation of fuels and oil was greatly increased. Much of it came from Rumania, an ally of Czechoslovakia in the little entente.

The reduction of trafic in Prague's streets was evident. Most automobiles and trucks were being used by soldiers and officials on government business.

The Rumanian general, J. Anastasiu, followed the example of Gen. Louis Eugene Faucher, former chief of the French military mission in Prague, and placed himself at the disposition of the Czechoslovakia army.

Workers on Military Basis.

Another government measure placed many categories of workers on a national defense basis—somewhat the status of soldiers.

They may not be discharged, they may not leave their homes without permission. In the defense industries, quitting your job is virtually the same as deserting from the army and the penalties are severe.

Some of the industries thus nationalized were the gas works, box and barrel factories, saw-mills, transport services for freight and persons, electric works, live stock raising, drug production and sale, sanitation services, hospitalization and radio services.

ASCH, HOPING FOR PEACE, PREPARES ITSELF FOR WAR

City Expects Czech Last Minute Surrender.

ASCH, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Asch "free territory" of Sudetenland dug in today to await expiration Saturday of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's ultimatum to Prague.

"Three more days!" was a phrase heard often today in the fingerlike territory thrust into Germany from Czechoslovakia. They cling to the belief that the Czechoslovak government will give in five minutes before the deadline.

The farmsteads and hamlets in this "no-man's-land" between the Sudeten German and Czechoslovak lines are almost wholly evacuated. Residents have proclaimed Asch and vicinity a "free territory," and Czech authorities have not attempted to re-take it.

German Line Deserted.

At Voitersreuth, in the northern end of the "free territory," the Sudeten Germans' line was deserted. The village was defended by volunteers and members of the Sudeten German "free corps" organized in Germany by Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German party leader, whose home is in Asch.

Voitersreuth used to be a station for both the German and Czechoslovak customs services, where all trains from Berlin and Plauen bound for inner Czechoslovakia were halted.

The front line, however, remained about where it has been since Sunday. It runs from near Voitersreuth, in the north, across the main Asch-Eger highway at Antonien, through Seeberg to the Bavarian border between Liebenstein and Muehlbach.

Gunfire Continues.

Sporadic machine gun and rifle fire could be heard along the southern flank throughout last night and today. This came from outposts, where shots were fired as the opposition changed positions. No casualties were reported on the Sudeten German side.

Henlein made a hurried inspection trip here yesterday, after which he returned to Germany, leaving Deputy Karl Frank on the front as his personal representative.

BRITAIN STRENGTHENS HER DEFENSES ALONG SUEZ, IN NEAR EAST

JERUSALEM, Sept. 27.—(AP)—British defense authorities here are taking all necessary measures to protect vital interests in the near east, should the empire be drawn into European conflict.

Several thousand British reinforcements have reached the Holy Land, bringing Britain's total army strength here to almost 15,000. Measures have been taken to safeguard the international oil pipeline from Iraq to Haifa, its Palestinian terminus on the Mediterranean. Defense plans have been made for Haifa itself and other ports in Palestine.

In collaboration with Egyptian military authorities, Britain is consolidating the defenses of Port Said, Alexandria, and the Suez canal—vital links in her line of empire.

FRANCE IN GLOOM; SEES CHANCES OF PEACE DYING OUT

Allies May Ask Il Duce to Calm Down Hitler.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 28. — [Wednesday.] — The chances of peace seemed slight in France early today. Gloom was deepened by Adolf Hitler's new ultimatum to Czechoslovakia last night to start evacuating Sudetenland this afternoon or "face the consequences."

Hitler's latest threat caused no particular surprise in diplomatic circles. They considered it a last effort at intimidation. Government spokesmen refused to issue any comment for the time being.

Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Paris, saw Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet at 10 o'clock last night. Phipps was reported to have told Bonnet that Hitler in a message to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain had declined to extend his time limit for the cession of Sudetenland to Germany. The Fuehrer originally had set the deadline for next Saturday.

May Use Duce as Agent.

The possibility of a last minute appeal to Premier Mussolini of Italy to use his moderating influence with Hitler was reported being discussed between London and Paris at 3 o'clock this morning.

If asked by the British government to intervene on the side of getting Hitler to so modify his attitude and to make such concessions in a form as would permit the establishment of the British-French plan for dealing with the Sudeten question, it was felt that Mussolini could scarcely resist the compliment.

If he refuses, at least his position will be made clear. To such a request—for the sake of peace—from his fellow dictator on whom he showered such boquets in his address Monday, it was believed Hitler might find it wise to listen, for it would provide him with a door of escape from his present dangerous position. In the second place it is doubtful if the Rome-Berlin axis would stand the strain of refusal.

Pin Hope on Roosevelt.

Those French who fear that only a last minute development of a most dramatic nature can now save peace seem to be turning more and more toward President Roosevelt in hope he will follow his appeal of Monday with a still more impressive action.

Former Premier Leon Blum, Socialist leader, seemed to suggest that such action is expected. In Le Populaire he wrote today:

"It is impossible that the Fuehrer-Chancellor will prolong resistance to the last appeals of Chamberlain—and perhaps to a forthcoming appeal of Mr. Roosevelt, to whom he has furnished the theme."

Blum is a close friend of William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador, who called on Premier Edouard Daladier and Bonnet yesterday.

Genevieve Tabouis, political commentator in the newspaper L'Oeuvre, said there was a possibility of a manifestation of the whole of North America and the great South American republics under Mr. Roosevelt's auspices to "assure the Fuehrer that all America stands ready to guarantee the justice and loyalty with which the Franco-British-Berchtesgaden engagements will be carried out."

According to the same commentator, the opposition of the German army to the Nazi military adventure has become more outspoken. Hitler, Tabouis said, summoned the top army leaders last evening, reminded them of last year's army purge and insisted he would not tolerate any opposition.

This warning supposedly was due to the fact that on Monday afternoon three major generals delegated by the army called at the chancellery to voice the army opposition. They were sent away without seeing the Fuehrer, but returned later and left a letter stating their attitude. The names of the three generals were said to be Leeb, Von Anneken, and Von Bodenschatz.

From other sources came reports of wholesale arrests of German workers in Oberhausen, Bavaria, as a result of popular anti-war feeling.

Signs of War Multiply.

Signs of war continued to multiply. Paris is living at night in a partial blackout. Civilians continued to pour out of the capital in special trains and private cars.

Many army reservists filled buses and subway trains. Those recently called up wore part civilian and military clothes. They have not had the time for a complete change into army garb in requisitioned schools, motion picture theaters and garages.

Coincident with the continued calling up of reservists there was a steady flow of men and women volunteers to the passive defense services, such as anti-gas units, in Paris and other cities. Firemen rehersed rescue work in gas masks on the streets to be ready if the worst comes.

Taking advantage of what remains of democracy under semi-wartime conditions prevailing in this country, Bonnet and other adherents of the "peace party" yesterday launched their supreme offensive.

In a cabinet meeting it was understood that Bonnet made a strong plea for a new attempt to come to an eleventh hour agreement with Hitler. He was said to have argued against the theory that France is in a more favorable position for war with Germany than she is likely to be in the future.

As a result, rumors were current in certain quarters that Bonnet may resign as a protest against the policy favored by a majority of the cabinet.

"What We Have We Hold"—Czechs

This Czech soldier is chalking on a freight car in Prague a motto in his native tongue, "What we have we hold." He was one of thousands of Czechs in mobilization activity. This picture was transmitted to New York by radio. [Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The Czech Issue

HITLER—

From Hitler's speech on Monday:

"My final proposal is nothing else but the realization of what Mr. Benes [president of Czechoslovakia] has promised. The content of the proposal is very simple: Territory that is nationally German and wants to join Germany is to go to Germany. This territory comes under German sovereignty. The final boundaries I, however, leave to a vote of the people there. Mr. Benes says this memorandum created a new situation. I demand that now Mr. Benes keep his promise. Let Mr. Benes choose."

CHAMBERLAIN—

From Chamberlain's broadcast last night:

"After my visit to Berchtesgaden I did give to the Czech government the proposals which gave the substance of what Herr Hitler wanted, and I was taken completely by surprise when I got back to Germany and he insisted that the territory he wanted should be handed over to him immediately and immediately occupied by German troops without previous arrangements for safeguarding the people within the territory who are not Germans and do not want to join the German reich."

HITLER'S TROOPS FAR OUTNUMBER BRITISH FORCES

Army Even Smaller than One Kaiser Scorned.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—To Reichsfuehrer Hitler's 1,500,000 men already under arms, the British can oppose only 750,000 trained or semi-trained men, if war comes now—nearly 150,000 less than in 1914. That includes army, navy, and air force, with all reserves.

On the other hand the British claim unlimited man power is available in the long run from the empire. Germany's utmost strength is about 6,500,000 and the British claim they could raise at least 9,000,000 fighting men—eventually.

It is difficult to distinguish the reserves from the regulars, since the territorials [national guards] now form the first line of anti-aircraft defense. For example, the British have not yet ordered mobilization, but the bulk of the territorials were mobilized last night. The force is excellently equipped and drilled.

23,000 Smaller Army.

But "the contemptible little army" which Kaiser Wilhelm scorned in 1914 was bigger than the present "new model," which the British officers term today's army, by 23,000 men.

Exact official figures for the present moment are not available. They differ materially from those of six months ago, when the British had, in round numbers: regulars, 188,500; army—first line—reserve, 125,000; supplementary service, 23,800; territorials, 160,800; miscellaneous, 5,600.

Naval, regular, 112,000; reserves 7,000; second line reserves, 12,700; volunteer reserves, 5,800; air force regulars, 70,000; reserves, 12,900; auxiliary air force, 2,300; regular air force stationed in India, 2,200.

There also are 55,000 members of the regular army in India.

The "contemptibles" of 1914 numbered 125,000 regular soldiers in England and 180,000 in India. The navy force was 33,000 larger than now and the civilian army out of all proportion—territorials numbered 272,000 and the military, now nonexistent, numbered 64,000.

Figures on Other Nations.

As for other countries, the British estimate is that Germany has 800,000 regulars and a total of 3,000,000 trained men.

Italy has 500,000 men exclusive of colonials and 1,000,000 trained reserves.

Hungary, 50,000 regulars; 20,000 trained reserves.

Poland, 300,000 regulars; total trained manpower, 1,300,000.

Czechoslovakia, 200,000 regulars; total 2,000,000.

Switzerland, 10,000 regulars; 260,000 trained reserves.

France is considered second only to Russia in strength of mechanized forces, with Germany a close third and Britain fourth, well behind.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 27.—King Carol was in conference today with Foreign Minister Petrescu Comnen. Bucharest is in constant touch with Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, to assure a uniform attitude by the two nations of the little entente in case of Hungarian aggression against Czechoslovakia.

It is learned that strict warnings have been sent to Budapest from Bucharest and Belgrade that the military alliance of the little ententers still stands.

Regarding Rumania's attitude to the transit of Russian troops in case of conflict, nothing has been settled. Bucharest is carefully watching developments in Paris and London. Rumania is expected to follow the British and French lead.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

BRITISH MOBILIZE NAVY; NATION PUT ON A WAR BASIS

'State of Emergency' Is Declared by King.

Chamberlain in his speech tonight declared that he considered "unreasonable" Hitler's demand that Sudetenland be ceded to him by Oct. 1 without any guarantees and without any provision for those inhabitants who may not want to be incorporated in expanding greater Germany.

Parliament Meets Today.

"However much we may sympathize with a small nation confronted by a big, powerful neighbor, we cannot, in all circumstances, undertake to involve the British empire in war simply on her account," he said.

"If we have to fight, it must be on larger issues. If I were convinced any nation had made up its mind to dominate the world by fear of its armed force I should feel that it must be resisted. Under such a domination, life for people who believe in liberty would not be worth living."

Parliament Meets Today.

After his broadcast from the white-paneled cabinet room of No. 10 Downing street, Chamberlain met with his ministers. Then he went to work on the speech he will make tomorrow at a momentous extraordinary session of parliament.

The house of commons is to convene at 2:45 p. m., and the house of lords at 4:15 p. m.; then, at a joint session, parliament will hear the prime minister's report on his two flights to Germany endeavoring to keep peace.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's closest adviser, Sir Horace Wilson, flew back late today from Berlin, where he had a half-hour conference with Hitler. After receiving the latest word from Hitler, its tenor undisclosed, Chamberlain called in Britain's two key military heads for a conference. His session with Viscount Gort, chief of the army's general staf, and Air Marshal Sir Cyril Newall was regarded as anything but a cheering sign.

Czechs Reject Demands.

Earlier Jan Masaryk, Czechosolvak minister to London, had announced that his government found Hitler's demands completely unacceptable.

"Against these new cruel demands my government feels bound to make its utmost resistance and we shall do so, God helping us," he said.

As the nation waited anxiously for the meeting of parliament, war preparations went on through the night.

About 25,000 women between the ages of 18 and 50 were called into service as truck drivers, clerks, cooks, and orderlies. Thousands of men worked in the rain to arm the British Isles, dig trenches, construct bomb-proof dugouts, and on hundreds of other tasks.

Americans Advised to Leave.

Two of London's biggest subway lines, deep underground, were closed tonight on a few hours' notice for "urgent structural repairs." As in the last world war, subways would be used to shelter part of London's population if bombing planes swoop over the British capital.

United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy recommended that excited American tourists thronging London go home "in view of the complicated situation prevailing in Europe." Steamship agencies were besieged by Americans seeking passage to the United States. Trans-Atlantic lines reported they had booked every available space until Oct. 15.

Earlier in the day Ambassador Kennedy, for the first time during the crisis, visited King George in Buckingham palace. He spent a half hour with the monarch.

Through Queen Elizabeth, at the dedication in Glasgow of a huge passenger liner named in her honor, the king counseled his people to "keep cool heads and brave hearts."

Strict Control Over Trading.

Strict control over trading was placed on the London Stock exchange and arrangements were made for closing the market in event of war.

Many schools throughout England were closed to facilitate distribution of gas masks.

There were no longer any visible signs of unemployment in London. All able-bodied men had been put to work scarring the city's green parks with trenches.

The British postmaster general, declaring that "essential calls," both local and long distance, were suffering from delay, appealed to telephone subscribers to "limit conversations of a non-essential kind to the minimum period possible."

Coal Cargo Recalled.

The "help the nation" movement extended to coal exporters. The 2,700 ton freighter Chatwood, which left Tyne last night with a load of coal for Hamburg, was suddenly ordered by its owners to return home. Apparently they desired neither to deliver coal to a possible enemy nor to have the ship caught in a German port if war comes.

Officials made plans to evacuate physically defective children from London tomorrow. Those affected will be children attending special schools and other institutions under control of the London county council. They will be sent to rural districts where housewives will be paid small sums for quartering them.

The high commissioners for the dominions and for Ireland conferred for several hours at the colonial office, indicating that the other great units of the British commonwealth were being informed of developments in Europe.

BRITISH EXERCISE CLOSER SCRUTINY OF NEWS PHOTOS

LONDON, Sept. 27. — (AP) — British censorship of news and photographs — always severe where military secrets are concerned—came under closer official supervision today with the expansion of military preparations due to the Czechoslovak crisis.

Authorities asserted wartime censorship had not been imposed and that only the normal regulations under the official secrets act were in force.

News photos of anti-aircraft equipment, troops and other military subjects were being submitted by news services to war department censors as in the past. There was no evidence that photographs formerly passed were being held up.

News censorship such as that in effect during the world war has not been imposed, but the machinery for such action stands ready for immediate use.

PREMIER WARNS BRITAIN TO GET READY FOR WAR

Says He Sees Nothing More He Can Do.

"Tomorrow parliament is going to meet and I shall be making a full statement of the events which have led up to the present anxious and critical situation.

"An earlier statement would not have been possible when I was flying backward and forward across Europe and the position was changing from hour to hour.

"But today there is a lull for a brief time and I want to say a few words to you men and women of Britain and the empire, and perhaps to others as well.

Says Responsibility Is Heavy.

"But, first of all, I must say something to those who have written to my wife or myself in these last few weeks to tell us of their gratitude for my efforts and to assure us of their prayers for my success.

"Most of those letters have come from women—mothers or sisters of our own countrymen—but there are countless others besides from France, Belgium, and Italy, and even from Germany, and it has been heartbreaking to read of the growing anxiety they reveal and of their intense relief when they thought, too soon, that the danger of war was passed.

"If I felt my responsibility heavy before, to read such letters had made it seem almost overwhelming.

"Horrible and Fantastic."

"How horrible, fantastic, incredible it is that we should be digging trenches and fitting gas masks because of a quarrel in a faraway country.

"It seems still more impossible that a quarrel which is already settled in principle should be the subject of war.

"I can well understand the reasons why the Czech government have felt unable to accept the terms which have been put forward by the German memorandum, yet I believe that, after all the talks by Herr Hitler, if only time will allow, it ought to be possible to reach a settlement by agreement under conditions which would insure fair treatment to the populations concerned.

Pleads for Negotiations.

"You know already that I have done all that one man can do to compose this quarrel. After my visits to Germany I realize vividly how Herr Hitler feels that he must champion every German whose grievances have not been met before this.

"He told me privately, and last night he repeated publicly, that compose this quarrel. After my visits to Germany I realize vividly how Herr Hitler feels that he must champion every German whose grievances have not been met before this.

"He told me privately, and last night he repeated publicly, that after the Sudeten German question is settled that is the end of Germany's territorial claims in Europe.

"After my visit to Berchtesgaden I did give to the Czech government the proposals which gave the substance of what Herr Hitler wanted, and I was taken completely by surprise when I got back to Germany and he insisted that the territory he wanted should be handed over to him immediately and immediately occupied by German troops without previous arrangements for safeguarding the people within the territory who are not Germans and do not want to join the German reich.

Calls Attitude Unreasonable.

"I must say I find that attitude unreasonable.

"If it arose out of any doubt that Herr Hitler feels about the intentions of the Czech government to carry out their promises and hand over that territory, I have offered, on behalf of the Czech government, to guarantee their words, and I am sure the value of our promise cannot be underrated anywhere.

"I shall not give up the hope of a peaceful solution or abandon my efforts for peace as long as any chance for peace remains.

"I would not hesitate to pay even a third visit to Germany if I thought it would do any good.

"But at this moment I see nothing further that I can usefully do in the way of mediation.

"Meanwhile there are certain things that we can and should do at home.

Calls for Volunteers.

"Volunteers are still wanted for air raid precautions; for the fire brigade and police services, and for territorial units.

"I know that all you men and women alike are ready to play your part in the defense of the country, and I ask you to offer your services, if you have not already done so, to the local authorities, who will tell you if you are wanted and in what capacity.

"Do not be alarmed if you hear of men being called up to man anti-aircraft defenses or ships.

"These are only precautionary measures such as a government must necessarily take in a time like this, but they do not necessarily mean that we have determined on war or that war is imminent.

"However much one may sympathize with a small nation confronted by a big and powerful nation, we cannot in all circumstances undertake to involve the whole British empire in a war simply on that account.

Issue Must Be Bigger.

"If we have to fight it must be on larger issues than that.

"I am myself a man of peace to the depths of my soul. Armed conflict between nations is a nightmare to me.

"But if I were convinced that any nation had made up its mind to dominate the world by fear of force, I should feel that it must be resisted.

"I believe that life without liberty would not be worth living, but war is a fearful thing and we must be very clear, before we embark on it, that it is really very great issues that are at stake and that we should risk everything in their defense.

"At present I ask you to await as calmly as you can the events of the next few days. As long as war has not begun there is always hope that it may be prevented, and you know I am going to work for peace to the last moment.

"Good night."

Belgian Paper Reports Luxemburg to Be Neutral

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 27.—The newspaper Vingtieme Sieacle's Luxemburg correspondent reported today that the grand duchy would remain neutral in case of war. Its railroads will not be used for the transportation of war materials and no war materials will be supplied to belligerents.

CALL SPECIALISTS OF RESERVES TO COLORS IN ITALY

Leaves of Military Men Reported Canceled.

ROME, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Well informed sources tonight said that Italy had begun, quietly and without public notice, to call to the colors specialists of ten classes of reserves.

The action, a possible preliminary to general mobilization, was reported to affect classes of from 1906 to 1916, meaning men between 22 and 32 years of age. The report was not confirmed in military circles.

Private sources indicated a few specialists in the various classes had been called to service receiving notification cards individually at their homes. It was said these specialists included artillerymen and similar categories. Alpinists in the first category already were under arms.

Standing Army of 294,000 Men.

Italy, with a standing army of about 294,000 exclusive of territorials, has refrained carefully from any general call on reserves. The reserves are estimated to number 6,750,000. The ten classes, if eventually mobilized, would bring about 2,000,000 men under arms.

High Fascists said the calling of specialists was a "precautionary measure taken in view of the developments in other countries." It was understood from military circles that generals had been assigned to their divisions and army corps in case of emergency. The names of the generals and their divisions were not published. It also was understood that all leaves for military men have been canceled and that passports were being withheld from all men who might come within the draft limits.

Try to Keep Public Calm.

Reliable quarters asserted about 200,000 men of the class of 1917 and 1918 already were under arms, as well as a number of special technical groups.

Every means was taken to keep the public calm. Newspaper carriers were forbidden to cry their headlines, and were limited to shouting, "first edition," "second edition," or "last edition," as the case might be.

FARM BARN BURNS.

Chadwick, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Fifty tons of hay and 250 bushels of oats were destroyed in a blaze that razed a barn on Mrs. Ernest Isenhart's farm near here last night. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

AMERICANS JAM LINER OFFICES TO LEAVE WAR ZONE

15,000 Hope to Sail for Home Within Week.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—American and Canadian tourists, anxious to get back to their homes, families, and businesses, today thronged shipping offices and travel agencies in London, seeking accommodation on liners scheduled to sail in the next five days for New York, Boston, Quebec, and Montreal.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent called at the offices of the main companies operating on the North Atlantic route and found men and women five or six deep before the counters in the passenger departments. These people were seeking last minute bookings.

The number of callers was undiminished from early morning until the offices closed. Stafs had to be augmented to deal with inquiries.

The Queen Mary, which arrived from New York today, was scheduled to leave Southampton tomorrow afternoon with nearly 2,000 passengers.

German Liner to Carry 2,000.

The North German Lloyd liner Europa, which left Bremerhaven today with many Americans from Germany and other European countries, will call at Southampton and leave just before the Queen Mary. By the time she departs from Cherbourg tomorrow night, the Europa will have more than 2,000 aboard.

It was estimated that 12,000 Americans and Canadians will leave Europe between now and Monday, 10,000 of them from France and Great Britain alone.

On Wednesday of next week the French liner Normandie and the Aquitania are scheduled to carry another 3,000 between them.

British companies have been warned that in the event of war, the liners will be held in New York and may be diverted to Canadian ports.

160 Reach Budapest.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 27.—A group of 160 Americans from Czechoslovakia passed through Budapest early this morning, en route to Vienna and other cities to the west.

They constituted the first group of American refugees from Prague. All appeared exhausted. Many were short of funds and had to draw on the American legation for transportation.

Two railway cars were provided by the American legation to transport the refugees across the Czech-Hungarian frontier. Otherwise they would have been compelled to cross the border on foot.

OLD-TIME RESIDENT DIES.

Rochester, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Laura Spangler, 82 years old, resident of Kewanna, southwest of here, for sixty years, died today.

TWO U. S. BATTLESHIPS RACE TOWARD EUROPE FOR POSSIBLE SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Two American warships sped toward Europe today for possible service in returning refugees or other duty in the event of war.

The navy said the cruiser Savannah, which sailed Saturday from Philadelphia, and the destroyer Somers, which left Norfolk the same day, would proceed to British ports. They were said officially merely to be on "routine duty."

Already at Portsmouth, England, is the cruiser Honolulu, and in the Mediterranean is the cruiser Omaha and two destroyers, the Claxton and Manley. The new cruiser Nashville is en route home from a training cruise to European ports.

The navy already has issued orders dispatching two destroyers to Gibraltar. These, however, will relieve the Claxton and Manley, which are due to return home.

ANSWERING YOUR QUERIES ON 'WHY' IN SUDETEN CRISIS

Hitler's Demands, Czech Offers Compared.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The following questions and answers are intended to give readers a clear summary of the reasons the powers of Europe are on the brink of war over Czechoslovakia:

Q.—What does Adolf Hitler demand?

A.—He demands that the Sudeten German areas, which he has drawn on a map in a horseshoe fringe around the western end of the Czechoslovak oval, shall be taken over by German troops on Saturday.

All Czechoslovak soldiers, police, and officials must get out. No property may be taken out. The Czechoslovak government must send back to Germany all the Germans in its army and police force and free all German political prisoners .

In other places where Germans are not quite so numerous Hitler agrees to let the people vote under international supervision to decide whether their districts will be German or Czechoslovak.

What the Powers Offered.

Q.—What did Great Britain and France persuade Czechoslovakia to give Hitler?

A.—The British and French plan, which Czechoslovakia reluctantly accepted, provided for the transfer to Germany, without any voting, of the areas where more than half the people are Sudeten Germans.

Later, boundaries would be set by means of peaceful negotiations which would be supervised by other countries. The people living in those areas given to Germany who did not wish to stay there could move out. The people outside those areas who wanted to move in or go somewhere else could do so.

After all this was accomplished the borders of what was left of Czechoslovakia would be safeguarded by the big and little powers against any attack.

Where Plans Differ.

Q.—What is the difference between the demand and the offer?

A.—Hitler says there is not much difference and that President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia is trying to squeeze out of his promises.

Czechoslovakia says the difference is that, under Hitler's plan, the nation would be deprived of "every safeguard for our national existence."

Great Britain, France, and Russia agree there are these obvious differences: The British-French plan provides for the cession of Sudeten territories by orderly negotiation, while Hitler demands they be immediately surrendered to the German army "as is"; the British-French plan demands guarantees for the remainder of Czechoslovakia, while Hitler offers no concrete guarantees.

Great Czechoslovak fortifications run all through Sudetenland; Hitler's demands would mean that Germany's army would overrun these defenses and march deep into Czechoslovakia before any new line of defenses could be built.

Hitler Takes Strategic Points.

The Czechoslovaks say Hitler's map takes in all the strategic points of a military or communications nature for Germany.

They say further that their own people now living in Sudetenland would have to flee in panic before the German army without being allowed to take so much as a cow with them. Hitler made no suggestion that they would ever get paid for what they would have to leave behind. Railways, foodstuffs, factories, and farm properties in the area would have to be handed over immediaately, likewise without reimbursement.

If all Germans were released from the Czechoslovak army and police force and handed over to Germany, both these services would be threatened with disruption and many Germans who fear and dislike Hitler would be forced to live under his rule.

Moreover, Hitler has drawn on his map "voting areas," mainly adjoining districts he wants right away, which, if joined to Germany, would practically pinch Czechoslovakia through the middle, leaving the eastern and western ends. No railroads run through this gap and thus the various Czechoslovak towns, many of which depend on each other for the exchange of industrial supplies, would have to maintain their connections on railroads through German territory.

Fear New Demands.

The Czechoslovaks also believe that if Hitler's demands were accepted, they still would be faced with the demands of Poland and Hungary for the areas occupied by minorities of those nationalities.

Q.—Now that Great Britain, France, and Russia have decided to act together if Hitler attacks Czechoslovakia, does that mean they will fight if he invades the Sudeten country which would have been ceded to him anyway?

A.—Technically, it is up to France—because she must move first—to decide when Germany has invaded Czechoslovakia. However, the best opinion here is that Sudentenland will remain Czechoslovakia in the eyes of Great Britain, France, and Russia until it is given up under the British-French plan and new boundaries are fixed.

Excitement in Two Million American Homes!

EVERY WEEK, in some two million American homes, people are excitedly perusing the most eagerly read magazine in the world—LIFE!

They pay ten million dollars a year for this rendezvous with LIFE—the largest amount ever paid out for a magazine in the history of publishing. Ten million dollars is an impressive amount of money. But even more impressive is the quality of these ten million paid for LIFE.

Business men know

As every business man knows, magazines are sold just as vigorously and ingeniously as other products. This is accepted publishing practice and produces good circulation. In fact, it had always been considered impossible to keep up mass-circulation figures without intensive sales efforts—until along came LIFE. And in less than two years, LIFE has more than two million buyers, all of whom voluntarily lay out their money because they want the new kind of pictorial journalism that LIFE alone offers.

Of these two million, 1,300,000 step up to the newsstands each week and pay out their dimes for LIFE. No other weekly magazine sells so many newsstand copies or gets so much money from its readers.

But perhaps more revealing of the regard in which LIFE is held is the fact that 700,000 of LIFE's two million subscribe to LIFE. These subscriptions came, not through salesmen or premium offers, but because 700,000 people wanted to make certain they wouldn't miss a single issue!

Satisfies modern hunger

This means that LIFE performs a definite service for these people—that LIFE is the most wanted magazine in this country today. LIFE's readers find that LIFE's new idea of pictorial journalism satisfies a peculiarly modern hunger and longing for an accurate account of what's going on in the world today! They feel they can't afford to miss LIFE. They look to it as something to base their opinions on, a source of knowledge that's important and right.

Every advertising man knows from his own experience that when LIFE comes into a home it is eagerly read by the entire family. It is read from cover to cover, because each new page promises some new and exciting information. It is the 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue of the media world—the spot where the traffic is heaviest.

Most Potent!

There is nothing quite like LIFE in the publishing or advertising business today. It is revising media evaluations of long standing. It is changing advertising lists. It has become, in the unbelievably short time of two years, the most potent editorial force in America. And astute advertisers are finding it the most potent advertising force as well.

LIFE time is excitement time in every home LIFE enters. It is eagerly awaited, avidly read, not by Father alone, or Mother alone, but by Son, Daughter, all the children, the whole family.

LIFE
"AMERICA'S MOST POTENT EDITORIAL FORCE"

Each week, 1,300,000 of LIFE's more than two million buyers reach for it at the newsstands. Ask your own newsdealer—he'll tell you that there has never been anything like the demand for LIFE, in all his experience.

LIFE is not sold by boys, subscription crews, or any extraneous inducements. LIFE circulation, newsstand and subscription, is virtually 100% voluntary.

More than 700,000 people have paid (and more are paying each day) one of the highest subscription prices ever asked for a mass-circulation magazine—have paid this price to make certain that they get every issue of LIFE.

LIFE is no passing fancy with its readers. Many of them cherish each copy, keep a complete file, use LIFE as a valued and trusted reference source.

TEXT OF CZECH NOTE REJECTING HITLER'S DEMAND

Stand By Us, Prague Asks Britain and France.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The text of the Czechoslovak government's note rejecting Adolf Hitler's Sudetenland demands, which was handed to the British foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, by the Czech minister to London, Jan Masaryk, last Sunday afternoon, follows:

"My government has instructed me just now, in view of the fact that French statesmen are not arriving in London today, to bring to his majesty's government's notice the following message without any delay [the French statesmen arrived later]:

"The Czechoslovak people have shown a unique discipline and self-restraint in the last few weeks, regardless of the unbelievably coarse and vulgar campaign of the controled German press and radio against Czechoslovakia and its leaders, especially President Benes.

Tells of "Severe Pressure."

"His majesty's and the French governments are very well aware we agreed under most severe pressure to the so-called Anglo-French plan for ceding parts of Czechoslovakia. We accepted this plan under extreme duress.

"We had not even time to make any representations about its many unworkable features.

"Nevertheless, we accepted it because we understood it was the end of demands to be made upon us and because it followed from Anglo-French pressure that these two powers would accept responsibility for our reduced frontiers, and would guarantee us their support in the event of our being feloniously attacked.

"While Mr. Chamberlain [British prime minister] was at Godesberg, the following message was received by my government from his majesty's and French representatives at Prague:

"'We have agreed with the French government that the Czechoslovak government be informed that the French and British governments cannot continue to take responsibility of advising them not to mobilize.'

Gets New Proposition.

"My new government headed by Gen. Syrovy declared they accept full responsibility for their predecessor's decision to accept stern terms of the so-called Anglo-French plan.

"Yesterday [last Saturday] after the return of Mr. Chamberlain from Godesberg, a new proposition was handed by his majesty's minister in Prague to my government with the additional information that his majesty's government is acting solely as an intermediary and is neither advising nor pressing my government in any way.

"Mr. Krofta [Czech foreign minister], in receiving the plan from the hands of his majesty's minister in Prague, assured him the Czechoslovak government will study it in the same spirit in which they have coöperated with Britain and France, hitherto.

"My government now has studied the document and map. It is a de facto ultimatum of the sort usually presented to a vanquished nation and not a proposition to a sovereign state which has shown the greatest possible readiness to make sacrifices for appeasement of Europe.

Amazed at Hitler's Demands.

"Not the smallest trace of such readiness for sacrifices has yet been manifested by Mr. Hitler's government. My government is amazed at the contents of the memorandum. The proposals go far beyond what we agreed to in the so-called Anglo-French plan.

"They deprive us of every safeguard for our national existence. We are to yield up large proportions of our carefully prepared defenses and admit German armies deep into our country before we have been able to organize it on a new basis or make any preparations for its defense.

Calls Demands Unacceptable.

"The whole process of moving the population is to be reduced to panic and flight on the part of those who will not accept the German Nazi régime. They have to leave their homes without even the right to take their personal belongings or even, in case of peasants, their cows.

"My government wished me to declare in all solemnity that Hitler's demands in their present form are absolutely and unconditionally unacceptable to my government.

"Against these new cruel demands, my government feels bound to make their utmost resistance and we shall do so, God helping us.

"We rely upon the two greatest western democracies, whose wishes we have followed much against our own judgment, to stand by us in our hour of trial."

MICE AND MEN

By CALEB

THE ASSURANCE that a man who builds a better mouse trap will find the world beating a path to his door has been credited to various sages, among them Elbert Hubbard. Hence, his subsequent and little known comment on the saying is interesting and significant. According to a reliable source, Hubbard wrote:

"That mouse trap guff isn't true. No one will make a path to your door nowadays, no matter how good your mouse traps are, unless you advertise them widely and extensively and arrange to have a free lunch at the factory, with automobiles to meet all visitors at the station!"

Herein lies the tempo of our age. Even though you develop some splendid new mouse trap, the world is already busy and filled with so many new things that almost nobody has the time to beat about in obscure places for still newer ones.

Having perfected a better mouse trap, one has still to promote its use by all the devices developed as adjuncts to a complicated and highly competitive marketing system. And after that, he must—as Hubbard implies—render service.

Hubbard, keen analyst that he was, lumps advertising with service—and that is precisely where it belongs. Imagine a modern woman attempting to do her shopping without the aid of advertising. Her time and efforts both will be dissipated quite beyond reason. And so advertising—telling clearly just where, when, what and how much—is an extremely important phase of the service that must be used in developing even the best of mouse traps.

And then the mouse trap maker must assume the responsibility of making certain that those interested in his product get exactly the sort of thing they want—as quickly and pleasantly as possible. All this is far more true in these days of mechanical agility and abundant capital than it was sometime ago. But, significantly enough, it was one of the fundamental procedures involved at the inception of Marshall Field and Company.

The twin objectives of obtaining the best mouse traps possible and then selling them with intelligent and complete service, have been ours from the outset. Life being what it is, one never discovers the ultimate in mouse traps. Neither does one come easily by perfection in service. But we still believe in it and bend our best efforts regularly toward an ideal of service which contemplates as distinctive a collection of merchandise as can be found anywhere.

TEXT OF HITLER'S ANSWER TO FIRST ROOSEVELT PLEA

Peace or War Is Up to Czechs, Says Reply.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Following is the text, received here today, of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's reply to President Roosevelt's Sunday night appeal for European peace:

"Your Excellency:

"In your telegram sent me Sept. 26 you directed an appeal to me in the name of the American people not to break off negotiations over existing controversial questions in Europe, in the interests of the maintenance of peace and to aim at peaceful, honorable, and constructive regulation of this question.

"Be assured that I thoroughly appreciate the highminded intentions underlying your argument and that I completely and in every way share your views concerning the immeasurable consequences of a European war.

"For that very reason, I can and must decline every responsibility of the German people and its leadership if, contrary to all my efforts to date, further developments should actually lead to an outbreak of hostilities.

Cites Origin of Problems.

"In order to form correct judgment concerning the Sudetic problem now under discussion it is indispensable to direct thoughts to events in which in the last analysis the origin of these problems and their dangers are rooted.

"The German people in the year 1918 put down their arms in the faith that the conclusion of peace with the opponents at that time would bring a realization of the principles and ideals which were solemnly proclaimed by President Wilson and just as solemnly accepted by all the powers at war as binding upon them.

"Never in history has the faith of the people been more disgracefully betrayed than happened then and the conditions of peace forced upon the vanquished nations in the suburbs of Paris [Versailles] have fulfilled none of the promises given.

Calls Situation Untenable.

"On the contrary, they created a political régime in Europe that reduced the vanquished nations to pariahs stripped of all rights, and that was recognized from the beginning by all judicious persons as untenable.

"One of the points which most clearly revealed the character of the dictates of 1919 was the founding of the Czechoslovak state and the fixing of its boundaries without in any way taking into account history and nationality.

"Sudetenland, too, was included in it, although this region has always been German and although its inhabitants unanimously declared their desire for anschluss [union] with the German reich after the destruction of the Hapsburg monarchy.

"Thus the right of self-determination that was proclaimed by President Wilson as the most important foundation for national life was simply denied the Sudeten Germans.

Finds Obligations Violated.

"But that was not enough.

"In the treaties of 1919 certain obligations, which according to their wording were very far-going, were imposed upon the Czechoslovak state as regards the German racial element.

"From the very beginning these obligations were not kept.

"The league of nations failed completely to carry out the task assigned to it, namely, to guarantee the fulfilment of these obligations.

"Since then Sudetenland has been engaged in heaviest combat for the preservation of its Germandom.

"It was a natural and unavoidable development that after the German reich regained its strength and Austria was reunited with it that pressure of the Sudeten Germans increased for maintaining their culture and for becoming closely associated with Germany.

Points to Growing Issue.

"Despite the loyal attitude of the Sudeten German party and its leaders, the points at issue between them and the Czechs became ever more pronounced.

"From day to day it became more clearly evident that the government in Prague was not willing to grant most of the elementary rights of the Sudeten Germans.

"On the contrary, it attempted to bring about the Czechization of Sudetenland with ever more forceful methods.

"It was inevitable that this procedure led to ever greater and more serious tension.

"The German government at first in nowise interfered with this development and maintained its calm restraint even when in May of this year the Czechoslovak government proceeded to mobilize its army on the pretext, manufactured of pure cloth, that German troops had been concentrated.

Recalls Negotiations.

"The fact that Germany at that time refrained from taking military counter-measures has merely served, however, to strengthen the intransigeance of the government in Prague.

"The progress of negotiations by the Sudeten German party with the government for a peaceful solution clealy showed this.

"These negotiations brought definite proof that the Czechoslovak government had no idea of tackling the Sudeten German problem really from its very foundation and to bring it to a just solution.

"As a consequence, conditions in the Czechoslovak state, as is generally known, have become entirely insufferable during the last weeks.

"Political persecution and economic suppression have plunged the Sudeten Germans into unspeakable misery.

Describes Conditions.

"To characterize these conditions it is sufficient to refer to the following:

"At this moment we count 214,000 Sudeten German fugitives who had to leave their house and harth in their ancestral homeland and who brought themselves into safety across the German border because they saw therein the only and last possibility of evading the revolting Czech régime of force and bloodiest terror.

"Countless dead, thousands of injured, tens of thousands of persons arrested and imprisoned, desolated villages are the accusing witnesses before world opinion of an outbreak of hostilities carried out for a long time by the Prague government which you in your telegram rightly fear.

"Entirely aside from the German economic life in the Sudeten German territory for twenty years systematically destroyed by the Czech government, which already shows all the signs of ruin, which you anticipate as the result of an outbreak of war, these are the facts which compelled me in my Nurnberg speech of Sept. 13 to state before the whole world that the deprivation of rights of the three and one-half millions of Germans in Czechoslovakia must be stopped and that these people, if they of themselves cannot find justice and help, must receive both from the German reich.

"However, to make a last attempt to reach the goal in a peaceful way, I made concrete proposals for the solution of the problem in a memorandum delivered on Sept. 23 to the British premier, which in the meantime has been made public.

"Since the Czechoslovakian government had previously declared itself already to be in agreement with the British and French governments that the Sudeten German settlement area would be separated from the Czechoslovakian state and joined to the German reich, the proposals of the German memorandum contemplate nothing else than to bring about a prompt and equitable fulfilment of that Czechoslovakian promise.

Puts Issue Up to Prague.

"It is my conviction that you, Mr. President, when you realize the whole development of the Sudeten German problem from its inception to the present day, will recognize that the German government has truly not been lacking either in patience or a sincere desire for a peaceful understanding. It is not Germany that is to blame for the fact that there is any Sudeten German problem at all, and that the present unjustifiable circumstances have arisen from it.

"The terrible fate of the people affected by the problem no longer admits of a further postponement of its solution. The possibilities of arriving at a just settlement by agreement are therefore exhausted with the proposals of the German memorandum. It does not rest with the German government, but with the Czechoslovakian government alone, to decide whether it wants peace or war."

2D PEACE PLEA SENT TO HITLER BY ROOSEVELT

Proposes European Parley to Save Humanity.

"Whatever existing differences may be, and whatever their merits may be—and upon them I do not and need not undertake to pass—my appeal was solely that negotiations be continued until a peaceful settlement is found, and that thereby a resort to force be avoided.

"Present negotiations still stand open. They can be continued if you will give the word. Should the need for supplementing them become evident, nothing stands in the way of widening their scope into a conference of all the nations directly interested in the present controversy. Such a meeting to be held immediately—in some neutral spot in Europe—would offer the opportunity for this and correlated questions to be solved in a spirit of justice, of fair dealing, and, in all human probability, with greater permanence.

"In my considered judgment and in the light of the experience of this century, continued negotiations remain the only way by which the immediate problem can be disposed of upon any lasting basis.

A Service to Humanity.

"Should you agree to a solution in this peaceful manner I am convinced that hundreds of millions throughout the world would recognize your action as an outstanding historic service to all humanity.

"Allow me to state my unqualified conviction that history, and the souls of every man, woman, and child whose lives will be lost in the threatened war, will hold us and all of us accountable should we omit any appeal for its prevention.

"The government of the United States has no political involvements in Europe, and will assume no obligations in the conduct of the present negotiations. Yet in our own right we recognize our responsibilities as a part of a world of neighbors.

"The conscience and the impelling desire of the people of my country demand that the voice of their government be raised again and yet again to avert and to avoid war."

Cabinet Considers Crisis.

Earlier in the day Mr. Roosevelt met with his cabinet in extraordinary session to consider what a European war would mean to the United States. At the close of the session, lasting two hours, cabinet members left the conference room with grave faces. They passed through a crowd of 300 newspapermen without commenting on the afternoon's discussion.

Later the President dodged all questions relating to possible war and its effect on American foreign policy, economy, and finance. He would reveal nothing of what took place at the cabinet meeting except to say he and the cabinet listened to a radio broadcast of the speech by Sir Neville Chamberlain, British prime minister.

Mr. Roosevelt, when asked about the attitude of his administration on the crisis, said it is the same now as he stated in a campaign speech at Chatauqua, N. Y., in 1936. He declared at that time: "I hate war."

Illustrating his attitude "agin war," Mr. Roosevelt retold an anecdote concerning the late President Coolidge. One Sunday after church service Mr. Coolidge was asked what the sermon was about. "Sin," was his laconic reply. "The minister was agin' it."

President Roosevelt had nothing to say about Hitler's reply to his peace plea of Sunday night, and no mention was made after the cabinet meeting of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt was preparing the second appeal sent tonight. The President's only comment about any of the replies to his first peace message was that the responses spoke for themselves.

RECAPTURE FOUR CONVICTS; PRESS ESCAPE INQUIRY

Guard Ordered Fired Kept on Night Duty.

Chester, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Four of the five insane convicts who escaped from the southern Illinois penitentiary early Sunday were recaptured tonight. State officials pressed their investigation of neglect and laxity in the prison.

Guards caught the four in the Missouri Pacific railroad yards in Dupo, about sixty miles from Chester and ten miles from St. Louis.

A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, announced some startling facts concerning the escape. They were:

1. Harry Sledge, one of the guards who was fired as the result of the prison break, had been discharged from the state service ten years ago for sleeping on the job. He had been hired as a prison guard only six weeks ago and on the discovery of his previous record he was ordered discharged prior to the escape. The order was not obeyed.

2. The five convicts possessed a mass of equipment, including a ladder and a saw, despite the fact that guards were supposed to patrol by their cells every twenty minutes.

3. The convicts had been able to dismantle the prison dentist's chair and take its heavy metal swivel to their cells for use as a jimmy in bending the bars.

Order Not Obeyed.

Bowen said he had learned about Sledge's earlier dismissal last Friday when looking over civil service records. He immediately wrote to prison authorities ordering that Sledge be dismissed. The letter, he learned, was received Saturday morning, but the order had not been obeyed when the escape occurred Sunday morning.

Because of the disobedience Sledge was on night duty in the cell block occupied by the five convicts Saturday night. The five who broke out during the time Sledge should have been visiting their cells every twenty minutes were Matthew Novak, John Bartz, Charles Clayton, Robert Stille, and Walter Brown.

The first four named were found in the yards at Dupo tonight. Brown still is missing.

Tools Collected by Novak.

Novak, according to Bowen, appeared to have collected most of the tools used in the break. He was working as an assistant to the prison dentist, whose office was close by, and there obtained instruments with which the convicts cut through the roof.

From the dentist's office also came the chair swivel. The hacksaw has not been traced.

"Novak," Bowen said, "should have been searched thoroughly every time he left the office. The guards insist that this was done, but these things were smuggled out nevertheless."

With the hacksaw the convicts first sawed two bars of their cells. Then, using the chair swivel as a lever, they bent the bars and removed them from their sockets and left their cells, carrying the dental instruments and the ladder with them.

Believes Novak Cut Roof.

They apparently reached a trap door into the attic by standing on one another's shoulders. In the attic they still were ten feet from the ceiling and Bowen believes that Novak, who is six feet two inches in height, mounted the ladder while his comrades held it, and broke through the roof and slate.

A slide down the roof to a fire escape and the convicts had only to scale a ten foot wire fence to freedom.

The guard, Sledge, was unaware of all this activity in his cell block when he turned his duties over to Lionel Harshbarger at 6 a. m. Sunday. Both said they knew nothing of the escape during the night. They were discharged by Bowen.

Sledge and Harshbarger were sponsored for state jobs by the Democratic central committee of Jefferson county, according to the chairman, Milton Forsyth of Mount Vernon. Harshbarger had been working in the prison for eight months, Forsyth said, and Sledge for six weeks. The chairman added that he had approved Sledge's appointment and that Harshbarger went to work for the state before he became county chairman. Sledge had been a farmer and Harshbarger an insurance salesman.

Shoots Husband

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Ruth Moran, who shot and critically wounded her husband, Glenn. He had allegedly given misinformation in amateur investigation of tragic hotel fire which resulted in arrest of man with whom Mrs. Moran had been living.

Ronald, 4 years old, and Carolyne, 6, children of the Morans, at the Emerson Settlement house, Grand avenue and Wood street.

The gun and shells used by Mrs. Moran in shooting.

WOMAN IN FAKE ARSON INQUIRY SHOOTS HUSBAND

Estranged Mate Wounded in Alley Battle.

Glenn Moran, 27 years old, was shot and seriously wounded late yesterday afternoon by his estranged wife, Ruth, in an alley behind 1637 Grand avenue. Mrs. Moran, who was a figure in the recent fake arson confession case, ended a quarrel with her husband by firing four shots at him. The first one struck him below the heart.

Mrs. Moran is 26 years old. Since her separation from her husband last April she had been living with Frank Kolesiak.

S. V. Coultas.

Kolesiak was one of two men taken into custody by amateur investigators and State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas early this month and persuaded to sign fake confessions implicating themselves in the tragic fire last April 6 in the Hotel Center, 1422 Madison street. Eight men perished in the blaze. It was reported that Moran had furnished false information to the amateur investigators involving the two men. The grand jury absolved both of them.

Sorry He Still Lives.

Mrs. Moran was held last evening at the Racine avenue police station. There she said her only regret was that she had not killed her husband.

"I'll kill him next time," she warned. Three years ago she also attempted to shoot her husband.

Kolesiak and Mrs. Moran had been living together at 1743 Erie street. While Kolesiak was being questioned in the fire inquiry, Mrs. Moran moved to the home of her mother, Mrs. Carrie McFeely, at 517 North Wood street.

Ill Feeling Over Children.

There had been ill feeling between the Morans since their separation, particularly over the custody of their two children, Carolyne, 6 years old, and Ronald, 4. The children were staying at the Emerson Settlement house, Grand avenue and Wood street. Mrs. Moran said her husband had mistreated them.

Moran visited the children early yesterday and told Carolyne that if her mother was looking for trouble she would get it. Carolyne told this to her mother.

Moran, who was jobless, had been living at 1010 Ohio street with John Dulinski, who uses the last name of Dolan. During the afternoon he and Dolan went to the home of Dolan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dolan, at 1637 Grand avenue. The four were playing cards on the Dolan porch when Mrs. Moran arrived. The Morans quarreled. Then Moran, police were told, shouted at his wife:

"You'd better come shooting next time, because I'm going to kill you."

Returns with a Gun.

Mrs. Moran went to her home on Wood street, around the corner. She returned shortly, carrying a .32 caliber pistol of an old make. Her mother, Mrs. McFeeley, was with her. Mrs. McFeeley called Moran down from the porch and he entered the alley. Then Mrs. Moran fired, striking her husband.

"Sissie, don't shoot again," cried Mrs. McFeeley. But Mrs. Moran pulled the trigger three more times. These shots went wild as Moran staggered behind an automobile in the alley.

Mrs. Moran and her mother fled to their home. Police arrived a few minutes later and were forced to break down a door before they could seize the two women. Mrs. McFeely was released after questioning. Moran was taken to the County hospital, where physicians said he had a chance to survive.

Tell of Badgering.

On Sept. 11 it was announced that Mrs. Moran's sweetheart, Kolesiak, and Emil Guerrieri had admitted setting the Hotel Center blaze. Fire Marshal Coultas said the victims of the fictitious confessions were handed over to him by reporters on a morning newspaper [not THE TRIBUNE]. Coultas failed to explain why he and his staf of amateur detectives did not consult trained policemen or state's attorney's investigators before announcing the confessions.

Fireman had testified that they did not believe the hotel blaze to be of incendiary origin. Kolesiak said he was badgered for hours by Coultas and his aids until he was scared into confessing. Guerrieri said he was "slapped around" until he made a fake admission. As soon as both men were placed in custody of the state's attorney's office they repudiated the confessions and produced unshakable alibis. On Sept. 23 the grand jury voted no bills, completely exonerating both men.

TAKES OVERDOSE OF SLEEP POTION.

Mrs. Catherine Halvorsen, 39 years old, 2944 Logan boulevard, was taken to the County hospital last night, after taking an overdose of a sleeping potion.

VOTERS WARNED OF REGISTRATION LAW DEADLINES

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn yesterday mailed notices to all voters in his election territory calling attention to differences between registration this fall in that area and in the territory within the jurisdiction of the Chicago election commissioners.

While there will be an opportunity to register in all election board precincts—those in Chicago and ten of its suburbs—on Oct. 10, the corresponding day in the country towns will be Oct. 11. On the latter date, Flynn said, approximately 130 polling places will be open in the 527 precincts under his jurisdiction. The list of addresses of these polling places will be posted soon.

The county clerk said new registrations also will be accepted at his office or at the offices of city, village, and township clerks in his territory until next Monday. From Oct. 4 to Oct. 10, inclusive, such registrations will be accepted only at Flynn's office in the county building. The county clerk also emphasized that registered voters who have moved since the last registration may report their changes of address by mail sent to his office any time up to and including Oct. 11.

WIFE A SUICIDE, SCHOOL HEAD IS FORCED TO QUIT

Student Strike Brings Resignation.

Potomac, Ill., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Pupils at the Potomac High school returned to their classes today after participating in a community protest against Superintendent of Schools Robert S. Wilson which resulted in his resignation.

The high school was shut down yesterday because of the students' threat to strike if Wilson were not removed. Last night a massmeeting of pupils and townsfolk was held in the grade school auditorium, at which Elmer Moreland, president of the high school board, told of Wilson's resignation.

Estranged Wife Suicide.

This community was aroused over the suicide Thursday of Wilson's estranged wife, Mrs. Mary Wilson. She was found dead of a bullet wound in a Danville hotel. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

Mrs. Wilson was buried Saturday at Decatur, where she had lived with her sister part of the time since she separated from her husband about two months ago. Wilson attended the funeral services and returned here Monday.

In a suit for separate maintenance filed by Mrs. Wilson at Danville, she charged she and her husband had become estranged because of a love affair he had with a school teacher. She said he told her he didn't love her and that he wanted her to get a divorce so he could marry the other woman.

Charges Secret Correspondence.

Mrs. Wilson also charged that the superintendent had been carrying on a secret correspondence with the school teacher and had a private mail box for that purpose at Danville, twenty miles southeast of here. She said he referred to his affections for the other woman as "real" love.

Wilson is president of the board of control of the Illinois High School Athletic association. He received his master's degree at the University of Illinois in 1935 and has been active in Phi Delta Kappa, honorary educational fraternity.

He and his wife came here eight years ago, when Wilson became superintendent of schools. They had no children. Clarence Crawford, athletic coach, was named acting superintendent of schools following Wilson's resignation.

JURY INDICTS MOTHER AND SON IN 30 MILLION DOLLAR ESTATE FRAUD

Mail fraud indictments were returned yesterday by a federal grand jury at Danville, Ill., against Mrs. Maude Ault of 29 West Quincy street, Chicago, and her son, Robert Eugene, who spells his name Alt.

Robert Ault.

Postal inspectors charge the two have fraudulently obtained large sums of money during the last few years by telling their victims they were heirs to the $30,000,000 estate of a former rum runner. The money they obtained was to be used, supposedly, in litigation to get their share of the estate.

The son, who maintains a stable of blooded horses, lives at 1145 Thatcher avenue, River Forest.

Indicted with Mrs. Ault and her son was James Cleary, identified only as a New York attorney. The Aults are held in Cook county jail under $5,000 bond each.

WIFE GETS WRIT TIEING UP $82,000 PENDING DIVORCE

Mrs. Grace Bartelt yesterday won an injunction restraining her husband, Dr. William F. Bartelt, from disposing of their $32,000 home and $50,000 worth of securities. She came before Judge Philip Finnegan to ask the injunction immediately after her bill for divorce was filed by her attorney, Norman Becker. She charged cruelty. Mrs. Bartelt is 41 years old. Her husband, a physician, is 50. Their home is at 1231 Monroe avenue, River Forest. Her bill asked custody of their son, William Jr., 16 years old.

DELAY TELLING SHOOTING STORY TO CRABB JURY

Pekin, Ill., Sept. 27.—(AP)—James W. Crabb's original account of the gun death of his bride was offered as evidence in his perjury trial today, but defense objections halted presentation of the story to the jury.

The attempt of Prosecutor John Cassidy to introduce a record of the defendant's testimony at a coroner's inquest last March 8 and 12 provoked the contest. Defense Attorneys Hal Stone and W. J. Reardon objected strenuously. Judge Henry J. Ingram announced he would rule on its admissibility tomorrow.

At the inquest Crabb said his wife, Betty, 19 years old, shot herself when he was in a bathroom. Sherif Ralph Goar told reporters later, however, that Crabb said he shot his bride accidentally when she tried to wrest the revolver from his hand. The discrepancies in these statements formed the basis of the state's case.

Crabb was tried on manslaughter charges for the death of his wife last June. The jury disagreed.

100,000 COPIES OF PARK FINANCE STUDY SENT OUT

The park district yesterday began distribution of 100,000 copies of a report of a citizens' committee which began investigation of park finances and operations last year. The report was turned over to park trustees in July and was made public at that time. It is now being given to any interested citizens and civic organizations.

The committee praised the leadership and financial policies of the park board but recommended that the city be provided with six times the park area it now has. Max Murdock of the Union League club was head of the committee. Maj. William A. Welch of Bear Mountain, N. Y., and L. H. Weir, a recreation authority, made the technical recommendations.

ORDER ERROL FLYNN TAKEN TO HOSPITAL; SEEK ILLNESS CAUSE

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Errol Flynn, motion picture actor, was ordered removed from his home to Good Samaritan hospital today by Dr. T. M. Hearn. His fever has been running from 101 to 104 degrees. He will be given a thorough examination in an effort to determine whether he is suffering from a recurrence of malaria, dengue fever, or other ailments contracted in the jungles. "His condition," said Dr. Hearn, "while serious, is not dangerous at the moment."

A SINNER DROPS $15 IN THE MAIL AND SLEEPS EASY

Somewhere a man slept with an easy conscience last night—for the first time in twelve years. His name? He calls himself A Sinner.

Twelve years ago he stole a battery from Charles Walz's automobile. It was an old battery, worth no more than $5. But yesterday the postman delivered a letter to Mr. Walz at his home, 2223 Montana street. In it the man who signed himself A Sinner said he was sorry, that he had reformed, and asked Mr. Walz's forgiveness. There was $15 inclosed for the loss, and interest on the money.

[Personal, to A Sinner: You're forgiven.]

THIS great streamliner is completely new, not only in appearance and construction, but in performance. Only a trip on the 1939 HIAWATHA will show how gloriously smooth-riding a train can be. There's scarcely a ripple in your cup as you speed along at 100 or more miles an hour.

The matchless smoothness of the HIAWATHA stems from a host of engineering and design innovations. For the first time trucks are equipped with triple coil springs, hydraulic shock absorbers and stabilizing tie-bars that reduce body-sway. Wheels are roller-bearing fitted; and dozens of vibration-absorbing rubber mountings are used in trucks, couplers and buffer plates.

The distinctive beauty of the HIAWATHA'S appointments, its new type air conditioning, amazing silence, non-glare focused lighting and deeply upholstered seats assure a new degree of luxury and ease.

THE STAKE.

Herr Hitler on Monday said that the Sudeten area must be given to him at once. And now Mr. Chamberlain has replied that Hitler can have it if he will wait only long enough to have it turned over to him in an orderly fashion.

On the surface that looks like the kind of conflict that can be settled amicably, because there is agreement on the goal and disagreement only on the means of reaching it. Even that disagreement is not, at first glance, a serious one. The waiting period probably would not exceed a year or two at most. It seems inconceivable that a continent could be plunged into war over so trivial a delay in the transfer of a few million inhabitants from one sovereignty to another.

In fact, the conflict is far more difficult to adjust peaceably than these surface indications suggest. England, France, and Czechoslovakia are insisting on delay because they want time in which to organize a new defensive line behind which Czechoslovakia can continue to enjoy an independent existence. That is why the few weeks or months in issue have assumed such immense significance.

The Czechs' desire for independence needs no explanation. The interest of England and France in maintaining an independent Czechoslovakia is less obvious but in the present crisis far more important. To them the existence of Czechoslovakia as an independent state, possessed of an efficient army, is of immense value as a curb on Germany's freedom of action. With the Czech power preserved, Germany's ability to organize central Europe by armed force or diplomatic maneuver is limited. In effect, France and England retain a veto power over Germany's economic and political ambitions as long as a Czechoslovakia capable of fighting rests on Germany's flank.

With Czechoslovakia broken, however, Germany's armies and therefore her diplomatic and commercial agents will have a relatively free hand everywhere from the Rhine to the Russian frontier. That is the goal which Herr Hitler has set himself and he will have gone far toward achieving it if he can force the Czechs to retire behind an unfortified frontier, where his requests to them and to the nations beyond them will take on the quality of a command.

The Hitler declaration that he does not covet another inch of territory beyond the Sudetenland may be taken as true, for, if he gets the Sudetenland on the terms he has laid down he will be in a position to dominate Europe without any further territorial acquisitions. None of the small states to the east and south of Germany will be in a position to challenge him or refuse to obey him, because they will know he can overrun them singly or in groups. Accordingly, he can dictate the terms on which he will obtain all the raw materials, such as Rumanian oil and Danubian grain, which he now lacks.

Hitler is seeking and England and France are challenging his right to organize central Europe. The issue is being confused by appeals to the right of self-determination and the sanctity of treaties, but at bottom the conflict is merely another of the many European struggles for power and dominance. Probably Hitler has chosen this moment to force the issue because he recognizes that rearmament in England and France is proceeding more rapidly than in Germany and therefore his chances will never be better than they are today. Their determination to oppose him is a recognition of the importance of Czechoslovakia as a weapon against him; without this ally even their rearmament will leave them weaker relatively to Germany than they are today. Herr Hitler has set Oct. 1 as the deadline because soon after that the weather will turn against him.

In this kind of a struggle for hegemony in Europe, America has no place. Fortunately there are no obligations on our part to enter the war. We took no spoils at Versailles and [thank heaven!] our senate rejected the treaty and in so doing was emphatically endorsed by the people in an election which turned on precisely that issue.

The rest of the world seems intent upon suicide. It is our right and our duty to preserve sanity and civilization here. By keeping ourselves clear of Europe's quarrels we gain the additional advantage of preserving our right to keep Europe from interfering in America.

WHICH CRAWFORD AVENUE?

Ever since Crawford avenue, one of the city's main north and south arteries, was renamed Pulaski road over strong protest, there has been a continuing effort to restore to it the original and locally historic name of Crawford.

Taking advantage of a "home rule" statute on street names, those working for restoration of the original name have circulated a petition among owners of abutting property. The petition has been presented to the city council. Its sponsors claim the backing of three-quarters of the property owners on the street, more than the minimum required by the statute.

Some of the Pulaski road diehards have also circulated a petition. Theirs asks that the name of Crawford avenue be applied to Haussen court, a street one block long over on the north side. If Haussen court gets the name of Crawford it cannot be applied to the present Pulaski road. Such cheap chicanery does no honor to the name of Pulaski.

The Polish soldier who gave his life for American independence is deserving of commemoration. No one opposes that. An honorable compromise is more in order than political trickery. Such a compromise might restore to the property owners who ask it the name of Crawford avenue, and apply the name of Pulaski to one of the numbered east and west streets on the south side, such as 63d or 79th. The sultan of Arabia is not likely to protest a slight on the system of numerals devised by his race, and there is ample precedent for the action in such thoroughfares as Roosevelt, Marquette, and Pershing roads.

FROTH ON THE MELTING POT.

Every American is of foreign ancestry. The only exception is the Indian, whom we sometimes treat like an alien. The rest of us can all trace our lineage back across the Atlantic, some in 1607, some in 1907.

We all have our friendly ties with the old world, ties of race or language or literature or institutions. But those ties are negligible by comparison with the ties here at home, the ties of our common lot as American citizens.

The present crisis in Europe has had an inevitable effect on some of the old world ties. In parallel columns THE TRIBUNE reported Monday that the Polish Army Veterans' association had addressed the American Legion, defending Poland's claim to the Teschen area of Czechoslovakia, and that 65,000 persons had attended a Czechoslovak rally at the Chicago Stadium.

At that meeting an official of the Chicago public school system said, "It is the duty and privilege of every American to stand by Czechoslovakia." A municipal judge, bearing a German name, declared that the death of Czechoslovakia would be fatal to civilization.

This is shallow thinking and loose talking. The first duty and privilege of every American, including Americans of Czech or Slovak ancestry, is to stand by and preserve America. And the death of Czechoslovakia, however much we would deplore it, would not be so nearly fatal to American civilization as our participation in another European war.

Americans of every ancestry have looked with distaste on the strutting, abusive little groups of the Nazi Bund. Americans of German descent have not had to make any special disavowals of its activities. They showed where they stood twenty years ago.

Americans of Italian lineage have not looked with favor on the attempts of Italian tourist agencies to make little Fascists of American school children. Americans of British ancestry join in the general distaste for the English Speaking Union whenever it shifts from Shakespeare to war debts.

European tension is bound to be reflected in many American racial groups, to excite their sympathy, grief or anger. Other Americans cannot expect them to stifle their emotions.

They can, however, be reminded of this: That whatever their ancestry, Czech-American, German-American, Polish-American, Italian-American, Hungarian-American, British-American, they are Americans first; that they or their parents or grandparents accepted American citizenship and American opportunities, which we feel sure they cherish and wish to guard; and that the first duty of every American, regardless of ancestry, in these times is to do nothing and say nothing that will involve our nation in disasters abroad.

SPEEDING UP THE CHECKS.

Throughout the farm belt the New Deal's AAA is approaching near the bursting point of generosity in scattering the people's money. Harry Hopkins is still the premier among government fund dispensers—witness his assumption of relief work in the storm devastated regions of New England—but Wallace is the runner-up. In the matter of timing the two are neck and neck, as may be noted from their growing impulse in philanthropy as autumn proceeds and the general election day approaches.

Wallace of the Hi Bred corn has announced that checks for farm benefits will begin to roll out from the capacious check writing machines in Washington on Oct. 15, about three weeks before the voters throughout the country go to the polls. Perfection in rhythm.

The AAA is well nigh forcing its benefactions on farmers. From out in South Dakota a specimen of this liberality comes to notice. On a letterhead of the "U. S. Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Adjustment Administration," Steve D. Maciejewski, Mr. Wallace's representative for a part of that northwestern state, wrote a letter on Aug. 24 to a farmer who had never applied for conservation or other benefits and who says he will not accept the bribe. The letter is interesting. It says:

"The two farms you operate are in compliance as reported by our farm supervisor. You are in line for a benefit payment; therefore we are asking you to come to the office in the near future and sign your farm report before we can proceed with the application for payment."

It may be fairly assumed that the letter is a type of thousands that have been distributed throughout the middle west. It is known definitly that other such letters have gone to people who have no right and no claim to benefit checks and no disposition to accept them. "Come in and get your money." In the history of the country nothing approaching this custom of spreading slush funds ever before occurred. How long will the American people stand for it?

Editorial of the Day

COMPETITION IN PENSIONS.

[Des Moines Register.]

Dizzy days are ahead for the pensioneers. Migratory fortune hunters who in '39 will start emulating the gold rush of '49 won't have just a single goal. For treasure is going to be where you find it.

California's $30-on-Thursday had seemed to make the charting simple. Every one, naturally, would go to California.

But along comes a Kansas scheme for $25 on Tuesday, with half that amount for widows and 10 per cent for each widow's child.

That means, at least, a stopover in Kansas on the way to the Thursday paradise. But how can one be sure, as he moves on from the land of Tuesday's twenty-five to Thursday's thirty, that some state further east won't offer a Friday special of fifty, and that if he turns back to avail himself of that, some enterprising area off to the right or left won't top the others with a $60 Saturday?

Even with those British racers making six miles a minute speeds on Utah's sands a fellow is going to be hard pressed to keep up with the states' drives toward munificence in their pension programs.

Finally we shall simply have to make some arrangement whereby the '39ers can stay at home and get their gifts by mail.

LITTLE JOURNEYS IN EUROPE.

This column's foreign policy, at the moment, is based upon the happy idea of giving Fuehrer Hitler a brief vacation from the cares of state. All this map drawing and ultimatum making and shouting into the radio must be nerve racking business; therefore we suggest that he emulate Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain and take a week-end trip into a foreign country.

He need not go far from his own Reich—only to a peaceful neighboring land called Holland, and to a drowsy little spotless town named Doorn. He will find there an old man, retired from business, of his own race who was not noted, in his prime, for peace making and emotional restraint, but who, having thought it all over for twenty years, will be able to give some sound advice. He was once known as Kaiser Wilhelm der Zweite. Yes, a gemuetliche chat with Gaffer Hohenzollern would be like a cool, refreshing hand upon the fevered brow of Adolf, who so greatly needs relief from his obsessions.

"Undigested Fancies."

Sir Anthony St. Leger [in the age of King Henry VIII.] anticipated his national cousin, Lord Tweedsmuir, and described it [crackpot demagoguery] just as aptly. Judge his quaintness for yourself.

"The undigested fancies which please the common people for a while, during the distemper and green sickness, fit a troubled age, as maids infected with that malady prefer ashes, or coles in a corner, before healthful food in their father's house; but when time hath cured their malady, and experience opened their eyes, they should abhor their former errors, and the misleaders that taught them." E. A. M.

BUGLES STIR THE DEAD.

A bugle blows in Europe, and through the woody glen
I hear the growing muttering of dead, forgotten men.

I hear the steady marching of a million ghostly feet.

A dreaded word comes blowing in from out beyond the crosses,
And deep within a costly tomb the unknown soldier tosses.

If strife should come to Europe, with peace already fled,
O mighty men of warfare, can you reckon with the dead?

Iron Deer Season Opens.

A startling, realistic iron deer is poised for flight in the front yard of a home on Thatcher drive, between Chicago avenue and Division street in River Forest. HOARSENESS MAY SIGNIFY CANCER.

WITH the coming of cooler nights and possibly sudden changes in temperature we may look forward to the usual crop of autumn colds. With some persons the larynx, or voice box, will become affected. "I can't speak above a whisper" may be a common complaint.

Most of us are familiar with the management of what should prove only a temporary condition. If one will desist from using the voice, will breathe vapor impregnated with tincture of compound benzoin, and remain indoors for a few days until the inflammation has subsided, all will be well. On the other hand, if the victim insists on cawing like a crow, carrying on business at the old stand, the strain placed upon the vocal cords, which are severely swollen, may lead to the development of small nodules on these structures or even minute hemorrhages. All of which may delay recovery for weeks.

Should the trouble appear in a patient with lung tuberculosis we must make sure that these particular bacilli have not planted themselves somewhere in this region. This means that a thorough examination of the speaking apparatus must be made by a skilled specialist, who can recognize the changes and employ the correct treatment.

The thing we must avoid, however, is cancer. The obligation is imperative because, if caught in time, it is curable in most instances. A high percentage of all malignant growths in this locality develop slowly and spread only after considerable time has elapsed—from several months to a year or more. This is why the early symptom—hoarseness—should call our attention to the fact that something has gone wrong, possibly a lump on the upper border of a vocal cord.

But too few apparently pay proper respect to this warning. Many will consider the huskiness as due to a throat irritation which has hung on; while some may explain the sign to their satisfaction with "I am getting a bit older and perhaps my strings are not as flexible as they once were."

It may be stated emphatically that should the difficulty persist for more than two weeks, no further delay should be brooked until a critical inspection of the larynx has been made. The procedure is not difficult. All that the physician has to do is to use the simple laryngeal mirror, but he must be able to interpret what he sees. If an ulcer is observed on the edge of a cord or a nodule comes into view, the careful medical man will not jump to the conclusion that cancer is present, as there are many less serious causes. In other words, chronic laryngitis, singer's nodule, a tiny papilloma or fibroma, and syphilis must be ruled out. Where doubt exists, a small bit of tissue may be removed, whereupon a microscopic analysis will disclose the true character of the cells, whether they are malignant or not.

If cancer is identified, treatment, to be successful, may require surgery, X-ray, or radium—perhaps all three. It is possible to preserve a useful voice, although the power to sing is usually lost. Should the disease be extensive, involving adjacent parts, removal of the entire larynx or a substantial portion thereof may leave the patient speechless. Cases have been reported, however, in which some individuals have been able to make themselves understood even without employing the artificial larynx devised by MacKenty.

Both radium and X-ray offer much aid. Following the Coutard method, Roentgen therapy is used daily for from 20 to 42 days. Sometimes radon seeds can be planted directly into the tumor when the area is exposed by means of a relatively simple operation. In addition, there are specially constructed devices which can be passed down the trachea, bringing radium into close proximity to the lesion.

All of this means that any one past 40 years of age who suffers from persistent hoarseness should not put off seeking expert aid, even though the chances are that the trouble is not dangerous. But should it be, prompt treatment is life saving.

MANY POSSIBLE CAUSES.

E. B. writes: A young man twitches his eyes, ears, and shoulders at intervals. Is this serious? Can it be corrected?

REPLY.

Any source of local irritation [eyestrain, defective teeth, adenoids, intestinal parasites, etc.] may cause temporary reflex spasms. The chances are he is suffering from what is known as a habit tic. Self-control may be practiced. The general health should be built to the highest possible level.

IT'S IMPROBABLE.

T. G. writes: Could a chronic appendix possibly be the cause of falling hair?

REPLY.

Only as the general health may be impaired—hence the nutrition to the scalp. The relationship—if such exists—is remote.

SEND FOR PAMPHLET.

X. Y. Z. writes: What causes sterility?

REPLY.

There are many causes. Send a stamped addressed envelope for leaflet on sterility.

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

ABSTRACT.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is $35 too much to pay for an abstract for a house and two acres of ground in Missouri? My grandfather deeded this place to my mother in the event of his death.

2. Does my mother need an abstract if she has a title?

3. This place has changed hands only twice, mother to be the third owner. H. L.

1. If you mean a complete new abstract from the government to date, this would be below the ordinary price. The price would depend on the number of instruments involved, and this might vary.

2. Presumably when she comes to sell her purchaser will ask for an abstract.

3. If you mean that there have been only three holders since title came from the government, then the cost of the abstract should be small. The abstract maker should be able to explain to you the basis of these charges. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NEW DEAL FINDS SOFT BERTH FOR SENATOR M'ADOO

Heads Dollar Ship Line Under U. S. Control.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration found a lucrative job today for the first of the 1938 crop of lame duck 100 per cent yes-men. Senator William G. McAdoo [D., Cal.], who was defeated for renomination in the primary last month, was appointed chairman of the board of the reorganized Dollar Steamship Lines, Inc., 90 per cent of which is controled by the United States Maritime commission.

Senator McAdoo.

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the commission, announced that McAdoo had accepted the chairmanship. His salary will be fixed by the board of directors, subject to a legal limit of $25,000 imposed by the merchant marine act of 1936.

Sheehan Becomes President.

Admiral Land also announced that Joseph R. Sheehan, executive director of the commission, had resigned this job to become president of the reorganized Dollar company.

There were reports that Max O'Rell Truitt, a member of the commission and a son-in-law of President Roosevelt's "Dear Alben" Barkley, senate majority leader, would resign to become general counsel of the Dollar concern at a much higher salary. The commission, however, denied such reports, explaining that Truitt had been reappointed for another term only last Saturday.

Many to Provide For.

With McAdoo comfortably provided for, President Roosevelt still has several lame duck 100 per cent yes-men to put on the pay roll. Senator William H. Dieterich [D., Ill.], Senator James P. Pope [D., Idaho], Senator Gilbert E. Hitchcock [D., S. D.], Representative Maury Maverick [D., Tex.] and Representative David J. Lewis [D., Md.] are the most prominent lame ducks waiting at the pie counter.

Of all the lame ducks, McAdoo was the least in need, for he is regarded as a rich man. Nearly 75 years old, he was secretary of the treasury during the world war and married a daughter of President Wilson in the White House.

Winner Sees President.

Sheridan Downey, the man who defeated McAdoo for the Democratic senatorial nomination, conferred with President Roosevelt today but the President said they did not discuss Downey's "$30 every Thursday" scrip pension scheme. Culbert L. Olson, the Democratic nominee for governor and likewise an advocate of the "funny money" pension plan, accompanied Downey on the visit to the White House.

CHARGES EARLE BLOCKED QUIZ ON GRAVEL SCANDAL

Margiotti Testifies Report Held Up.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 27. — [Special.]—Gov. George Earle and other high ranking Pennsylvania Democrats were accused tonight by Charles J. Margiotti, former state attorney general, of preventing him from investigating the so-called "Erie gravel scandal" for six months after state police had made a report on it.

Resuming the witness stand before the special house committee which is investigating graft and corruption charges against the governor and thirteen Democratic associates, Margiotti, who was ousted as attorney general by Earle, was asked what evidence he had to support a charge that administration leaders fraudulently prepared bid specifications to apply to an inferior supply of gravel. The materials were purchased by the state from the Pioneer Materials company of Kittanning.

Refuses to Release Report.

The witness replied that he demanded the state police report on the matter many times and that Gov. Earle, in answer to early requests for the report, refused to release it because, Margiotti said, he wanted to "protect" David L. Lawrence, chairman of the Democratic state committee. Lawrence is one of those named in the Erie gravel charges contained in the petition of District Attorney Carl B. Shelley of Dauphin county for a grand jury investigation of the Earle administration.

"I've got to protect Dave Lawrence," Margiotti quoted the governor as telling him in July, 1937, three months before the report was turned over to the then attorney general. "If there was anything in that that referred to you, I would protect you, too."

Leaders Discuss Charges.

Soon afterward, Margiotti testified, the subject was discussed at a meeting of Democratic leaders in Washington. He said he told Lawrence on the train that the governor was protecting him.

"That's a lie," Margiotti quoted the state chairman as replying. "If it were up to me I'd give you the report."

At the Washington meeting, Margiotti declared, Senator Joseph F. Guffey told him: "Charley, just forget it. I believe in letting sleeping dogs lie."

The witness said he replied: "Yes, Joe, but the hell of it is they won't let them sleep."

KELLY WILL LEAD DELEGATION TO SUBWAY HEARING

Mayor Kelly and a group of city traction engineers and aldermen will leave for Washington today to attend a public hearing tomorrow before the Public Works administration on the city's application for a subway grant. The four members of the special PWA subway board named to study the subway plans will attend the hearing, Joshua D'Esposito, one of the members, said.

The subway board recommended approval of a subway grant but made radical changes in the plans proposed by the city. It suggested a low level subway in State street and a short terminal subway for part of the west side elevated lines. The city wanted a high level tube in State street and two street car tunnels for east-west car lines in the loop.

G. O. P. IS EAGER TO NAME DEWEY TO HEAD TICKET

Nomination for Governor Seems Assured.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E Dewey, New York's hard hitting young racket prosecutor, will be nominated overwhelmingly for governor by the Republican state convention here this week. That was the almost universal prediction of delegates tonight on the eve of the gathering.

Republicans from top to bottom of the party's ranks are plumping for Dewey, and his boom now looks like a stampede. G. O. P. leaders believe the prosecutor, who is 36 years old, can lead the ticket to victory over the Roosevelt-Farley-Tammany machine in November.

Expect Dewey to Accept.

It was learned tonight that Dewey probably will come here from New York on Thursday night and make his acceptance speech in person before the convention. The nomination is scheduled for that day. Former Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakeley, unsuccessful Republican candidate for governor in 1936, is expected to place Dewey's name in nomination as a sign of the harmony within the party.

So general is his popularity that upstate and New York City, split by factional strife in the past, are together on this campaign.

Delegates poured into this quaint old spa town from every corner of the state. The gusty old hotels, built for the summer trade of race track followers and mineral water addicts, are filled and overflowing. It will be the largest state convention in the party's history.

Congressman Bruce Barton will deliver the keynote address when the convention is called to order at noon tomorrow.

Trial Fiasco Aids Dewey.

G. O. P. leaders regard the fiasco of the trial of James J. Hines, Tammany leader and cog in the Roosevelt organization, as strengthening Dewey's cause rather than weakening it. The case ended in a mistrial, declared by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

With so much unanimity over the selection of Dewey, party leaders talked until far into the night on the others to make up the slate. Two candidates for United States senator also must be chosen.

Rolland B. Marvin, mayor of Syracuse, has been mentioned as nominee for the long term against the incumbent, Senator Robert F. Wagner. For the short term, created by the death of Senator Royal S. Copeland, there is talk of picking Edward Corsi, immigration commissioner under President Hoover and a deputy commissioner of public welfare under Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia. Corsi is an Italian.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman has announced himself as a Democratic candidate for the short term.

AX RAIDERS CLIMB INTO ATTIC TO CHOP UP BETTING JOINT

269 Ax raiders from State's Attorney Courtney's office climbed into an attic at 1125 Belmont avenue yesterday to wreck a horse betting joint that had been moved there to escape their attentions. It was one of sixteen resorts chopped up in a day of activity that raised the raiders' total to 269 for six weeks.

Two visits were made to the Grant hotel, 6 North Dearborn street, where betting was in progress at the lobby cigar stand and in room 311. A layoff room or so-called syndicate nerve center was wrecked in room 1026 at 220 South State street. Eight employés were taking phone bets.

Other raids were at 908 Huguelet place, 4850 North Linder avenue, 1039 East 43d street, 917 East 43d street, 3259 North Racine avenue, 3933 North avenue, 3113 Armitage avenue, 4077 Broadway, 2231 Division street, 2342 Division street, 4551 Clifton place, and room 405 at 36 West Randolph street.

City police made five raids on hand books and policy games. In the Racket court Judge Eugene Holland freed 17 men arrested in Monday's raids.

FLOOD BLAMED ON ROOSEVELT POWER POLICY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] today charged the "maniacal power policy" of the Roosevelt administration was responsible for flood disasters following last week's hurricane which cost more than 500 lives in the northeastern states.

The administration's responsibility, Bridges said, grew out of its rejection of the New England flood control compact. He recalled that congress authorized formation of such interstate compacts following the disastrous New England floods of 1936 and New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, and Connecticut submitted a plan for congressional ratification.

The construction program, Bridges said, was evolved by United States army engineers. It was rejected, however, because it conflicted with the administration's power policy, under which all titles to lands and rights of way must be vested in the federal government.

BARE MAJORITY ON CONGRESS ST. WANTS PARKWAY

Few Reply to Query Sent Out by Motor Club.

BY HAL FOUST.

Answers to a Chicago Motor club questionnaire disclosed yesterday that business men in the immediate vicinity are not unanimously in favor of a proposal to construct a $24,000,000 parkway in Congress street. Of those who responded 56 per cent were for and 44 per cent were aginst the proposed improvement.

The small number who used the self-addressed and self-stamped reply envelope may also be significant. The club, more than a week ago, mailed 166 of these questionnaires. Only 30 answered—17 for Congress street and 13 against.

More Expected to Favor It.

"From the neighborhood of these addresses," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the club, "we expected a much higher percentage to favor the Congress street plan. The organized promoters of this project have widely published their claims that a $24,000,000 public expenditure for Congress street, $17,000,000 of this total going for the purchase of depressed realty, would do wonders in rehabilitating the neighborhood.

"We thought the corner delicatessen owner would be sure to want this expenditure in his neighborhood, especially since it is proposed that there should be no special assessments for the expected special benefits to adjacent realty values. We learn from the questionnaire that the corner merchant, intimately acquainted with the problems of his neighborhood, has looked the gift horse in the mouth.

Worthy for Slum Clearance.

"The motor club has not opposed the Congress street plans. We have believed them to be a worthy slum removal project. Our only protest has been against spending road funds for a development of real estate while these funds are sorely needed for improvements, such as elevated highways, which would reduce the accident toll.

"The club, as has been claimed by Congress street advocates, has a commercial background. We sell memberships, thousands of them, and want to sell more. We believe that in urging elevated highway construction we are furthering the interests of members and prospective members. We believe that in opposing the expenditure of gas tax revenues for real estate development we are serving the same purpose.

Seek Highway Safety.

"We also have been accused of favoring the suburbs in this elevated highway advocacy. We don't agree that the suburbs are leeches upon Chicago. Furthermore, we favor a reduction in the massacre on the streets of Chicago whether the motorists involved are from Rogers Park, Hyde Park, Evanston, Oak Park or Cheyenne, Wyo."

The names of those to whom the questionnaires were sent were compiled by J. E. Jacobs and George Hixon, motor club employés. They drove in Harrison and Van Buren streets from Canal street to the city limits, taking names and addresses appearing on store windows.

The 17 to 13 vote and much indifferent silence was in reply to questions touching on the advisability, safety factors, and costs of the Congress street proposals.

Asks 960 Men to Return to Jobs Saturday.

Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver for the North Shore railroad, went directly to operating employés of the idle road yesterday to ask if they will cooperate on the best basis the company can offer them to resume operation.

He outlined the situation existing since the road was closed down by a strike on Aug. 16 in a letter to the workers and enclosed a reply card on which they are asked to state whether they want to return to work. It is his intention if employés assent, he stated, to reopen the road at 4:01 o'clock Saturday morning.

The road will be able to pay only a portion of its revenues for wages, as other operating expenses must be met also, Col. Sprague told employés. He warned that it may take considerable time to regain trafic lost during the shutdown. But, as general business conditions improve, he added, it may be possible to restore previous wage scales.

The letter went to 960 operating employés. The road when it closed down was employing 1,300 workers. Operations ceased when union members went on strike against a 15 per cent wage cut.

Negotiations to iron out the wage matter were complicated by an interunion fight involving the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés and two railroad brotherhoods. The Amalgamated wanted a closed shop. The brotherhoods wanted to represent members of their unions.

Sprague told the employés that if the operation is resumed it will be under a union contract, presumably with the Amalgamated.

Sprague conferred yesterday with federal labor conciliators and officials of the Amalgamated on the terms of a new contract. The same group will meet again today.

The brotherhoods have agreed to permit an Amalgamated contract provided their members are not forced to leave the brotherhoods and join the Amalgamated.

The Amalgamated was warned yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson that it will be illegal for its members to stop North Shore trains if operation is resumed. The Amalgamated division of the Chicago elevated railways has threatened to refuse to allow North Shore trains to use the elevated tracks unless they are manned by members of that union. Both railways are in receivership in the federal court.

The Willett company will ask the Illinois commerce commission tomorrow to extend its permit to operate buses in North Chicago and Waukegan, A. T. Willett, secretary said. The original permit was obtained when the strike tied up transportation in those cities.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Through a typographical error, it was stated in an item Sunday morning that there are only 6,000 homes in Illinois heated by the hot water system. The item should have stated there are 67,000 homes so heated.

It tastes better—it smells better—cooler, milder, more aromatic—it's Havana in the "Shade". Here's the secret: Dutch Masters have a blend of prime Havana tobaccos wrapped in shade-grown leaves—the most expensive in the world. Extremely light and delicate, they are the perfect wrap for prime Havana tobaccos. Convince yourself. Try one today.

Parents Long to Give Joys They Missed

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Look hard at the "advantages" you are striving to give your children. Look at them as if you were an outsider striving to see clearly what some one has called "the truth of the situation." The "advantages" bestowed are not always advantages to the child in the end. We must not be carried away by our love and ambition for them.

A real advantage is not one that merely gives parents pleasure to witness or to experience vicariously. A real advantage is one that is a help, not a hindrance, in a child's development. Looked at so, we find one advantage that is best of all, one advantage that can't go wrong. It is this: parents' deep longing to give understanding to their children when they have been deprived of it in their own youth. There is a yearning for this in many mothers' and fathers' hearts. Here is what I mean.

Those adults who have met with coldness from their parents want to give warmth to their own children. Those who have been brought up with severity want to give them lenience. Those who have not had sympathy, who have not had the friendliness and companionship of their fathers and mothers yearn to give sympathy and companionship to their own sons and daughters.

Those whose childlike interests were met with blankness want to meet their own children's enthusiasms and confidences with responsiveness. Those whose natures were misunderstood desire to read gently, but not intrusively, the book of their own children's lives, and act accordingly.

Those who as children lived with a wall between themselves and their parents are eager when their turn comes to level all barriers by intelligence and love, and to keep forever open the line of communication between their own children and themselves.

Those from whose childhood the ideal relation between parents and children was absent, and who desire and determine to give it to their own children, are wisely ambitious to obtain for them this greatest advantage of all.

"Our Fathers' and Mothers' Litany," specially printed, will be sent on request. Inclose postage only, no envelope, and address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I have lately taken up playing duplicate and find it a fascinating pastime. I usually play with my husband, and although we have not yet won top score, we feel encouraged because we have gradually improved our standing, and last night actually came in second. We would have won if we had not taken a bad score on the following hand:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♥ A 8 3
♦ 10 6 4 3
♣ Q 10 9 6

WEST
♠ Q 10
♥ Q 7
♦ Q J 9 5
♣ K 8 5 3 2

EAST
♠ 6 4 3
♥ 10 6 5 4
♦ A K 8
♣ J 7 4

SOUTH
♠ A K J 9 8 7
♥ K J 9 2
♦ 7 2
♣ A

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

"My husband was South, the declarer. West opened the queen of diamonds and continued with the suit. East won with the king and played the ace. Declarer ruffed and laid down the ace and king of trump, fortunately dropping the queen. He then drew East's last trump, led a low heart to dummy's ace, and finessed on the return to his own jack. West's queen made, and a fourth diamond was sent back. Declarer ruffed again, and finally had to concede another heart trick to East's guarded ten.

"At almost every other table, North-South stopped at two or three spades, hence our minus score gave us very few match points. Was the bidding out of line? My husband thought that I should have passed to his three spade rebid, since it was not an absolute force.

"MRS. S. F. T.,
"East Orange, N. J."

The bidding was very good and the final contract was a logical one. The bad result was due to declarer's failure to employ a standard, although not too well known, safety play. After ruffing the third diamond and noting that there was only one possible entry to dummy, declarer was correct to lay down the ace and king of spades, since it was more important to keep the heart ace as an entry for manipulation of the heart suit than to use it for a spade finesse. After dropping the spade queen and drawing East's remaining trump, the entire crux of the hand, of course, lay in the heart suit. Declarer could well afford to lose one heart trick, but not two, hence should have adopted the safest possible method of playing the suit. That was to lay down the heart king and then lead the deuce to dummy's ace. If West had the queen doubleton, it would drop on the second lead, and East's 10-x could be picked up. If West had the queen twice guarded, nothing would be lost by the play, since a third round of the suit would drop the ten and queen together. If East had the queen precisely twice guarded, it is true that this line of play might cost a trick, but it would not be the vital trick, and the chance that that condition existed [exactly Q x x in East's hand] was not worth bothering about. If East had the Q 10 x x, the play would cost nothing, since a third lead of the suit would be from dummy toward the jack-nine. The one danger that could have been anticipated was the lay of cards that actually existed, namely, that a finesse such as declarer used would lose to a doubleton queen and that the ten spot would remain guarded for a second defensive heart trick.

In case this safety play is slightly confusing, I recommend that my readers lay out the hearts held by North and South and rearrange the other six hearts in all conceivable manners. They will then find that the recommended play guards against two losers to the greatest possible extent.

Bright Wool Dresses Shout Their Beauty

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Bright wool dresses so vivid they'd stop trafic at any busy corner are finds that just need telling about till you hear them talk for themselves in the shop. Bright treasures to enliven any good wardrobe, to wear now without benefit of fur piece or contrasting hat, gloves and accessories, to flaunt later under fitted jackets of dark tone, after that with your smart short fur coats.

The prices are very right—medium and low; the styles are young, gay, and ready for the dullest of weather. There is an orange shade to wear with Lincoln green, a Kelly green that shrieks with good Irish distraction, and a flock of cerise beauties that are almost too good to be true.

We hurry to caution the conservative soul—these clothes are anything but soft muted tones. Far from it. They're the most exuberantly colored affairs we've ever been dazzled with—slick, timely lifts for any otherwise dull wardrobe. Front fullness is pushed down below the waistline, soft folds manage the front fullness instead of just shirring. Necklines are high, and a couple of the models have a demure line of small covered buttons marching down the front.

Never have we found so many eye blinding shades, and the supply seems unlimited. One piece and two piece effects are the assortment; also a few two piece mixups such as magneta wool tailored short sleeved jacket and a slim straight wool skirt of deep violet. The green shades are well represented, from sage green to Kelly; some are rusty wines, son chartreuse tinted yellows. The color range is one of the best in town.

Fashion photograph . . . Daché presents the decorative dinner and cocktail hat, high and picturesque, using black velvet. Shimmering in every light, the acorns and oak leaves embroidered in gold thread provide the contrast for the silky pile of the velvet. Gloves and dancing sandals for finishing accents will be gold kidskin, or combines of gold kid and black suede.

Outlines Next Steps Toward Union of All Protestant Churches

Next steps looking toward union of all American Protestant churches were described yesterday before the second annual interdenomination missionary institute. The institute is being held under auspices of the women's division of the Chicago Church federation at McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A., 1001 North Dearborn street. The session will continue today.

The union steps were pointed out by Dr. H. Paul Douglass of New York, head of the newly formed Christian unity commission of the federal council of churches. The first moves, Dr. Douglass said, are those illustrated by three Methodist groups which are in process of merging. He called the mergers of churches by twos and threes laboratory experiments of great usefulness. Churches which are not divided by great differences in polity or belief should come together as rapidly as is possible, he said.

Another step would be the immediate union of interchurch agencies now operating in the country. As an example of this step, Dr. Douglass pointed to the proposed merger of the federal council of churches, the international council of religious education, and similar agencies.

British Censorship on Pictures.

England has clamped down a censorship on pictures beginning at midnight Monday night, a picture syndicate man reveals. No pictures can be made, or radiographed, or sent out of the country by any means, that show recruits kissing wives or babies good-by, or the digging of shelters in Hyde Park. Probably because they are considered anti-war propaganda. A recent picture of a shelter in Hyde Park was used in THE TRIBUNE, which probably was the last to come through.

Gustatory Again.

A modern version of the famous omelets of Mere Poulard, still cooked in long handled skillets before a great open fire at the ancient hotel in Mont St. Michel, are to be found on Rush street. They're the "swing" omelets at Gordon's Open Kitchen, which a high-capped chef swings and tosses dexterously in an open skillet in front of a plate glass window until the omelet is smooth and melon-shaped outside, fluffy and delicate inside. The other evening a woman watcher outside the plate glass window screamed as the chef flipped it dramatically—and successfully. . . . And late that night a gentleman in white tie and tails tried it—unsuccessfully. You'll like the waffles, too, served with hot maple sirup. And the schnecken grilled in butter.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Maybe it's all the subtle shades of violet which are the hits of the current fashions and maybe it's the general trend toward the sweet and simple and old-fashioned, but wood violet toilet water is one of the most popular and pleasing daytime scents to be found today.

It's perfectly logical, of course. Fashion has reverted to the old-fashioned with all its trimmings; women dress pretty much as their grandmothers did, with tiny hats perched precariously on high hair-dos and have even gone so far as to take to hoop skirts. It's only consistent to carry out this new old-fashioned motif in the scents they use.

Some of our smartest women are splashing their handkerchiefs with wood violet toilet water, tossing a bit of the same sweet scent in the water in which they bathe their hands or shampoo their hair. Many are using it directly on the flesh as they would perfume. The women who always loved violet but thought its scent a bit too unsophisticated to fit in the modern picture are having their innings now.

One of the most charming toilet water versions of this always popular fragrance comes in a three ounce bottle and is surprisingly inexpensive. It will brighten up the bleak fall days for you, giving you a delightful memory of spring. And as a fragrance it suits the modern clothes beautifully.

This is a scent for the dainty woman, the one who loves the feminine new clothes and who wears them well. Its use seems to round out the picture. Young women will like it just as much as the more mature. It is, as a matter of fact, a very youthful, fresh scent.

If Waistline Bulges, Begin That Exercise!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Discouraged about your waistline after that recent shopping spree? Is there anything that makes a woman more figure conscious than a day of trying on frocks during which she discovers the waist band won't meet, the zipper on the side balks at trying to reach the top of its ladder?

This season it is harder to bear than ever. Those waistline frocks are too, too lovely, but there's no neat waistline to meet them.

Something "beaten," helpless, pitifully resigned comes over the shopper unless she fits neatly into the new styles. But why resigned? Why not go right back home, refusing to buy until you've trimmed the waistline an inch or two? That's one procedure recommended, because you will want to return to the shop in a hurry and you'll work conscientiously.

Or, another way of meeting the emergency, practiced by women we know, is to buy the frock and swear on a stack of Bibles the beltline will meet before six weeks are over, proceeding to accomplish the miracle with a bit of dieting and a series of waist exercises.

Reducing the waistline is no herculean task. One of the easiest in the whole reducing category, really. Eliminate some of the fats and starches. You needn't worry about needing them. If your waistline is bulging, you'll have enough fat reserve to hold you over a six week diet. Don't take cocktails and the tempting tidbits served with them which pile on weight. Don't starve yourself, but get up from the table at that moment when you feel you could eat a little more of what's gone before.

Then put the waistline on a bending punishment. Bend the old way, trying to touch toes in front with your finger tips. This is just for warming up. The real bending aid for the waistline comes when you stand with feet apart, arms overhead. Bring right arm down to touch left toe, swinging at the waist as you do. Then, bring down other arm to touch other toe. Do this many times. Keep feet flat on floor and don't move hips.

Anthony Bliss Enters Dogs in Midwest Trials

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Midwest Field Trial club's field trials on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 22 and 23, will be especially interesting this year, for Anthony Bliss and his wife, formerly Barbara Field, are planning to bring a flat coated retriever, Blackdale Ben of Wingan, to enter the trials. This will be the first time one of this breed has been in local retriever trials; in fact, Bob Becker says, as far as he knows, such a dog never has competed in any American retriever trial.

The elder daughter of Marshall Field III. has visited Chicago seldom since she lived here as a little girl, so her infrequent visits always are of interest. Mrs. Bliss became interested in Ben, described by Mr. Becker as a very friendly dog, at the Westminster dog show in New York last February. At that time it belonged to David Elliott, the famous trainer for the late Jay Carlisle.

The Midwest club's trials, to be held on the grounds of the Biltmore Country club north of Barrington, will be the first ones for the Bliss dogs. Later Mr. Bliss' handler will continue east through the circuit of eastern trials. Gaylord Donnelley, vice president of the Midwest, will be a judge of the trials.

Fletcher Garlocks Plan Housewarming.

One of the parties planned for members of the club and visitors during the trials is a housewarming the Fletcher Garlocks will give on Saturday evening, Oct. 22, in their new house in Barrington. They recently moved from Winnetka. Mr. Garlock is president of the Midwest club. Mrs. Garlock and Mrs. Donnelley are the only two women members of the club who will handle dogs in the trials.

A dog of Mrs. Garlock's, Glenairlie Rocket, is being hailed as the outstanding young retriever of the year. This dog, a Labrador, is only 16 months old and has been trained by Mrs. Garlock and Francis Hogan of Barrington. It won two stakes at a recent Wisconsin trial and was second in one in Minneapolis. Gordon Kelley's dog, Nigger of Barrington, which won the open all age stake at the Minneapolis trial last week-end, will compete in the Midwest trials.

Three hunt teams from the DuPage Hounds will compete in the hunter trials to be held Sunday by the Mill Creek Hunt in Millburn. The teams are owned jointly by Mrs. Robert R. McCormick and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick. Representing the Longmeadow Hunt will be a team owned by Denison B. Hull, and two owned jointly by Ross J. Beatty Jr., Clarence B. Jones, and Henry Meers. Another visiting team will be from Oconomowoc, Wis.

Dinner for Debutante at Casino Tonight.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey and Mrs. Pauling Donnelley are giving a dinner tonight at the Casino for debutante Adelaide Chatfield Taylor, later taking their guests to see Tallulah Bankhead open in "I Am Different" at the Selwyn theater. There will be twenty in the party.

The J. Stewart Harveys have returned from Kansas City to make their home here. They have taken an apartment at 222 East Delaware place.

The Potter Palmers and their daughter, Pauline, are expected in Chicago early next week. Miss Palmer is recovering nicely from the recent appendectomy she underwent in Bar Harbor, Me., where the Palmers have their summer home. Mrs. Palmer left Bar Harbor by train last week-end to visit in New York, but was caught in Boston by the storm and had to proceed by plane to Mount Kisco, where she is with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne. Mr. and Miss Palmer will join Mrs. Palmer in New York today.

New York City is to be the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Steele (Margaret Quan). They are moving east today, leaving so suddenly that their friends hardly have had a chance to say good-by.

A Belle of the Season at Tea

Here is Miss Sally Perry at the tea given Monday at the Casino for the young women who will take part in St. Luke's fashion show on Oct. 18 in the Stevens hotel. Miss Perry, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry, was kept busy greeting friends that afternoon for she and her mother are just back from a long visit in Manila. Miss Perry is certain to be one of the belles of this season for she is charming and attractive with vivacity and friendliness two of her chief characteristics. She will make her debut at a dinner-dance at the Casino during the Christmas holidays. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Good Morning!

I think YOU'LL think that young Miss Withers really has something in "Keep Smiling."

Considering the "something" collectively, the portly little maiden has a built to order rôle for herself in a really entertaining story. Then, prominent in her supporting cast are that handsome and dynamic actor, Henry Wilcoxon, who makes his every scene count; Gloria Stuart, one of Hollywood's loveliest and most lovable blondes; Helen Westley, Pedro Cordoba, and other popular players. Yes, Janie's in the luck, this trip!

You meet the heroine in boarding school where she's being kept by her famous uncle, Director Jonathan Rand of Hollywood. When her yearning to visit him becomes more than she can stand, Jane sells her clothes and runs away to California—bang into an auction sale being held over Uncle's belongings. For Demon Drink has laid low Jonathan and his reputation.

His one time assistant, Carol Walters, who has been in love with him for years, takes the little girl home with her to the boarding house where she lives and which is run by "Hostess Willoughby"—who designates her place as a "guest house."

Carol and Jane conspire to rescue the perishing—and much happens in a short space of time.

With Jane the observer meets some colorful personalities, both at the "guest house" and in motion picture studios. The finalé is a thoroughly satisfactory one.

Jane does consistently good work and has one or two scenes where she's really swell. There was snap to the direction, and the film in general has what it takes to keep an audience of Withers fans in good humor.

'Snow White' Water Colors Are Exquisite

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the most exquisite and fanciful exhibitions the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building, have ever given us is seen in the current exhibit of original water colors from Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The entrancing, tiny animals and birds which moved so quickly through the scenes on the silver screen have been caught and tamed and stilled in these intriguing paintings.

Chief clown among them is the jolly old turtle whom we see tilted on his back legs, his head thrown back for a long wheezy chuckle to escape through his wrinkled throat, and sliding down the vast expanse of yellow waistcoat he shows an impudent, irresistible chipmunk. In quick succession after this are the delightful groups of blue birds, little skunks and coons, merry squirrels and chipmunks, and soft eyed rabbits and deer.

Snow White herself is present in a number of the water colors; the prince is found in one, and the seven little dwarfs are seen again and again. The individual snaps of Dopey will please his many fans.

The water colors are not the original paintings of Walt Disney, but come from his staf of artists. They are celluloids against a background of original water color. The celluloids are those from which the picture was made. It took over 475,000 individual paintings on celluloid to make the movie, but only 7,000 of these have been preserved. The rest are destroyed.

Each celluloid is different, although many which are similar are grouped in a series as the Dopey series [he is very much present]. Do not let the technical side of this exhibit frighten you away. The little pictures are charming and the exhibit is one you should not miss. It will continue through Oct. 31.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Off the Beaten Track.

Hopi Indian Reservation, Sept. 27.—In the earth surfaced square of the Hopi cliff village, on an Arizona mesa, thirty Indian braves wearing grotesque masks had just finished their harvest dance. One warrior sat on the ground beating out a rhythm on a drum that sent out booming notes. The masquers danced a dog-trot. On the ground before them were melons and bread, and at intervals an Indian in a red shirt moved forward and tossed handfuls of grain on the earth.

We watched the dancers from the roof of a one story stone dwelling, and other Indians sat or squatted in the shade of the buildings, watching the dancers impassively. One of them brought out a bottle of pop. A swarthy giant, unable to find a bottle opener, put the bottle cap to his teeth and pulled it off.

Here indeed was the last frontier, a primitive people dancing a primitive dance to the gods of the harvest. You might have bemoaned their lack of civilization, but when you returned to the car and turned on the radio you heard Adolf Hitler speaking from Berlin. He was boasting, not of Nordic civilization, but of the strength and power of his armies and air force. Goebbels followed Hitler and he warned that what happened in 1918 would not happen in 1938.

As the car sped through Arizona you wondered to yourself whether the Hopi Indians weren't better off without the benefits of a civilization that century after century rushed into Armageddon. Somehow the picture of the Indian brave throwing corn on the good earth was more impressive and godly than Hitler throwing down the gauntlet.

There are 50,000 Indians in Arizona. About 5,000 of them are Hopi Indians, who dwell together in villages. Forty-five thousand of them are nomad Navajos, who live alone, tending their sheep and goats and cattle. In the old days they fought bloody fights. At harvest time the Navajos would drive the Hopis to the high mesas, the stone plateaus, and hold them there while the Navajos stripped the corn from its stalks. Facing the prospect of a winter of starvation, the Hopis would trade their children for corn. This unusual barter is explained by the Navajo religion, which forbids intermarriage. So they needed Hopi children as bridegrooms and every year they'd raid the Hopi corn fields and threaten them with starvation unless they yielded their young.

At El Tovar hotel, on the rim of the Grand canyon, we found the lobby jammed with muscular young men. This was the University of Iowa football team, returning from its disastrous invasion of the U. C. L. A. campus. That is the abbreviation of University of California, Los Angeles branch.

Here was an opportunity to find out what the collegians of the middle west preferred in movie fare. Thirty-one of the Iowans filled out a questionnaire. Who was their favorite actress? Eight voted for Myrna Loy; seven voted for Alice Faye. Ginger Rogers got two votes. Olivia De Havilland got two votes. Who was their favorite actor? Spencer Tracy got eight votes; Clark Gable, five votes; Bing Crosby, four votes; Mickey Rooney, two votes; Wally Beery, two votes.

"Test Pilot" drew five votes; "Alexander's Rag Time Band," four votes, and two apiece went to "Mutiny on the Bounty," "San Francisco," and "Three Comrades." Actresses who got one vote apiece were Carole Lombard, Luise Rainer, Rochelle Hudson, Dorothy Lamour, Marjorie Weaver, Margaret Sullavan, Katharine Hepburn, Betty Grable, Sylvia Sidney, Patricia Lane, Maureen O'Sullivan. Actors who rated one vote apiece were Paul Muni, Herbert Marshall, Fredric March, Lionel Barrymore, Leslie Howard, Warner Baxter, Franchot Tone, Gary Cooper, Fred MacMurray, and Tyrone Power.

Salient features of this survey of the Iowa gridders are the rapid rise of Alice Faye and the solid popularity of Spencer Tracy. Significant, too, is that Clark Gable is the only one of the matinée idols to hold male popularity. Robert Taylor didn't get a single mention. Tyrone Power was mentioned only once. Bing Crosby, finishing a close third to Gable, showed unexpected strength.

The roads and trading posts are crowded with American Legionnaires traveling back from Los Angeles with their families. At Cameron, Ariz., just out of the Indian country, the trading post was filled with the Legion. An Indian, his jet black hair tied back with a bright red ribbon, was serving ice cream sodas, and they were surprisingly good sodas. As we stood there drinking sodas there was an invasion of huge fellows. This was the football team of the Arizona State Teachers' college returning by bus to Flagstaff after absorbing a drubbing from Brigham Young university.

The sun was setting when we came to the Grand Canyon and the jagged walls were aflame with color. Three thousand feet below us the muddy little Colorado flowed. I have never seen anything so majestic or so awe-inspiring as though nature here had been convulsed in a tremendous battle, leaving only giant stone ghosts as sentinels. I've never seen a sky so blue, or clouds so white, or a sunset that looked so much like molten gold.

The Housewife

It's fun to modernize your living room by getting several small tables of the new natural finished or bleached woods. There are so many styles that you won't have trouble finding just what you want and that will harmonize with the rest of your furniture.

Take the stunning little coffee table we saw the other day, for example. It is of bleached mahogany in a lovely off-white tone, and its slender legs are gracefully curved. Just below the top is a shallow, divided shelf, a most practical feature, for this added space does away with the clutter of ash trays and small impedimenta that litter the top of the average table.

A charming lamp table in this same wood had a curved tripod support and two round tops, one placed beneath the other.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Noah's Ark" is a simple appliqué block which is ideal for children's beds. It also may be used as the central motif of a coverlet, with pairs of animals marching gayly around it. Green, red, blue, tan, and cream against a white background form the color scheme, although it may be as brilliant a coverlet as you choose. Thirty appliqué blocks, surrounded by a seven and a half inch border and a half inch bias binding, comprise the coverlet.

For a pattern of "Noah's Ark" appliqué pattern, No. X-85, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

A Door Closed Softly

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright, 1938, By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. By mistake they go to the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But 13 year old Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. While in the house David had seen a favorite book of his former love, Betsy Greentree, with her initials in it. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David breakfasts next morning with Alison and her friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke. Penelope calls to tell them their neighbors have acquired a parrot. David learns from the proprietor of an animal shop that a parrot had been sold that morning to Geoffrey Scarpath. David returns to watch the house and sees the parrot and a doctor paying a visit to the house. He sends a letter to Elizabeth at the address.

INSTALMENT IX.

ELIZABETH'S HUSBAND.

Four days gone by—and still David received no answer to his letter. It might be that Elizabeth was too ill to write, or again that she had no wish to renew former acquaintances. Either way hurt abominably, but the worst was not knowing. If David could have accepted the latter solution—well, he'd have been able forever to wipe the girl off his slate.

He had been ashamed to tell Alison what he had done. Alone with his worry, he roamed London, feeling he had butted his head against a hopelessly blank wall. More than once it occurred to him that Elizabeth's illness might be taking some peculiarly distressing form. Mental disorder.

He could no longer dismiss it, and began to wonder if he ought not to drop investigations, particularly since one lurking suspicion had been squashed. Elizabeth could by no chance have been married for her money. Nathan Greentree had left precisely nothing.

"Not a red cent," John Fellowes had stated positively. "Greentree, if he'd lived, would have been selling apples on Fifth avenue—and Elizabeth, but for Fanny Rush's coming to the rescue, serving in some dress shop, I suppose. Fanny, we've heard, has some means of her own the crash didn't touch. I imagine she saw Elizabeth married, and called it a day. As to her furnishing an allowance, I should very much doubt it. Those two never did exactly hit it off."

"And all this time you've worked in London you've never heard these Scarpaths mentioned?" David had wanted to know.

John had repeated his denial, advising against getting hot in the collar over a girl who was probably all right. He promised to nose round in New York and if he got wind of anything to shoot over a cable—and with this David had to be content.

Meanwhile, with the one connecting link temporarily broken—Ladbroke's niece was hunting in one of the shires and had paid no notice to the line forwarded to her—there was nothing to do but gravitate back at frequent intervals to Heath Crescent, drawing a series of complete blanks, till Wednesday evening.

This time there had been no mist, only clear, black gloom. Having by now settled in his own mind that Elizabeth's bedroom must be at the back corner, facing obliquely on the Wibbe's domain, David had sneaked in and taken a crouching position under a lilac bush directly beneath what he believed was her side window.

At first all he saw was a faint thread of light, but about 9 o'clock this widened to a big oblong of brightness. He then made out a form apparently swathed in a pale dressing grown—only a blur through the intervening glass. After another moment the sash had been raised, cautiously, with a minimum of sound, and the figure inside leaned out. A girl—and her hair was dark! His heart had beat a muddled tattoo.

Into the night she peered, rubbed her eyes, and peered again as though trying without success to make out what lay beyond. There was pathos in her utterly limp attitude, a sort of hopeless dejection—and he did not like the nervous way she kept glancing back over her shoulder.

Suddenly she stretched both arms out in front of her—longingly, as a prisoner might have done. The loose sleeves fell away, and a shock went through him at sight of the arms themselves—mere white slivers. When a smothered sob reached him he could bear no more, but called out to her, softly.

"Elizabeth!" His whisper barely stirred the air. "Elizabeth—is it you?"

Her fingers gripped the sill, and for a second as she turned he saw her little, shapely head outlined clearly against the light behind. He stepped into the open—to dodge quickly back. Someone behind had spoken to her—someone, he assumed, just entering the room. He heard her make hasty excuses: "I only wanted some air. I'm getting straight back to bed."

Then she disappeared, the sash was lowered by an unseen hand, and the curtains, jerked across, shut out the light. Still, the voice had been Elizabeth's. Three years since he had heard it, but he'd have known it out of a million.

For one thing he was profoundly thankful: he had got rid of that hideous doubt about her sanity. What he did know was that she was intensely miserable—and her tone to the other person, apologetic, almost guilty, added fuel to the dread consuming him. It had hinted, he thought, at some peculiar form of restraint.

On Thursday, at 6, he called for Alison at her office, as usual asking if she minded their stopping in at the American club on the offchance of mail. He was dumfounded when the inquiry clerk at once handed him a note, explaining it had that very moment been left by a gentleman just gone out.

"Didn't you notice him, sir? Wait, maybe I can call him back."

Off dashed the clerk, leaving David to tear open the thick, white envelope and scan what was inside—a short, courteous message, written on club paper from an address in St. James'.

"It's Scarpath," he muttered, thrusting the note on Alison. "So now maybe we'll learn things . . ."

"Geoffrey Scarpath? No!" In amazement Alison stared first at the close, firm writing, then to the pavement outside. "O, gosh! And how he's hating to be dragged back!"

Geoffrey Scarpath shrugged slightly as though facing a burdensome duty, ran up the club steps, and directed a keen gaze on the two Americans. David broke the rather awkward pause by introducing himself, then his cousin.

Conscious of tension thinly veiled, David led the way into the pleasant writing room, fortunately vacant and in semi-dusk, relieved to notice that neither of them seemed to be associated in their guest's mind with the Saturday event. Scarpath, with the unstressed naturalness eloquent of his caste, appeared to be accepting them at their face value—his wife's one-time acquaintances, boring, perhaps, but none the less—noblesse oblige!—to be met with a good grace.

"A drink?" David suggested, hand on the bell. The chary gesture implied there might hardly be time, but he rang, all the same. Cocktails helped to ease matters. Here was his chance to see exactly what the man was like—and he was doggedly bent on making the most of it.

Scarpath had taken his stance on the hearth rug before the fire, his features lit by recurrent flashes of flame. He bore scrutiny well. Indeed, in his presence all the cousins had been thinking tended to resolve into fancy more ridiculous than gross. He was so clean cut, so freshly immaculate—in a way, so conventional!

Though thoroughly British in type, he did not suggest much of the true racial phlegm. Clothes? A part of him, unnoticeable, therefore right. His tweeds were tawny gray, closely matching the crisp, vital hair cut short enough to reveal a head singularly good in form. Mouth arrogant, possibly just tinged with a spoiled humor, eyes frostily blue, very light.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Popovers are the one item in this short cut menu for business women which take more than a short time to cook. Mixing them is easy as pie, but the baking takes about 40 minutes in all. So it's wise to start them first thing. When they're in the oven, there's plenty of time left to get the rest of the food ready.

SHORT CUT DINNER
Broiled Sirloin Steak with Sweet Potatoes [canned]
Buttered Broccoli
Popovers
Cream Cheese Maraschino
Toasted Crackers
Coffee

Put the canned sweets on the rack with the steak, after brushing them well with butter and sprinkling with salt. By the time the steak has cooked they'll be piping hot and browned. They may be turned at the time the steak is turned. If it's a thick steak you're cooking, say 1½ to 2 inches, you'd better give it a little head start on the potatoes. A thick steak may take as much as 15 minutes to a side, if you like it rather well done, and if you use the moderate oven now recommended by authorities on meat cookery.

Cook the cleaned broccoli in boiling, salted water, with no cover on the pan and, as soon as it is tender, drain it and season with more salt, pepper, and butter. Overcooked broccoli develops strong flavor and is too soft in texture to have character. It's better a little on the raw, crisp side.

Simple French Dressing.
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¾ teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon sugar
¾ cup vinegar or lemon juice
⅝ cup salad oil
½ teaspoon grated onion

Popovers.
[Ten.]
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons melted shortening
1 cup milk
2 eggs, unbeaten

Heat well greased muffin pans in hot oven. Sift flour and salt into a mixing bowl, add other ingredients, and beat until smooth with a rotary beater. Fill the hot pans a third to a half full and place in 450 degree oven for 20 minutes. Reduce heat and bake about 20 minutes longer at 350 degrees. The lower temperature dries out the popovers and makes them hold shape.

CREAM CHEESE MARASCHINO.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

If you're overweight or your silhouette is perfect, it doesn't matter in this dress, because the lines are designed to lend that long, slim line prescribed by fashion this season. It's all part of the conspiracy of high hairdresses and high hats perched aloft. Everything this year is styled to make you appear tall and slender.

The V neckline may be left plain or treated to a narrow roll collar of contrasting fabric. Buttons or a slide fastener do duty in the bodice, which is very brief, because the waistline begins at a higher level than ordinarily. The sleeves are squared and puffed at the shoulders and may be long and slim to the wrists or end above the elbow in a flare of fluffy fullness. At the waist, by the way, you may have a belt if you like one, and if your figure is slim enough to warant it. If you're a little on the plump side, avoid a belt, since it might "cut you in half."

Both plain and figured materials make up well. Plain shades this season often appear in fascinating weaves for interest.

Style No. 2535 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

clad as the models they have come to see. Perhaps each spectator feels called upon to shine as brightly as possible so as not to appear too dowdy in comparison with the mannequins.

New clothes in the audience, as well as on the stage, seems to be the rule at the fashion show the Winnetka board of Northwestern University Settlement gives each year, and certainly the twelfth show, planned for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the New Trier High school, Winnetka, will prove no exception. Customers, as well as exhibitors, will have more room to show their finery this year, for the show is being held in larger quarters than ever before, in the Leslie Gates gymnasium. Entrance is by way of Essex road; tickets will be on sale at the door for those who have not been forehanded enough to secure seats, and tea will be served after the show is over.

Tea service will be expedited by the use of four large tables, each one decorated with autumn leaves and fall flowers in a silver wine cooler. The four coolers are being filled this morning by Mrs. Bentley McCloud of the Kenilworth Garden club; Mrs. W. Lindsay Suter of the Winnetka Weeders, and Mrs. Samuel W. McCauley and Mrs. Arthur Sullivan of the Winnetka Garden club.

The climax of the show will be a bridal procession, with Miss Dorothy Wilder taking the part of the bride; the special feature will be arrangements of flowers for formal occasions, exhibited on garden carts. The debutantes who will act as models include Miss Jane Allen, Miss Miriam Bartlett, Miss Jane Bulger, Miss Margaret Burrows, Miss Helen Chancellor, Miss Elizabeth Crawford, Miss Mary Hale, Miss Ann Harrington, Miss Dorothy Herbst, Miss Phyllis Hollands, Miss Catharine Johnson, Miss Katherine Littlefield, Miss Barbara Mechem, Miss Phyllis Peter, and Miss Jane Zimmerman. Two other buds, Miss Sarah Mosser and Miss Mary Frances Jannotta, will be among the ushers. The other models and ushers have taken part in the show in past years.

Caught in the up-stream current, brims follow the lead of the brushed-up hair, the new high shoulders, the push-up sleeves. CUBS WHIP PIRATES, 2-1; HALF GAME FROM TOP

TRAYNOR FEELS CONFIDENT, OR SO HE CLAIMS

Gives Rizzo, Brown Highest Praise.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Are Pittsburgh's Pirates jittery over their possible pennant fate in the National league race? Are they fretting over fear that they might do another of those dives for which Pirate teams are best remembered? Not in the least.

Harold [Pie] Traynor, the Pirate boss who is an affable type of human, does the speaking for his boys when the above questions pop up. The queries don't even nettle the head man. They merely amuse him.

"We have the edge and will continue to have it as long as we're in first place," he declared yesterday before his leaders began tussling with the closely pursuing Cubs. "You can call it confidence or spirit, we have both," he added. Pie also admits, bashfully of course, that the ability of some of his charges will mean something in the few remaining battles.

Pie Knows the Answers.

What has made the difference between the Pirates of this and last season? Traynor also has the answer for that. It's Johnny Rizzo, the Columbus American association outfielder who was purchased last winter through the St. Louis Cardinals. Rizzo has come through with the long drives which produce runs on a minimum of efforts. A Rizzo is the crying need of the Cubs.

Traynor wants it understood, however, that Rizzo isn't the whole team. Arky Vaughan, always a good hitter, but unsteady on defense at short, has sparkled in that latter particular. In fact, the entire infield is a tight combination, as well as handy with the bat. Comparatively new pitchers have come through under the catching guidance of Al Todd, who in addition is a menace at bat.

Don't Forget Mr. Brown.

"And what would we have done without the aid of Mace Brown?" Traynor said, significantly. "That fellow has been in almost forty ball games, almost all as a relief man. When a team has a work horse of that kind it means a lot."

Unlike the Cubs, the Pirates have been in first place so much this year that they have reason to believe it's their property. They were at the top the first week of the season, having won their first seven games. This streak was halted by the Cubs. The Pirates subsequently subsided, the Giants taking the lead. Late in May the Cubs began to move and on June 5 mounted the driver's seat, but their only appearance in that rôle was limited to four days. It then became the Giants' turn to resume the pace.

They Remember July 12.

The Giants hung on to the lofty perch until July 12. The Pirates came into Chicago that day, trimmed the Cubs for their thirteenth straight, and moved back into the lead. They haven't been dislodged since, mainly because of their steadiness. They haven't had a losing streak all year in excess of five and that happened between April 28 and May 2.

The farthest the Pirates ever had been ahead of their pursuers was six and one-half games. They had that edge over the Giants on Aug. 9. The Cubs were eight behind the leaders at that time. On Sept. 2 the Pirates were again ahead by the same margin, the Cubs and Reds being tied for second.

Just where the Pirates' one time wide lead has gone is easily explained. It vanished because their pace hasn't been as swift as that maintained by the Cubs. Since Sept. 4 when Traynor's troops were six and one-half laps ahead of the pack, the Cubs literally have ripped the league apart. In that short stretch they have fashioned eighteen victories against three defeats. The Pirates' record for the same period is eleven triumphs and nine trimmings. That's what carved the Pirate lead down to a half game yesterday, the closest the Cubs have been since June 8, when the Giants trimmed them.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

FOOTBALL coaches are getting to be the most unreliable people in sports. . . . Take that fellow Robertson down at Bradley Tech. . . . His team played St. Louis university Friday night. . . . This department picked St. Louis to win the game. . . . Robertson, who was a member of the All-Star coaching staf this summer, told us he would use only his own plays against his opening opponent. . . . That's the reason we forecast a victory for St. Louis. . . . Then what does he do? . . . Right off the bat he uses one of Ward's surefire scoring plays and whips the enemy, 6 to 0. . . . And while we are on the subject let's take up the case of Bernie Moore at Louisiana State. . . . Bernie was up this way six weeks ago watching the All-Stars reherse the plays we had given McMillin, Pond, Kipke, Layden, and Robertson for the game with the Redskins and he invited us to come to Baton Rouge for his team's encounter with Rice Saturday, which he said might decide the championship of the South. . . . All he had to do was knock off Mississippi, a soft touch, to come up to the Rice game undefeated. . . . But look what happened. . . . Underestimating the strength of Mississippi, Moore, who usually is a dependable gent, tried to get by with his own plays instead of employing the ones he had learned from this department when he was on the All-Star staf a year ago. . . . The result—Mississippi, 20; Louisiana State, 7. . . . And the thing that hurts most of all is that Coach Harry Mehre of Mississippi, whom we helped through philosophy exams eighteen years ago, would pull a trick like that on us, when he must have known we had forecast victory for Louisiana State. . . . It's enough to make one lose faith in humanity, to say nothing of football predictions. . . .

Ralph Heikkinen, Michigan guard, who as a junior was picked last fall by his mates as the most valuable man on the squad, traveled more than 16,500 miles during the summer as campaign manager in the upper peninsula for a Republican gubernatorial candidate. . . . Cy Perkins, recently released as a Tiger scout, said he did not see a semi-pro player of big league promise all summer. . . . The rainy days of early September have taught the Giants and Reds a costly lesson. . . . Postponement until September of early season cancellations wrecked their pennant chances. . . . Next year the games probably will be played off on the earliest available dates.

Fishing.

I never went fishing
Out on a lake
When the sun
Was going to bed.
But I have been skating
Out on a pond
With the man-
In-the-moon overhead.

Where a bon-fire bright
Lent a charm to the night
So smoky and smelly with pine,
Where the big figure eight
Was a joy—when
You skate—on the pond
In the cold winter time.

Where marshmallows sweet
Were a treat
Just to eat—toasted brown
O'er embers o' pine.
No! I never went fishin'
Out on a lake;
I'll take a pond—
In the grand winter time.

GREENBERG HITS 2 MORE; BOOSTS HIS TOTAL TO 58

Tigers Defeat Browns, 5 to 4 and 10 to 2.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Hank Greenberg hit two tremendous drives to center for his 57th and 58th home runs of the season today as Detroit beat the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4 and 10 to 2. Greenberg has five more games in which to break Babe Ruth's 1927 major league record of 60 homers.

The homers, hit off Pitcher Bill Cox in the first and third innings of the seven-inning second game, marked the eleventh time this season Greenberg has hit two circuit drives in a single game, thus bettering his own big league record for that feat.

Greenberg's first homer was a 440-foot liner inside the park, and Hank had to slide home to beat the relay in from center. Mark Christman, Detroit third baseman, hit a home run inside the park in the first game. Charlie Gehringer hit his 20th homer of the season in the second game.

Greenberg's homers, hit in his 149th game, moved him ahead of the pace Ruth set in his record year. Ruth hit his 57th on Sept. 27 in his 151st game and his 58th in the 152d game, two days later. Scores:

If — —

Following the current Cub-Pirate series the Cubs will wind up the season with three battles with the Cardinals, while the Pirates are playing four contests with the Reds.

If the Cubs win one of the two remaining Pirate games and sweep the three against St. Louis, they can take the National league pennant, if Pittsburgh breaks even with the Reds. The final standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	90	62	.592
Pittsburgh	88	62	.587

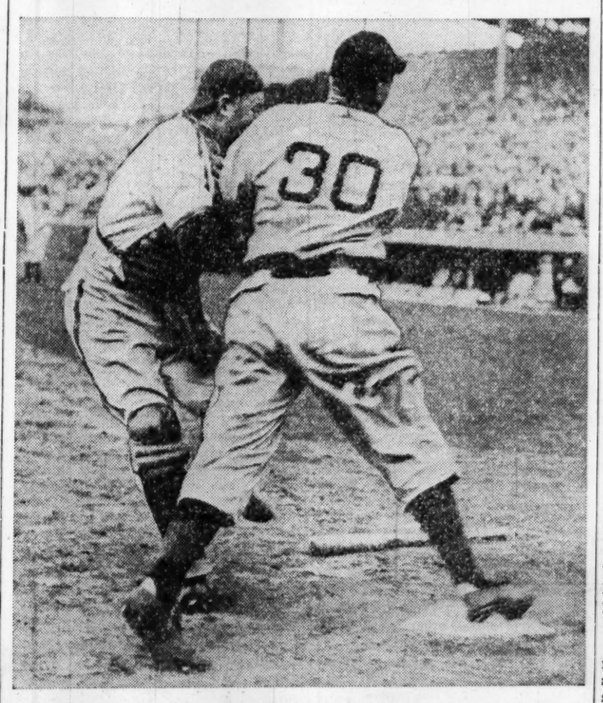
On the same basis of two to one against the Pirates and three straight over the Cards, the Cubs would fail by a single percentage point, if Pittsburgh should win three of its four games with the Reds. The standing in that case:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburgh	89	61	.593
Chicago	90	62	.592

If the Cubs lose both remaining games to the Pirates, Pittsburgh would need only one victory in its four games with the Reds, even if the Cubs should sweep the Card series. This would make the final standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pittsburgh	88	62	.587
Chicago	89	63	.586

All's Well That Ends Well



Al Todd, Pirate catcher, is caught at the plate on a toss from Dizzy Dean to Manager Hartnett in the eighth inning of yesterday's game. The Cubs won, 2 to 1. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Dean, grieved by his failure to finish against the league leaders, sits disconsolately in the Cub dugout. He was all smiles a moment later when Bill Lee fanned Al Todd to end the game.

Cubs Decide to Use Stars; It's Lee Tomorrow.

"In the pinch you've got to come up with the best you have."

Having made this remark yesterday, Gabby Hartnett, the Cub leader, followed with the announcement that it would be Clay Bryant today and Bill Lee tomorrow in the two remaining battles of the series with the Pirates.

Bryant and Lee must be started, partly because they are Gabby's best, and partly because there is no other choice, at least nothing on which Hartnett can rely. Even with his best Hartnett will be gambling. He'll have to gamble on the comeback powers of his two mound stalwarts.

They're Both Workhorses.

Both Bryant and Lee have carried more than their share of the burden all year, but with their pending assignments will complete their most crowded week of the campaign. Bryant worked in Philadelphia last Thursday. He pitched in Wrigley field last Sunday, winning again.

Today's start will be his third in seven days. It will be the same with Lee. He also pitched last Thursday and again Monday. His relief of Dizzy Dean in the ninth inning yesterday added to his load.

Pirate Stars Are Ready.

Against two pitching opponents who might be tired, the Pirates can offer not only their best, but men who have had a chance to rest. Today it will be Bob Klinger for the half-game leaders. Klinger hasn't worked since last Thursday. Tomorrow Russ Bauers will start and he will have had four days of leisure.

Augie Galan, who suffered a recurrence of his old knee injury in sliding to second in the second inning yesterday, will play no more for the Cubs this season. After X-ray pictures were taken in Illinois Masonic hospital last night, physicians announced that the knee muscles are torn.

Somewhere in the Wrigley field throng were President William Harridge of the American league and President Ford Frick of the National.

Umpire Bick Campbell, borrowed from the International league recently when Bill Stewart became ill, was included in the four men assigned to guess decisions during the series. Campbell drew an honor unusual for a newcomer because of the impression he made on Pie Traynor, the Pirate manager, in a game in Pittsburgh. Traynor told President Frick that Campbell was perfect, so Frick made the assignment.

Tomorrow's game will begin at 2:30 instead of 3 p. m. The move was made to take care of the possibility of extra innings.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The champion Newark Bears took a three to one lead in their final International league playoff series with Buffalo tonight by defeating the Bisons, 9 to 7. The Bears now need only one more victory to clinch the best-of-seven series. Score:

PITTSBURGH IS HELD TO SEVEN HITS BY DEAN

Lee Fans Todd to End Battle.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Dizzy Dean did it with last minute pitching aid from Bill Lee and just enough socking help from Ripper Collins, Bill Jurges, Frankie Demaree, and Phil Cavarretta. The Cubs beat the Pirates in the opener of the "September world series" yesterday, 2 to 1, a magnificent spectacle before 42,238 giddy guests, in which thrills never abated until Al Todd contributed the only strikeout of the afternoon with the tying run on third to end the game.

It was the Cubs' eighty-sixth victory of the year, one more than the Pirates have won, and the Chicagoans this morning are a half game out of first place, having lost two more games than the Pirates have. It was the eighth straight success for the Cubs, their eighteenth in their last twenty-one games.

Dean, who presided at twenty-six of the twenty-seven putouts before giving way to Lee's strikeout skill, was credited with his seventh victory against one defeat. It was Diz' first start since Aug. 20, and if he had stayed for the final putout it would have been his first full game since he beat the Giants on July 23.

Those Boys Are Dangerous.

Since the big thrill was saved for the finish, we will give you the details of the Pirate ninth before telling you specifically of the noble business that preceded the late excitement.

The ninth got under way with Arky Vaughan being hit by a pitched ball. Gus Suhr then supplied the first out with a pop up to Bill Herman. Woody Jensen batted for Pep Young and grounded to Dean. Diz whirled and threw to Jurges, forcing Vaughan just before Arky leaped high in the air, apparently in an effort to cut Bill's ears off with his spikes. Jurges didn't have a chance to try for the double play, though he neatly sidestepped Vaughan's steel while the crowd hooted.

At this juncture, then, there were two out and Jensen was on first. Lee Handley lined a double to left center, Jensen stopping at third.

Bill Lee, who beat the Cardinals Monday, had been warming up during the time Diz was getting out of an eighth inning jam. There was a powwow on the pitcher's mound. Out went Dean to the accompaniment of the crowd's roar. In came Lee.

Then Came Mr. Todd.

Todd was at the plate. Todd, the big catcher, already something of a goat because of a foolish attempt to reach second on a single in the second inning and because he was tossed out by Dean at the plate standing up in the eighth.

Lee's second pitch to Todd was a wild pitch, Bill's second in the forty-two games in which he has played this year. Jensen scored and Handley went to third with the tying run. There hadn't been a strikeout on either side, but there was one after Lee got through with Todd. Al missed on the third strike by something less than a foot.

It was, of course, a great day for Dean, lover of the dramatic. The crowd was capacity and apparently for him to the last man and gal. The big fellow yielded two hits in the first inning and one in the second. The next hit was made with two out in the sixth. There were two

MARICA, ESPOSA RACE SEABISCUIT AT HAVRE TODAY

Gives Taggart Mare Four Pounds in Handicap.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Seabiscuit is scheduled to race two speedy feminine rivals in the 27th running of the Havre de Grace handicap tomorrow.

Making his first start since he was beaten in the Manhattan handicap at Belmont Park, Seabiscuit has been asked to pick up 128 pounds and run a mile and one-eighth against Thomas D. Taggart's Marica, the season's best mare, and William Ziegler's Esposa, recent winner of the Hawthorne gold cup.

Besides Marica, weighted with 124 pounds, and Esposa, in at 121, Seabiscuit's leading rivals are expected to be Hal Price Headley's 3 year old Menow, winner of the Potomac handicap, and W. S. Kilmer's Nedayr. Completing the field are Two Bob, Savage Beauty, Masked General, the horse that gave War Admiral a tussle last fall; Rex Flag, and Mr. Canron.

JOHNSTOWN WINS

New York, Sept. 27.—(AP)—William Woodward's Johnstown, favorite to win the $80,000 futurity Saturday, galloped to an easy victory in the Nursery handicap at Belmont today. Johnstown ran the six furlongs in 1:10 3-5 to win by five lengths. He carried 122 pounds.

G. D. Widener's Birch Rod, another futurity eligible, was second, beating Herbert M. Woolf's Inscoleda by three lengths. Gallapol, also eligible for the futurity, was out of the money.

Sickle T., which Mrs. E. F. Whittaker recently acquired from Warren Wright, scored his first victory for his new owner by taking the Montauk claiming stakes over the mile and a furlong. He outran Clarence Buxton's entry of Knight's Haven and Billy Van Nuys by four lengths.

CHASAR WINNER

Chasar, by one last powerful stride, won the feature race at Hawthorne yesterday from Easy Sailing in a photo finish. Chasar was far out on the track after driving up into a contending position from last place in the field of seven. Even though he was coming with a terrific rush it appeared he would be unable to get up in time. It still seemed he might have missed until the picture was developed.

Chasar's last start found him a creditable fourth back of Esposa in the Gold cup race. Off this race he was made a slight choice yesterday. Xenomay and Gato were away first in the mile test, with Easy Sailing rated along in third place and Chasar last. At the far turn Easy Sailing made his move and went into a slight lead. But when Easy Sailing, Xenomay, and Chasar straightened out for the drive, it was Chasar which turned on the most power.

Chasar's time for the mile was 1:40 1-5 and he paid $8.40.

Miss Claire B. Slott of 348 South Hamlin avenue won the $500 rating contest by picking five winners and three seconds. The day's contest was closest of the meeting. Eighteen others picked five winners. Miss Slott, a secretary, was accompanied by her father, Dr. S. E. Slott, and missed only the second and seventh races.

CARDINALS WILL FACE PACKERS IN BUFFALO TONIGHT

The second and concluding game of the Chicago Cardinals' season series against the Green Bay Packers will be played in Buffalo, N. Y., tonight. The Cardinals left the loop yesterday for Buffalo, smarting under the 28 to 7 whipping the Packers administered to them in Milwaukee Sunday.

After the Buffalo game, the Cardinals move on to Brooklyn to meet the Dodgers on Sunday afternoon. The Packers return to Green Bay to await the Detroit Lions on Oct. 9.

Detroit, meanwhile, is preparing to return to National league competition on Sunday at Cleveland after a three week lay off.

President Thomas E. Lipscomb, president of the Cleveland team, yesterday issued an ultimatum to the Rams, decrying their poor showing to date in three league games and warning that only marked improvement would prevent a wholesale housecleaning. Only the ends and backs have been producing, Lipscomb said.

Joe Maniaci, former Fordham star, who was a member of the 1936 Chicago Tribune All-Stars squad, was added to the Bear roster yesterday in a cash deal with the Brooklyn Dodgers. He will join the Bears tomorrow. Maniaci is a half back and full back.

STENGEL SIGNS AS MANAGER OF BOSTON FOR '39

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Reappointment of Casey Stengel as manager of the Boston Bees for 1939 was announced by General Manager Bob Quinn tonight to forestall any rumors to the contrary.

"We generally wait until one season is over before announcing plans for the next one," Quinn said, "but since there are so many managerial rumors flying about, this is as good a time as any to announce that Casey Stengel has accepted the Bees' terms to continue as their manager for the 1939 season."

Stengel, engaged last winter when Bill McKechnie transfered to Cincinnati, was equally nonchalant about his reappointment. He said he would retain his present coaches, Mike and George Kelley.

FOOTBALL GAME TONIGHT.

BEES WIN TWO.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Two outstanding pitching performances, Jim Turner's 11 inning three-hitter and rookie Tom Early's four-hitter, today enable the Boston Bees to sweep a double header with the Phillies, 2 to 1 and 4 to 1. Turner, who reached Hugh Mulcahy for three of the Bees' nine hits, decided the first game by scoring the winning run after opening the eleventh with a single.

Early, a 21 year old rookie up from Hartford, owed his successful major league debut to West, who drove in three of the Bees' runs. Scores:

WILSON MAY, OR MAY NOT QUIT; HE WON'T TALK

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, tonight refused to comment on reports that he intended to resign at the end of the season Sunday.

"I have nothing to say about that now, and I won't discuss it until I see President Jerry Nugent in Philadelphia on Saturday," Wilson said. "I have no understanding with him whether I am to be retained or not next season."

Cleveland, O., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Bob Feller, the Van Meter boy wonder, today scored his seventeenth victory of the season for Cleveland by defeating the White Sox, 6 to 1. He limited the Sox to five hits and struck out ten.

Monty Stratton worked for the Sox and suffered his ninth loss. He was seeking his sixteenth victory, but was handicapped by bases on balls and wildness, which proved costly in the first and sixth innings when Cleveland scored five of its six runs.

Feller ran his strike out total to 222 for the season and practically assured himself of the league lead.

Sox Tie Score.

The Indians took the lead in the first inning. Lary singled and Weatherly walked. Averill flied deep to Radcliff and Lary moved to third after the catch. Heath then singled to right, scoring Lary and sending Weatherly to third, whence the latter scored on Trosky's single to right.

Stratton got the first two men to face him in the third, but Heath doubled and Trosky singled. However, Trosky's shot was hit so well into right field that Steinbacher tossed to Kuhel, who relayed the ball to Rensa in time to get Heath at the plate.

Steinbacher beat out a hit to Keltner to open the third and the Sox were back in the ball game when Appling walked and Rosenthal singled, Steinbacher scoring.

Then the Blowoff.

The Indians, however, cashed in on a fluke base hit, two other singles, and three passes for three runs in their sixth. After two were out Pytlak singled to center and Keltner was given a base hit when Appling juggled his easy roller. Kroner and Feller walked, the latter forcing in Pytlak. When Lary singled off Owen's glove, Keltner and Kroner scored. Weatherly then walked to fill the bases, but Averill sent an easy fly to Radcliff to end the inning.

Heath hit his nineteenth homer to open the seventh and made the score 6 to 1.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 27.—(AP)—Walter Judnich hit two home runs and two singles to lead the Kansas City Blues to a 7 to 6 victory over St. Paul tonight in the fifth game of the American association playoff finals. Judnich drove in five runs.

A late St. Paul rally was checked by Frank Makosky in the ninth after the Saints had scored one run and had the tying run on second with one out. The series now stands three games for St. Paul and two for Kansas City. Score:

Kansas Plans No Changes for NotreDame

Lawrence, Kas., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The same eleven which led Kansas to a victory over Texas last Saturday probably will start against Notre Dame at South Bend this week.

Although not entirely satisfied with the work of some of the regulars against Texas, Coach Ad Lindsey has decided against making any changes.

None of the players suffered more than bruises and sprains against Texas and Kansas will enter the game in good shape. Two men who were out of the Texas game due to injuries will get down to work this week and at least one of them, Lyman Divens, senior half back, should be ready to play.

EXPECT 45,000 AT GAME.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Football fever is in the air again at Notre Dame and a record breaking opening day crowd of 45,000 is predicted for Saturday's game with Kansas.

The crowd will be swelled by thousands of members of youth groups from South Bend and vicinity. Fred Snite Jr., recent Notre Dame graduate and infantile paralysis victim, will attend the game in his specially built trailer.

Badger Alumni Rally in Brevoort Hotel Tonight

The first of a series of Big Ten alumni rallies will be held tonight when the University of Wisconsin club holds its fall stag in the Brevoort hotel. The alumni will gather at 5:30 o'clock and for movies of this year's practice games and last year's contests—with explanations by Guy Sundt, assistant athletic director.

Cubs Defeat Pirates, 2 to 1; ½ Game Back

safeties in the eighth. And not a smack was an extra baser until Handley made that double with two out in the ninth, to round out the Pirate hit total at seven. Dean did not walk a batsman, the third straight game in which Cub opponents have not received a base on balls.

The run that appeared enough to win until the flareup after two were out in the ninth, was scored by Collins, who led off the third inning with a triple off Jim Tobin. Jurges sent him home with a single to right. Later in the inning there were two on with none out and the bases were full with one out. But the harvest prospects disappeared with a double play.

The second and winning run was produced in the sixth. Demaree scratched an infield single and went to third on Cavarretta's single, the eighth and last Chicago hit. Demaree scored on a force play precipitated by Carl Reynolds' grounder to Vaughan.

Dizzy Saves Strength.

Dizzy required only eleven pitches to get through the first inning, although five batsman faced him. Lloyd Waner took a strike, then singled to right. Paul Waner let a wide one pass, then lined to Demaree. After missing a strike, Rizzo sent a gentle fly to Reynolds. Vaughan fouled off two strikes then singled to center, L. Waner taking third. After missing a strike, Suhr went out to Collins on a sharp bouncer.

Only three batsmen faced Dean in the second, though the pirates got their third hit. Hack threw out Young and Dean threw out Handley after a nice pickup going to his right. Todd singled to left and, when Galan fumbled momentarily, Todd ridiculously overrated his own speed. He tried to reach second and was an easy out, Galan to Herman.

And here's the record of production in the Cub third: Collins banged a triple to the right flagpole, watched Jurges run the count to two balls and two strikes, then scored on Bill's single to right. Dean sacrificed and when Handley threw late in an attempt to force Jurges at second, Jurges and Dean were safe. Suhr made a nice stop of Hack's hot grounder and threw to Vaughan, forcing Dean, Jurges stopping at third. Herman was hit by a pitched ball, loading the bases. Demaree lined to Young and Herman was doubled off first.

This Decided It.

The Cubs' second run was produced in the sixth. Tobin threw out Herman, but Demaree's high bouncer evaded Tobin for a single. Cavarretta rammed a single to right, Demaree taking third. Reynolds forced Cavarretta, Vaughan to Young, Demaree scoring. Young threw into the dugout in an impossible try for a double play and Reynolds was waved to second. Hartnett walked, but the inning ended with Collins' foul to Handley.

And here's the detail of the big jam in the Pirates' eighth. Todd opened with a single to left. Manush batted for Tobin and flied to Reynolds. L. Waner singled to right, putting Todd on third. P. Waner grounded to Dean, who threw to Hartnett and Gabby tagged Todd as he surrendered at the plate. Rizzo then flied to Reynolds.

BRITAIN ADOPTS 14 CLUB LIMIT FOR GOLF MEETS

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The Royal and Ancient Golf club, ruling body of golf in Great Britain, decided tonight to follow the lead of the United States in limiting to fourteen the number of clubs a player may carry in competition. The rule will become effective next season. The golf ball subcommittee reported it felt it soon would be necessary to change the standard ball to reduce distance, but it decided to confer with the U. S. G. A. before making any change.

Shea, who fills the position vacated when Del Baker became manager, was a Tiger catcher during Bucky Harris' régime at Detroit. Zeller also said Bing Miller, who became a Tiger coach this season, would be reengaged.

BERWANGER RUNS AGAIN, THIS TIME OVER MAROONS

Jay Berwanger, former star half back of the University of Chicago, returned to action yesterday and ran wild in scrimmage against the Maroon varsity on Stagg field. Berwanger played with the reserves and participated in all seven touchdowns scored by his team.

Also in the back field with Jay were three of his former mates—Omar Fareed, Vin Sahlin, and Tommy Flinn. Berwanger, now assistant coach at the Midway, seemed to have lost none of his old speed or deceptiveness. The varsity was on the defense throughout the drill, which was not played under game conditions.

To get the feel of their own gridiron the Maroons transferred their operations to Stagg field where they will meet Bradley Tech Saturday.

WOLVERINES SCRIMMAGE.

The line appeared at its best in completely smothering State plays executed by reserves. Ranking backs got their defensive workout against the passes which are expected to form the basis of the Spartan attack.

OHIO COUNTS ON SOPHS.

Columbus, O., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Coach Francis Schmidt told the Ohio State sophomore football candidates today that the success of the Buckeyes this fall was up to them. Schmidt indicated that at least five and probably six sophomores would see much service against Indiana Saturday.

In the back field Schmidt has Scott, Sexton, Langhurst, Strausbaugh, and Zuchegno, while on the line he has Nosker, Maag, and Spears.

The starting first team today had Bliss and Bartschy at ends, Aleskus and Kaplanoff at tackles, Marino and Nosker at guards, and Maag at center. In the back field were Sexton at quarter, Scott and Zadworney at halves, and Langhurst at full back.

HOOSIERS IMPROVE.

"They look a little better," McMillin remarked as the sophomore laden squad scrimmaged in preparation for its season's opener against Ohio State in Columbus Saturday. "Ohio State still looks better," McMillin continued, "but I believe we have a chance to beat them."

Improvement was noted in the Crimson's blocking during an offensive and defensive forward pass scrimmage against a freshman eleven. Five sophomores were on the first string team and likely will start against the Buckeyes. They are Al Sabol, tackle; Bill Smith, guard, Eddie Herbert, quarter back, and Joe Nicholson and Cobb Lewis, half backs.

SPONSORS LEFT OUT IN COLD BY WPA POLITICIANS

Those Who Pay Bills Get Scant Recognition.

[This is the eighteenth article in a series on the gigantic Works Progress administration political machine, compiled by three Tribune reporters after weeks of investigation. Today's article tells how the WPA political machine snatches all credit from local sponsors.]

BY WILL O'NEIL.

Major WPA executives constantly are using all the pressure they can muster to force local politicians to sponsor projects that will provide WPA jobs.

Take a good look at the next sign you see advertising a WPA project. The sponsors are given no credit for their part of the job. WPA'S press agents turn out volumes of copy concerning WPA. The name of the sponsoring agency and the part it plays often is hard to find in this copy.

Part of National Drive.

All this is part of the drive to make the Works Progress administration a national political machine. The man on the WPA job is made to feel that he owes his living to the WPA. The taxpayer who may gain some benefit from a WPA project is left with the impression that it is merely a matter of federal largess. An attempt is made to make the taxpayer feel that he owes nothing to his local governing officials for any benefits he may receive.

WPA's records show, however, that it isn't all a matter of a federal Santa Claus. Through last June 30 these records show $177,419,806 was spent on sponsored projects in Chicago. But 13.3 per cent of this, or $23,522,598, came out of taxes levied by the local sponsors.

The city of Chicago is by far the most important sponsor of WPA projects within the city limits. City sponsored projects employ about 75,000 of the 120,000 men and women on the WPA pay roll in Chicago.

Gets Most of Pressure.

The city, and more particularly the department of public works, receives most of the pressure from WPA for additional projects that will provide additional jobs for WPA to control. The city, because it must raise the money for those on the direct relief rolls, is the largest nut in WPA's cracker.

The park district ranks next to the city in the number of WPA employés with 25,000 men and women at work on its projects. The park district has much work that provides ideal jobs of the types wanted by WPA.

Thousands of men can be and are used on such jobs as grading, ditching, or planting grass. This work calls for unskilled labor and that is the most common type of labor that WPA has to offer.

Painters Belong to Union.

The school board has more than 6,000 WPAers working on construction projects and another 3,000 on educational projects. John C. Christensen, the school board architect, has about 200 painters working in the schools.

Christensen said all these men are union painters paid by WPA but working under the supervision of the board's own painters. These men, Christensen said, are careful, competent workmen who are doing an excellent job.

Walks are being laid and school grounds improved. Christensen refuses to allow WPA to send him more men than he can supervise in good fashion. He has limited the size of the gangs of men around the schools because of possible effect on the children.

Engineers in Charge.

"Every schol building has an engineer in charge who is boss of the WPA workers at his school," Christensen said. "If the engineer doesn't think the WPA men are working he can chase them off school property. With such close supervision we are getting good work done."

On the painting project, for example, the school board is putting up 20 per cent of the cost of the project. On the sidewalk project the board is paying for 25 per cent of the total cost. Although the board is spending only 7.8 per cent of the cost of the $2,500,000 grading project around the schools, the board is paying for nearly everything except the labor.

Other minor sponsors, such as the public library, account for the balance of the sponsors' projects and employés in the city. But the heart of the WPA program in Chicago is dependent on the city's own ability to keep going as a sponsor of projects.

Jail Four WPA Workers in Petty Larceny Cases

Four Works Progress administration workers were sent to jail for petty larceny yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in Town Hall court. Joseph Peters, 22 years old, and Henry Toflinski, 26, of 2828 North Maplewood avenue, were sent to the Bridewell for ten days for stealing fruit. Frank Vazzana, 31, of 4641 Kenmore avenue, and Herman Lang, 36, of 5210 Winthrop avenue, each received thirty days for stealing from a tavern.

RETIRED FARMER STRICKEN.

Edgar Godwin, 68 years old, a retired farmer of Mundelein, died of a heart attack yesterday as he was helping haul corn to the silo on a neighbor's farm. Twelve children survive.

FAME OF QUINTS IS FLEETING TO JURY IN BIG SUIT

'Strangers' Hear Claim for a Cool Million.

BY MARCIA WINN.

When Ivan I. Spear, Chicago promoter, awoke the morning of May 20, 1934, and read a brief news item about a Mrs. Dionne who had given birth to five baby girls, he had an idea.

Two days later, in Toronto, Ont., he told Oliva Dionne the quintuple birth was the "greatest human interest story since the armistice." Out of this statement made to Dionne, father of the mighty five, came the $1,000,000 lawsuit which opened yesterday betore Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Prices Human Interest High.

The $1,000,000 is Mr. Spear's quiet idea of what the Dionnes would have meant to him.

No doubt the dapper promoter [now of Hollywood] with dark, accordion pleated hair, was sad yesterday in the realization of how the Dionne miracle had been mishandled when twelve jurors who knew little or nothing about the quintuplets were selected with ease and celerity.

One talesman was dismissed because he has a brother-in-law living in Canada. Another because his sister-in-law once worked for the Five-and-ten [one of the defendants]. Another because he was too young, 22, and another because he was a grandfather.

But none because he knew too much about the quintuplets. None apparently did.

For the promotion rights which he lost, Spear is suing Pathe News, the Woolworth and Kresge ten cent store chains and Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the country doctor who has had charge of the quintuplets' medical care since birth. Dr. Dafoe is here.

Tells Dafoe's Rôle in Drama.

Just how Dr. Dafoe is allegedly involved was told by Theodore Kopelman, first witness for the plaintif, who accompanied Spear on his mad dash to Toronto.

Told how remarkable his family was, Dionne seemed delighted at the chance to capitalize on it, Kopelman related. A contract then was drawn up and signed giving Spear exclusive promotion and personal exhibition rights for the quintuplets—and 70 per cent of the returns. Dionne was to receive 23 per cent and his adviser, the Rev. Daniel Routhier, 7 per cent.

"I think we made an agreement beneficial to all," Kopelman testified blandly.

He and Spear hastened back to Chicago to see baby clothes' manufacturers, theatrical men and publicity concerns, he testified, cautioning Dionne not "to be swayed by others." Father Routhier he said answered for Dionne with, "I am a priest. My word is good. A contract is a contract."

Cancellation Beats Them Back.

But a telegram from Dionne arrived in Chicago before they did, Kopelman testified. It canceled the contract, but told Spear to hurry back to have "first chance" in new negotiations.

He and Spear hurried, only to be met by Dr. Dafoe, who said emphatically that the quintuplets could not be shown at A Century of Progress exposition as Spear had planned. "It may be that the babies could be moved," Kopelman quoted Dafoe as saying, "but I will not permit it."

Dafoe added, Kopelman testified, "I have no contract with you. Your contract is with Dionne. Anyway, we have decided it is no good."

GINGER ROGERS' THREAT WRITER TO BE DEPORTED

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday freed from probation John Anthony Buzas, 20 years old, so that he can be deported to Canada. Buzas was placed on two years' probation last year after pleading guilty to sending threatening letters to Ginger Rogers, movie star.

J. A. Buzas.

Buzas' brother, Frank, 19 years old, will be deported with him. An elder brother, Michael Jr., already has been sent back to Canada. The parents of the young men also are to be deported, possibly to Lithuania, their native land. They entered this country illegally in 1926 from Canada—where their sons were born as Canadian citizens. The parents' Canadian citizenship since has expired. Canada refuses to accept them and the American government is negotiating with Lithuania to take them. The parents live at 10835 Wabash avenue.

MRS. WILLING TOO OBLIGING; WOMAN GUNMAN GETS $160

Mrs. Martha Willing meant to pay the $160 interest on her mortgage Saturday. But yesterday a woman telephoned her, said she was a member of the family holding the mortgage, and asked for the money immediately. Mrs. Willing went to her bank and got it.

She was returning to her home at 5422 Agatite avenue when a woman all in black seized her arm, pretended to have a revolver under her coat, and hurried Mrs. Willing into an alley. "Keep walking," the woman ordered. "Don't look at me. I want the money." Mrs. Willing handed the cash to the mystery woman, who ordered her to "keep walking."

Wirt Morton, of 740 East Deerpath road, Lake Forest, yesterday filed a petition in the Lake county Circuit court to adopt his wife's son by her first marriage. Mr. Morton is a member of the wealthy Morton salt manufacturing family.

In July, 1935, Morton married Mrs. Katherine Mabbett, of Bronxville, N. Y., well known as a designer of women's sport clothes. The petition yesterday stated that Mrs. Morton has been unable to locate her former husband, Frederick Kenneth Mabbett. Their son is Kenneth Belden Mabbett, 13 years old.

AIR LINES UNITE TO FIGHT WINTER FLYING HAZARDS

Leaders of Industry Study Safeguards.

Winter flying will be made safer as a result of a program drawn up yesterday by operators of the nation's air lines. Leaders said the program, when completed, will be another milestone in the history of aviation.

Representatives of air lines met in the Blackstone hotel with T. O. Hardin of the safety board of the new Civil Aeronautics authority, and Charles Stanton, chief of airway construction of the CAA.

Accident Percentage Drops.

The operators pointed out that since 1930 the number of miles flown for each fatal accident has increased 300 per cent. The present figure is 12,000,000 miles per accident. Seeking to better this record they agreed, among the chief points in their safety program, to:

Eliminate competitive flying among lines. This requires adoption of standard weather regulations so that one line will not fly trips when other lines do not. These standards will vary according to terrain and other local factors.

Order reduced cruising speeds in the case of certain types of engines, to increase engine reliability and economy. This, too, is an important safety measure.

Maj. R. W. [Shorty] Schroeder of United Airlines was appointed chairman of a committee to set up the weather standards. To aid this work, the company has assigned Schroeder to devote his entire time to safety procedures, it was learned. He was formerly vice president in charge of operations.

To Improve Communications.

Snow static, a bugabear of winter radio communications with transports, may be overcome by use of ultra-high frequency receivers. These receivers are being given practical service tests in some air lines planes. Later an entire air line may be so equipped, it was said.

Facsimile transmitters were discussed but are not scheduled for use as yet. The advantage over radio telephones would be that a permanent record of flying orders received en route would be in the planes. It was pointed out that pilots already have many instruments to watch and that facsimile transmitters would add to the demands upon their vision.

CHICAGO SHORT 2½ MILLION FOR RELIEF NEEDS

Chicago faces an estimated deficit of $2,439,002 in direct relief funds for the period from Sept. 1 to Feb. 1. This was reported yesterday to the city council finance committee by Leo M. Lyons, commissioner of the Chicago Relief administration.

He said that relief budgets were reduced 15 per cent Sept. 1 and that they will continue at that level at least through January because the city has no other funds available. Despite the shortage, Chicago relievers will have more money to spend in this period than they had last winter and spring.

The shortage will be more than met by foodstuffs given to the relievers by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, Lyons said. This will provide a higher standard of relief, it was stated, than during last winter.

WORLD'S BIGGEST SHIP CHRISTENED BY BRITISH QUEEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GLASGOW, Scotland, Sept. 27.—Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain today at Clydebank christened the world's biggest ship with her own name—but the ship launched itself ahead of schedule.

Royal presence of mind saved the day, however, when the ship suddenly started to glide toward the water. The queen hastily snipped the ribbon holding a bottle of empire "champaigne" just in time for it to swing and smash against the prow before the huge hull got beyond reach. The hydraulic ram used to dislodge the last of the keel blocks had started the ship moving before the queen could press the button.

Over the whole ceremony hung the shadow of war. King George VI. remained in London to keep in touch with developments—if mobilization were decided upon he would have to sign the order. He sent a message by the queen telling the people "to be of good cheer in spite of the dark clouds hanging over them."

SEES HIGH HOPE IN CHILD STUDY, GLAND RESEARCH

New benefits for mankind can be achieved through study and solution of the problems of child behavior. Dr. John A. Wolfer, associate professor of surgery, expressed this belief yesterday in a Founders day address that opened the 80th annual session of the Northwestern university medical school.

"The spiritual revival of the human race," Dr. Wolfer said, "is not dependent upon religion or creed, dictator or gibbering politician. It is dependent upon a proper understanding of human psychic responses and their study during childhood."

Medical science, he asserted, can bring about other benefits by unlocking the secrets of the glands of internal secretion. He gave as an example the woman suffering from overactivity of the thyroid glands. She may be a tyrant or a parasite on her family, yet with proper medical care can be restored to comparative normality, he said.

Judge C. H. Thompson.

Judge Clyde H. Thompson of Dwight was found dead early yesterday in a room in the Sherman hotel. He had complained that he felt ill shortly after he registered Monday, and the hotel physician, Dr. Lee Kiel, was summoned. Dr. Kiel found the body in bed when he called yesterday morning after two visits to the jurist the previous day. A heart ailment was the cause of death, the doctor said. The body was sent to Dwight.

A judge of the 11th district of the Circuit court since June, 1933, Judge Thompson was 62 years old. He was born in Dwight. For several years he lived in Pontiac, where his father was Circuit court clerk. After his marriage to Miss Nellie Duckett in 1902 he returned to make his home in Dwight and practice law. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan.

Surviving are the widow, two daughters, Mrs. Arnold Hahn of Dwight and Mrs. Mary Jane Blumenthal of Rock Island, and a son, Hugh Thompson of Dwight.

Tyrrell Sullivan of 6208 North Claremont avenue, Chicago; Mrs. B. J. Cannon and Vincent of Milwaukee; and George of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

PRESIDENT PICKS GROUP TO PROBE RAIL PAY FIGHT

Action Will Delay Wage Cut, Strike.

President Roosevelt moved yesterday to settle the railroad wage dispute. He appointed a fact finding commission composed of three members to investigate the dispute and to make recommendations for its settlement. He acted as the result of a national emergency created when approximately 930,000 railroad workers said they would strike if the railroads put into effect a 15 per cent wage cut on Oct. 1.

The members of the board are Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of the North Carolina Supreme court, chairman; Prof. Harry A. Millis of the University of Chicago, and Dean James M. Landis of the Harvard Law school, Cambridge, Mass.

Delays Pay Cut and Strike.

Under the railway labor act, which provides that the President appoint a fact finding commission in the event of a national emergency, a status quo must be maintained for sixty days. The workers may not strike and the railroads are not permitted to put the wage cut into effect.

The commission has thirty days in which to investigate and make recommendations. Then another thirty days must elapse before either party to the dispute may take the case into its own hands. The recommendations of the fact finding commission are not binding in law on the two parties to the dispute. The theory is that neither party would dare to go against public opinion by moving contrary to the recommendations of the fact finding commission.

Will Start Work Today.

The commission is scheduled to start work in Washington tomorrow morning. Thus, it will be at least Dec. 1 before a railroad strike is possible, even should a settlement not be reached.

Members of the commission are paid for their services, the rate being fixed by law. Their pay is $75 a day—the same as that for referees of the National Railroad Adjustment board, which handles minor disputes involving railroads and their workers.

This is the first time since the present railway labor act, passed in 1926 and amended in 1934, has been in effect that a fact finding commission has been appointed to consider a case on a national scale. However, there have been several instances in which such commissions have been appointed to handle regional railroad disputes.

Judge Stacy, the chairman of the present commission, was born in Ansonville, N. C., in 1884 and was educated at the University of North Carolina. He is experienced in railroad and other labor disputes. He is a Democrat.

Served As Arbitrator.

He was a neutral arbitrator for the national mediation board in an engineers' dispute in 1928. In the same year he also was a member of a presidential emergency board in a wage dispute between western railroads and conductors and trainmen. He also has served in a number of other railroad labor cases.

Judge Stacy is reported to be a "middle of the road" jurist. One railroad official said yesterday that his handling of the dispute between the western railroads and the conductors and trainmen in 1928 had been fair.

Prof. Millis, who is a professor of economics at the University of Chicago, has had previous experience in handling labor disputes, although none has involved the railroads. Prof. Millis has been one of the best known economists in the country and he has been quoted as one of the country's most successful arbitrators in labor disputes. He was appointed a member of the National Labor Relations board by President Roosevelt, but resigned in 1935. He was born in Paoli, Ind., in 1873. Prof. Millis said yesterday that he plans to leave for Washington tomorrow.

Landis Holds Several Posts.

Landis once was a law clerk to Justice Brandeis of the United States Supreme court. He was a member of the federal trade commission from 1933 to 1935, was a member of the Securities and Exchange commission from 1934 to 1937, and was chairman of the latter organization from 1935 to 1937.

The fact finding commission will not have much time for its investigation, it was pointed out. It must examine witnesses and weigh evidence. There are nine railroad unions involved in the wage dispute and it is held likely that many of the union executives will want to be heard.

The railroads have been represented by the carriers' joint conference committee. H. A. Enochs, former trainman for the Pennsylvania railroad, is chairman of the railroad group.

Fact Finders in Rail Pay Dispute

Prof. H. A. Millis. Judge W. P. Stacy. Dean J. M. Landis.

President Roosevelt yesterday named these three men to a fact finding commission to study the railroad wage dispute. They have thirty days to investigate and make recommendations. The commission's appointment is provided for in the railway labor act as part of federal machinery for preventing strikes. Stacy is chairman.

Stocks Fall on Chamberlain's Views of Crisis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 27.—Selling in the last hour wiped out most early gains of fractions to around two points today to send the stock market to an irregularly lower close. The abrupt reversal was attributed to Wall street's disappointment over Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech on the central European situation.

The ticker lagged several minutes behind at the height of the selling. Prices slipped back near Monday's closing figures, and traders became nervous. An uncertain trend continued until the close. A total of 715 issues was traded, with 318 closing lower, 226 higher, and 171 unchanged. Price changes of the leaders were mostly small.

Traders Hear Address.

Prime Minister Chamberlain began his short address at 2 p. m. [New York time]. The New York Stock market closed at 3 p. m. [New York time], more than 45 minutes after the conclusion of the talk. Following are the Dow-Jones averages for 30 industrial stocks, showing the hour by hour movement on the New York market:

11 a. m. [N. Y. time]	130.81+0.90
Noon	131.33+1.42
1 p. m.	131.42+1.51
2 p. m.	131.92+2.01
Close	130.19+0.28

Only 771,210 shares changed hands, compared with 1,226,090 shares yesterday. The small turnover was caused, observers maintained, by the unwillingness of many operators to make commitments in view of the uncertainty of international developments.

Early Trend Upward.

Opening mixed, prices moved slowly upward in quiet trading as traders gained hope that war in Europe would be averted. Pivotal industrial leaders were prominent in the modest upturn. But they were quick to shed most or all of their gains in the late selling flurry.

General Motors recovered to 42⅞ at one time, then receded to 40½ for a point loss. Chrysler touched 67⅜, then dropped to 64¾, off 1¼ points. United States Steel closed unchanged at 51⅞ after reaching 53¾. Bethlehem also closed unchanged after being 2 points higher at one time.

Montgomery Ward slumped from 43 to 40½ in the last hour to lose one point net. Other merchandising issues reacted similarly, with losses fractional. Net losses in the leading rubbers did not exceed one point. United States Rubber was most active in the group.

Coppers Lose Early Gains.

Coppers were firm for a time, but they followed the main trend in the late trading.

Railroad shares closed mixed after moving in a narrow range. The strike vote called by the rail unions unnerved the section in the morning, but several leaders later turned buoyant and registered minor advances.

Public Utility issues were modestly lower in quiet trading. In the aviations, Douglas lost a substantial early gain to close unchanged.

Heavy machinery stocks were mixed at the close. General Electric, in fairly active trading, closed unchanged, as did Allis-Chalmers. Westinghouse and Deere gave ground. J. I. Case and International Harvester gained 1 and 1¼ points respectively.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was a bright spot in its group. It advanced 1½ points. Others were little changed one way or the other.

Little Change In 'Frisco.

British Premier Neville Chamberlain's speech caused a short flurry of selling, but nervousness had been allayed somewhat before the market closed. Thirteen issues closed higher on the day, 31 lower and 16 unchanged.

Richard Whitney Seeks Clerkship at Sing Sing

Ossining, N. Y., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Richard Whitney, former president of the New York Stock exchange, today was in line for a promotion at Sing Sing prison. It was reported he was tiring of teaching in the prison school and had applied for a clerkship in the office of Keeper John Sheehy. The job was vacated by the release of Leon Woodworth, former Republican leader of Pearl River, N. Y. Whitney is serving a term for theft of securities intrusted to his care when he was a Wall street broker.

LONDON STOCK MART TO CLOSE IF WAR COMES

Would Reopen Under Drastic Restrictions.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Arrangements for closing the London Stock exchange in case of war and for reopening it later under drastic restrictions were understood to have been perfected today by exchange officials.

Informed quarters said exchange committees responsible for market operations have canvassed all possibilities of wartime trading. No official announcement was made, however.

Minimum prices for a list of so-called gilt edged securities, including government bonds and higher priced stocks, were posted by dealers today in preparation for emergencies. This, it was hoped, would prevent panicky selling and bear raids.

Act to Head Off Bears.

Dealers said panic sales would originate in England and continental sources wishing to convert their holdings into currency or gold. Bear raids, which are organized selling drives designed to force prices down to permit repurchase later at a profit, were apparent last week. Exchange authorities feared a repetition might break the market.

The regulation was entirely directed by exchange authorities and there was no indication of government pressure. Authorities pointed out a precedent for such action was established at the outbreak of the world war when the stock exchange closed for five months, from July, 1914, to January, 1915.

Doubt Lengthy Closing.

Authorities did not believe another closing of such duration would be necessary because of the perfection of control plans, such as that begun today. The partial control demonstrated the exchange could police itself without government compulsion, authorities said.

If war is declared, exchange leaders said, they would inform the government there was no need to close for a long period to prevent demoralization of values because the exchange could handle the situation through "price control." One phase of the control, it was indicated, probably would be the placing of all transactions on a spot cash basis. This would eliminate the use of credit in trading.

Day's Trading Quiet.

Today's trading indicated the effectiveness of the program. It was quiet, without a rush either to sell or buy. Wide differences existed between buying and selling quotations outside the list of controled issues.

The British government war loan today was 93, compared with yesterday's range of 90 to 98 and yesterday's final transaction of 92½. British government 2½s were quoted today at 66, against a range yesterday of 65 to 70. Czech government 8s were nominally at 28, compared to quotations in the 50s last week. All British government securities under control were higher.

Paris bourse prices were mixed. Stocks improved in Berlin and Amsterdam.

U. S. AND FILM OFFICIALS WILL CONFER TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Representatives of motion picture companies involved in the government's anti-trust suit will confer tomorrow with Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust operations.

The delegation will be headed by William Donovan of New York, counsel for the motion picture interests. Justice department officials denied that the discussions will deal with possible settlement of the suit out of court. They said the motion picture interests requested the conference.

The discussions are expected to center on the government's request that the companies refrain from additional theater purchases until the case is decided. The government has complained that negotiations have been proceeding on theater acquisitions and that the practice may interfere with the government's suit.

District National Bank Will Reduce Senior Stock

Clarke Washburne, president of the District National bank, 1110 West 35th street, said yesterday that the bank will retire $2,000 of preferred stock today. A stock dividend of a corresponding amount will be distributed to common stock holders. The operation will leave the bank with $102,000 of common stock and $98,000 of preferred stock.

I. C. C. SUSPENDS ORDER ON TRUCK DRIVERS' HOURS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today suspended its order regulating hours for truck drivers and requiring the drivers to keep a log of their trips.

The order provided that no truck driver could work more than 60 hours in any week or more than 10 hours in any period of 24 consecutive hours.

The effective date of the order was suspended until Dec. 31. Previously it had been scheduled to go into effect Oct. 1.

The commission said protests had been received and that it had been decided to open the matter for further hearings. The hearings will be held in Chicago Nov. 4.

RUSH OF FUNDS TO U. S. BOOSTS DOLLAR AGAIN

Scared Foreigners Seek Safe Medium.

War scared foreigners intensified their efforts yesterday to get their capital out of the potential European war zone. The demand for American currency sent the dollar to greater premiums in relation to other moneys.

The rise in the value of the dollar continued in the face of a moderate fall in the price of gold in London. The easing in the gold price developed as Europeans sought to convert their gold holdings into dollars. Dollar credits in this country, it was pointed out, might be a safer haven for capital in the event of war than a gold hoard at home subject to government confiscation.

Gold 2 Cents Lower.

Gold was quoted in London at 145 shillings 6 pence an ounce, off 1 pence [about 2 cents] from the preceding day. The London price was equivalent to $34.48. Until yesterday both the dollar and gold had been rising in value for several weeks in relation to chief European currencies.

The rise in the dollar was faster than the rise in the gold price with the result that the London price of gold when converted into American currency has been falling.

British currency again displayed the greatest weakness on exchange dealings in New York, London, and Paris. It fell to its lowest point while Prime Minister Chamberlain was making his speech about his peace negotiations.

Control Fund Intervenes.

After Chamberlain's speech was over the British monetary control fund intervened in the market and the pound rallied moderately.

The pound closed in New York at $4.72⅜, off 2⅞ cents, the lowest figure since 1935. The French franc finished 0.0225 cent lower at 2.63¾ cents. Currencies of Belgium and Holland, "neutral countries," closed slightly higher.

The close link that has been maintained between British and Holland currencies was severed by the Dutch monetary authorities. The Bank of the Netherlands ceased buying pounds because offerings were so heavy. The pound will be allowed to seek its own level in relation to the guilder.

Directors of the Bank of France raised the rediscount rate on security loans from 2½ to 3 per cent. The action was regarded as being a result of the international situation. The increase in the rate tends to discourage transfers of capital from the country.

More Gold Arrives in N. Y.

More gold reached New York during the day and the Federal Reserve bank announced additional engagements for later shipment. The liner Normandie unloaded a shipment of $27,500,000 gold from England of which $25,600,000 was consigned directly to the reserve bank.

The reserve bank said that $2,800,000 was engaged in England and $300,000 in Holland for shipment to New York. Imports recorded in the reserve bank's daily statement included $19,843,000 from England and $2,619,000 from Canada.

In Washington the federal treasury reported its gold holdings at $13,626,285,106 as of Sept. 24, an increase of $24,737,000 over the preceding day.

Study Effects on Pact.

Exchange experts were studying the possible effects of the outbreak of war on the monetary agreement between the United States, Great Britain, France, and other countries. In official quarters it was stated that the value of the agreement might be greatly enhanced by actual war. This would depend, however, on the exchange restrictions imposed on countries involved in the war.

The agreement provides for intergovernment exchange of gold at rates agreed to daily and binds each country not to engage in competitive depreciation. The exchange of gold, it was pointed out, is being made daily. So far, it is said, the depreciation that has occurred has not been planned but comes as a result of unforseen circumstances.

TWO TELEGRAPH FIRMS CONDUCT ECONOMY TEST

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The Western Union Telegraph company and the Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation are conducting an experiment to effect economies in service to large commercial users, it was disclosed today. The experiment is being made in coöperation with the American Telephone and Telegraph company. It is being conducted in Cleveland, O.

The arrangement calls for transmission of telegraph messages on A. T. & T. teletype machines, thus eliminating the need for operation of both Western Union and Postal Telegraph machines along with A. T. & T. instruments.

Under the agreement between the telegraph companies and A. T. & T., the companies will pay a flat rental of $12.50 a month for the use of A. T. & T. teletype instruments. The telegraph companies also will pay 5 cents a minute for transmission, compared with the previous regular 20 cent minimum charge.

PRICES OF AUTOS CUT BY BUICK AND STUDEBAKER

Price reductions were announced yesterday by the Buick division of the General Motors corporation and by the Studebaker corporation on 1939 automobile models.

Harlow E. Curtice, president of Buick, said $51 has been taken off Buick's series 40 and 60 and $102 has been taken from the prices of the larger series 80 and 90. The reductions, amounting to about 5 per cent, place Buick prices at about 1936 levels. Curtice said the new prices include several accessories which were not on the 1938 models or which were optional on them.

Studebaker announced that the price of the President line will be reduced $95 from the 1938 model price. This year the company has only one six cylinder model, which is priced at the same level as last year's standard six. However, this year's "six" carries approximately two-thirds of the extras which were featured on the de luxe "six" last year. These extras were valued at about $75.

INSURANCE CONCERNS SUSPEND WAR RISK ON CARGOES TO GERMANY

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—Indicating their fear that war may break out shortly, insurance underwriters in New York today suspended all war risk protection on all cargoes bound for Germany. The suspension applied to shipments being made both direct to Germany and via other countries.

Rates on cargoes to other countries were doubled again. In some cases the new rates are 200 times what they were before the present war crisis developed.

Rates on cargoes to England and France were fixed at $2 per $100. Rates on goods shipped to the United States and Canada from England and France were placed at $1 per $100.

For goods destined to Mediterranean ports the rates were placed at $4 per $100. Rates on cargoes to ports beyond the Mediterranean and Suez were placed at $5 per $100. These rates compared with 2½ cents per $100 before the crisis.

C. & E. I. ROAD'S AUGUST REVENUE FALLS TO $50,820

Net operating income of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad for August was $50,820, compared with $94,186 in August, 1937, the road reported yesterday. For the first eight months of this year the road had a deficit of $55,938 against $740,975 net operating income in the like 1937 period. Net operating income is income before payment of bond interest and other fixed charges.

CHICAGO DISTRICT PAY ROLLS MOVE UP 3.4 PER CENT

Pay rolls in August increased 3.4 per cent over July in the 7th federal reserve district. George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, made this report yesterday. The number of workers rose 0.1 per cent in August, the report showed.

For nearly all groups, manufacturing and nonmanufacturing, job and wage totals were substantially less than for 1937, Schaller said. Employment in August was off 20 per cent and wage payments were down 38 per cent, compared with August, 1937.

In the durable goods manufacturing group, the number of workers in August declined 1.7 per cent, compared with July, but wages were up 4 per cent. For the construction industry, jobs increased 7.3 per cent and wages rose 6.5 per cent in August as compared with July.

Meat packing output, the summary said, rose counterseasonally in August to 4 per cent over July, and was 23 per cent ahead of August, 1937. Wage payments in the industry gained 2 per cent over July, and jobs were up 3 per cent, but the number of hours worked declined 1 per cent.

TRUSTEE URGES MIDLAND UTILITY GROUP COMBINE

Reorganization of the Midland United company and Midland Utilities company into a single unit was suggested by Hugh M. Morris, surviving trustee for both companies, in his annual reports yesterday. The two reports, for the year ended June 30, 1938, were filed in the United States District court for the district of Delaware. John N. Shannahan, former trustee, died on Aug. 16.

Midland Utilities, the top company, and its subsidiary, Midland United, are former members of the Insull utilities empire. They went into reorganization proceedings in 1934. The Midland system serves 866 communities with a population of more than 1,600,000. It blankets Indiana, except for Indianapolis, with its electric power distribution, and also owns gas, water, and traction companies.

SCOPE OF NEW SLUM CLEARING PLAN OUTLINED

Architects Told of Rebuilding Aim.

BY AL CHASE.

A new method of wiping out city slums, first outlined in the graphic section of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE Aug. 14, was explained in detail for the first time last night by one of its originators.

Paul D. Angell, vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board, discussed the plan before the Illinois Society of Architects at its first fall meeting at the Architects' club of Chicago. Elmer C. Jensen, president of the society, presided.

Angell told the architects and other prominent Chicagoans about the proposed "public service building corporation." He asserted that if this agency to conquer depreciated areas is made possible by legislation at Springfield it may be the answer to the pressing question, "What to do with the slum?"

Cites Two Alternatives.

The legislature of Illinois has only two alternatives in acting to eradicate slums, Angell said. These, he said are: To accept federal grants for so-called "low cost housing," or to devise a new method socially desirable and economically sound.

"A comprehensive study of the proposed public service building corporation, and the opportunities it offers as a vehicle of rebuilding the depreciated districts of our cities, will convince the legislature of its practicability and economic soundness," he said.

The proposed public service building corporation would have the right to condemn land in slum areas, designated as such by a state commission, after it had acquired a fractional part of its site, Angell said.

Stresses Service to Nation.

He said the public service corporations have contributed much to the prosperity and progress of the nation. This country leads the world in public services such as the telephone, telegraph, gas, and electric light, he said.

Building construction is America's great new frontier, Angell said, adding that a vast home building program is the greatest single opportunity for business and industrial recovery. The federal government's approach to this problem, he said, has been the adoption of a charitable viewpoint of housing the poor and underprivileged. This experiment is both costly and erroneous, he said.

Scientific Approach Urged.

"If we are to treat the problem of slum clearance as part of a comprehensive program of national shelter production and thus provide the frontier advantages to a lagging national economy, we must adopt a scientific approach to the problem," Angell said.

"This approach must be legally feasible, economically sound, and socially desirable. The public service building corporation may provide the way to that approach. While it is

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—The bond market tried to rally today but weakened again after Chamberlain's speech. Price movements were erratic at the close, but most of the list lost early gains to finish lower.

Czech government issues sold today 6 to 8 points below the last sale. German issues rose slightly in the early trading but weakened to close unchanged. French 7½s stamped were up a small fraction at 100⅛.

United States government obligations were irregular throughout the session. Treasury loans were mostly higher early but edged off toward the close. The treasury 3¼s of 1952-'49 slumped 30-32ds of a point in small volume. Other treasury issues ranged between losses to half a point and gains to 7-32ds.

Domestic corporate bonds were mostly off fractions to around 2 points. A few, however, managed to maintain most of their early gains.

Rails were mixed at the finish after showing early strength. Utilities held their gains better than any other group. Industrials were irregularly lower.

Volume of sales today was $4,775,800 face value, compared with $6,932,775 in yesterday's trading.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks slipped in the last hour of trading yesterday to close unevenly. Twenty issues closed higher, 30 lower, and 18 held unchanged. The Tribune average of 20 stocks finished up 0.02 at 9.60.

Most volume leaders closed lower. Bendix Aviation, Zenith Radio, Marshall Field, Houdaille Hershey B and Butler Brothers common lost fractions. Commonwealth Edison and Jaris were fractionally higher.

The executive committee of the Chicago Stock exchange announced yesterday that it had approved the application of Standard Oil company of Indiana to list its 15,280,826 shares of capital stock. Listing of the 2,831,041 capital shares of the Aviation corporation and 108,361 shares of Checker Cab Manufacturing corporation was also approved. The shares will be admitted to trading when the registration becomes effective under the securities exchange act of 1934.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were irregular yesterday in light trading. First National shares closed $7 higher at $197 bid, $201 asked, and stock of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company finished 50 cents higher at $58.50 bid, $60.50 asked. Off $5 were Northern Trust shares, which closed at $480 bid, $490 asked.

COTTON

Heavy buying of October cotton in New York featured trading in American markets yesterday. Deliveries of about 44,000 bales of spot cotton on October contracts led to scattered liquidation at the opening. The selling was absorbed quickly by New Orleans and spot houses, and a rally followed. Closing trades were .14 cent a pound higher.

Other futures firmed in sympathy with October and the rally in securities, closing .05 cent higher to .04 cent a pound lower.

Trading in cotton textiles was reported low because of the Jewish holidays and the European situation. Spot cotton closed .03 to .05 cent higher, with New Orleans, 7.93 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 7.83 cents a pound. Prices follow:

WHEAT SWINGS TO WAR NEWS; SLUMPS, RALLIES

Closing Prices Moderately Lower for Day.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .66⅞	$ .67½	$1.08⅛
Corn	.50¾	.51¾	.65⅛
Oats	.26¾	.26¾	.31⅛
Rye	.45⅞	.45½	.80⅝
Soy beans	.77⅝	.78⅛	.93¼

Price fluctuations in the wheat market yesterday were extremely erratic. Selling orders appeared when the news from Europe suggested the possibility of a peaceable solution of the German-Czechoslovakian affair. Prices were about 2 cents a bushel lower at one time, but a strong rally came shortly before the close which wiped out the larger part of the decline.

Closing trades on wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of ⅝ to ⅝ cent. Winnipeg prices rallied 1 cent from the low point but closed 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents lower. Liverpool futures were 1⅜ to 2 cents lower. Messages from the English market said trading was largely in the way of evening up uncompleted contracts.

Britain Buys American Lard.

Confirmation was obtained yesterday that England had purchased 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 pounds of American lard in the last two weeks. Brokers expressed the belief that the "pegged" price reported to have been imposed on cash lard in the United Kingdom was the result of light stocks. Lard futures declined 10 to 17½ cents per 100 pounds early yesterday, but rallied on buying attributed to exporters and closed only 2½ to 10 cents lower.

Export sales of 500,000 bushels of Canadian cash wheat were reported.

A press report that the United Kingdom had a food reserve equal to one year's requirements was regarded by brokers as a misstatement of fact as far as wheat was concerned. The United Kingdom import requirements of foreign wheat for the 1938-1939 season are estimated by the bureau of agricultural economics at 217,000,000 bushels.

Report Drouths Abroad.

Dry weather reports were received yesterday from Argentina, Australia, and Russia. Rainfall in Argentina so far this month is said to have been below normal.

Corn futures closed ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel lower. Continued liberal offerings of old grain for deferred shipment from the country were a factor. There also was selling based on the belief that the cancelation of war risk insurance on cargoes of grain shipped to German ports would result in a much smaller foreign demand for American corn. The country sold 210,000 bushels of corn for shipment to Chicago.

Watch Case Industry.

Factories making watch cases for sale numbered twenty-nine in 1937, the same number reported for 1935. The total includes only plants with an annual output valued at $5,000 or more. Establishments which install purchased movements in cases of their own manufacture are not included in the data for the watch case industry.

The twenty-nine factories had an average of 2,451 wage earners in 1937 and 2,016 in 1935. Wages paid, exclusive of amounts paid to officers and salaried employés, totaled $3,156,276 in 1937 and $2,328,602 in 1935. The cost of materials, supplies, fuel, and electricity for the two years, respectively, was $4,181,883 and $2,760,191. The value of the products was $10,057,644 in 1937 and $6,982,892 in 1935.

In 1937 men's solid gold, platinum or silver watch cases numbering 45,759 and worth $689,379 were produced. Men's gold filled cases numbered 2,031,077 and were valued at $2,755,246. Those made of base metals numbered 1,007,976, worth $516,898. The number and value for women's watch cases according to type of metal, were: Solid gold, platinum, or silver, 72,237 and $1,054,055; gold filled, 2,025,915 and $1,794,645; base metals, 21,555 and $177,971.

Slum Clearance Plan Explained

THREAT OF WAR BLOCKS FOREIGN WHEAT TRADING

High Insurance Curbs Ocean Shipments.

International trading in cash wheat was reported yesterday to be at a standstill. Liverpool messages said business was confined to the purchase of grain about to arrive at United Kingdom and continental ports. Traders had rumors yesterday that the British government would announce shortly that it would underwrite war risk insurance.

High war risk insurance rates are reported to be hampering business in wheat for forward shipment to Europe. London yesterday quoted the war risk rate on Australian and Indian wheat shipped via the Suez canal equal to 5 cents a bushel.

German Buying to End.

War risk rates on shipments of grain to German ports were canceled. This is expected to prevent any further business with that country in Canadian wheat and American corn.

Germany is reported to have been the buyer of approximately one-third of the 136,000,000 bushels of corn exported from the United States since Nov. 1, 1937.

Famine looms as a possibility in parts of Russia, it was reported yesterday. The Russian wheat crop this season is estimated by the bureau of agricultural economics to be 25 to 30 per cent less than in 1937.

Heat, Drouth in Russia.

Heat and drouth affected severely all spring grain and to a lesser extent winter grain in a large area of the soviet union, according to a report from L. F. Michael, United States agricultural attaché at Belgrade. The quality of wheat and rye is poor generally, he said.

It is probable that the soviet government's carryover and procurements will be sufficient to supply the urban and other nonrural demand better than in 1936, when a severe drouth also was experienced.

The situation with respect to the urban supply of such vegetables as cabbage and potatoes may be as bad as in 1936-'37. The feed grain situation is worse than in 1936, Michael reported.

FHA Mortgage Appraisal Volume 23 Million in Week

The Federal Housing administration reported yesterday in Washington, D. C., that the total of mortgages selected for appraisals last week were more than double the volume in the same week last year. The total, $23,568,945, was down slightly from the record breaking $24,186,383 reported the preceding week.

Business Bits

The Mortgage Bankers Association of America will hold its twenty-fifth annual convention in Chicago Oct. 12 to 14. The announcement was made yesterday by Walter L. Cohrs, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago and president of the association. Eight divisional meetings will be included in the convention.

William Weigand, for many years with the Bartlett-Frazier company, has become associated with Thomson & McKinnon.

Seven hundred trust officers will gather at the Stevens hotel tomorrow morning for the opening session of the ninth Mid-Continent Trust conference. Samuel C. Waugh, vice president of the trust division of the American Bankers' association, will preside. The conference is sponsored by the association.

J. A. Herlihy has been named vice president in charge of operations of the United Air Lines.

Three speakers today will discuss the fall and winter business outlook at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The luncheon will be held at 12:15 p. m. in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. The speakers will be Oscar G. Mayer, John D. Black, and John L. Clarkson.

GRAIN FIRM MAY SELL SOME OF ITS ELEVATORS

James W. McCulloh, vice president of the Bartlett-Frazier company, said last night the company is considering the sale of certain of its grain elevators. Earlier this week the company announced it was discontinuing its commodity commission and securities brokerage business.

McCulloh said the company has no immediate plans for going out of business entirely. Such a step, he said, may be taken later, depending on conditions in the grain business.

The firm is one of the oldest cash grain houses in Chicago. It has been one of the leading companies operating on the Chicago Board of Trade for the last forty years. The company operates several large grain elevators.

SCOPE OF NEW SLUM CLEARING PLAN OUTLINED

Architects Hear Angell Describe Aims.

"The initial step requires an act to be passed by the state legislature. This act should define specifically what constitutes a depreciated area. It might be limited to cities of more than 150,000 population."

Suggests Details of Law.

Angell suggested that slum areas be specifically designated as such, with their boundaries given. The preamble to the act should state that the demolition of the area, or any part of it, and its rebuilding by public service building corporations would be a public benefit, he said.

"Generally speaking," he added, "the act must provide for the creation of public service building corporations and describe the method of obtaining a charter. It should define the powers and limitations of it.

"The act must mold the public service building corporation after the pattern of the existing public service companies. Its organization and control should be such as to make it acceptable to the general public as a medium for investment of capital.

Recommends Limitations.

"The act should impose other controls and limitations to protect the community at large and the investing public, and guarantee the faithful discharge of its obligations under the law."

The activities of the corporation would be restricted to slum clearance and rebuilding. They would be subject to city zoning and planning activities, he said.

No limitation, however, should be put on cost of building improvements, on rentals charged or on dividends earned, Angell declared.

"In the absence of monopoly the law of supply and demand may be depended upon to operate to the advantage of the people," he said. "There is no possible basis to be found for limiting the dividends of a service corporation in this field of enterprise."

Constructive Feature Noted.

The chief constructive feature of the proposed public service building corporation act, Angell said, would be the fact that large districts would be contemporaneously affected by demolition and rebuilding on a competitive basis.

"It is not inconceivable to suppose that within a few years from the passage of the act, the slum districts, usually located in the heart of the city, enveloping and smothering the downtown retail areas, may be transformed into healthy residential communities," he declared.

Two other Chicagoans who collaborated for several years with Angell in developing the public service building corporation idea were present. They are: J. Soule Warterfield, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board and vice president of Starrett Brothers, and Arthur Kruggel, president of the Chicago Real Estate board.

Other Leaders Attend.

Other leaders who showed interest in the project by attending were: Alfred Shaw, president of the Metropolitan Housing council; Joe W. McCarthy, chairman of the Chicago Housing authority; Russell Crevison, president of the Producers' council; Elmer C. Roberts, president of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects, and Hugh E. Young, chief engineer of the Chicago Plan commission.

ERIE BOND GROUP FILES NEW PLAN TO REORGANIZE

Wants Control Retained by Chesapeake & Ohio.

New York, Sept. 27.—[Special.]—A committee for the Erie railroad's $100,000,000 of 5 per cent refunding bonds, headed by Wilfred Kurth, chairman of the Home Insurance company, plans to file with the interstate commerce commission next week a plea of reorganization. The plan would guarantee that control of the Erie by the Chesapeake and Ohio would remain in escrow for the next five years.

Kurth's company issues policies for fire and other property risks. His committee's plan has not as yet received the approval of the larger life insurance companies and savings banks. However, the committee believes this approval will be forthcoming.

Management Prepares Plan.

The plan of the Kurth committee would cut the fixed interest charges of the Erie by about 50 per cent.

An unusual feature of the plan is that the new stock to be issued to junior bond holders would be under option to the present stockholders at a given price for five years.

The Chesapeake and Ohio holds more than 50 per cent of Erie stocks through a $45,000,000 investment. The last block of stock was bought from the Alleghany corporation about ten days after the Erie went into bankruptcy last January.

Want Stock in Escrow.

The new Erie stock would be placed in escrow and certificates issued against it. These certificates would carry the usual voting rights, but they would carry a provision that the holder would have to sell the stock represented by the certificate to old Erie stockholders at the stated price until five years had elapsed.

This would mean that junior bond holders could realize cash from the sale of the certificates, but that the buyers would incur the obligation to sell the Erie stock to the Chesapeake-Ohio or other stockholders.

Technicolor, Inc.

Investors' Guide: I would like a report on the stock of Technicolor, Inc. —B. K. V.

Answer: Technicolor, Inc., is a holding company whose subsidiaries manufacture films for taking motion pictures in natural colors. The process by which the films are produced is patented in many countries.

An expansion program designed to increase capacity of Technicolor's plants to approximately 130,000,000 feet of release prints a year was announced by the company in May. Apparently the expansion was already well under way because the company said in announcing its program that production in February and March was at the rate of 100,000,000 feet a year. Until the program began, the capacity was about 70,000,000 feet a year. About $1,000,000 is being spent in connection with the expansion.

Contracts were signed with three major motion picture producers last year for production of 18 pictures in Technicolor. Contracts also were made with two other producers for 10 features. Walt Disney signed a two year Technicolor contract last year. The motion picture companies were given options in these contracts to purchase Technicolor stock at stipulated prices.

There are approximately 804,000 shares of no par capital stock outstanding. A 50 cent payment, only dividend so far this year, was made June 15. Payments last year aggregated 75 cents. Total assets were $8,136,729 at the end of 1937. Current assets were $3,010,831 and current liabilities were $465,904.

This map delineates the supposed deal by which Poland deserted France for alliance with Germany. Poland would give Germany the Polish corridor (1) and in return would get Teschen (in Czechoslovakia) (2) and Lithuania (3). The Poles then might have a free hand in Latvia and Estonia. Russia has completed plans for invasion of Poland should Germany attack Czechoslovakia. The Russians have designated Smolensk (4), which has the largest air field in Russia, as military headquarters. Efforts are being made to complete a Moscow-Minsk highway which is wide enough for plane landings (5). Two Red armies have been formed which will attack through Vilna corridor (A) toward East Prussia and across Polish Galicia (B) toward Czechoslovakia.
